The following Regulations are to be observed by the lessees and occupiers, and all persons having the care and controul of the Wallasey

Powder Magazines, opposite Liverpool, and are issued under the authority of the Master-General of Her Majesty's Ordnance, pursuant to the provisions of an Act of the 14 and 15 Queen Victoria, chapter 67. Any person failing to observe these Regulations will be guilty of a misdemeanor, and punished accordingly:

1. The premises are to be watched by a warder by day, and a civil watchman during the night. The warder and watchman are not to permit any person but such as are employed in the service to go into the magazines or the enclosures of them. They are not to allow any persons to smoke near the magazines, nor are they to suffer any person to come within the outer gates that has the least appearance of intoxication. In the event of either of those cases occurring, they are immediately to secure the parties offending, and report the circumstance to the storekeeper.
2. All vessels laden with powder lying off the magazines are required to hoist a red flag at the mast head, and the same is not to be removed so long as such vessels remain with powder on board.
3. That 4 poles be erected above high-water mark in that portion of the river in which it is intended to moor powder vessels, to mark off the space within which such vessels are to be placed; 2 of such poles to be fixed to the northward, and 2 to the southward.
4. Whenever barrels or cases containing gunpowder are put into or taken out of carts, such work is required to be superintended by a cooper.
5. When powder is transported by carts, in barrels or cases, it is required that the bottom of the cart shall be covered by a piece of dry white canvas, having a tanned hide underneath, in order to shew whether the barrels or cases are at all defective, which would be easily detected by finding any escape of powder in the transit to or from the vessel. Gutta percha covers must be placed over the barrels or cases.

Such other regulations and precautions practised by the resident inspector and storekeeper to prevent accidents whilst removing and storing gunpowder, and enumerated in the Liscard Code of Regulations, printed and signed "Richard Radcliffe, Town Clerk of Liverpool," are, in all cases applicable to the magazines at Wallasey, to be strictly followed.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JANUARY 16, 1852.

Convention between Her Majesty and the French Republic, for the Establishment of International Copyright.

Signed at Paris, November 3, 1851.

[Ratifications exchanged at Paris, January 8, 1852.]

HER Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and the President of the French Republic, being equally desirous of extending in each country the enjoyment of copyright to works of literature and of the fine arts which may be first published in the other; and Her Britannic Majesty having consented to extend to books, prints, and musical works published in France, that reduction of the duties now levied thereon on importation into the United Kingdom, which she is by law empowered to grant, under certain circumstances, in favour of such works published in foreign countries; Her Britannic Majesty and the President of the French Republic have deemed it expedient to conclude a special Convention for that purpose, and have therefore named as their Plenipotentaries, that is to say:—

Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Constantine Henry, Marquess of Normanby, a Peer of the United Kingdom, Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, and Knight Grand Cross of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath, &c., Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to the French Republic;

And the President of the French Republic, M. Lewis Felix Stephen Turgot, Officer of the National Order of the Legion of Honour, Knight of the Royal Order of San Fernando of Spain, Second Class, &c. &c., and Minister for the Department of Foreign Affairs;

Who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following Articles:—

ARTICLE I.

From and after the date on which, according to the provisions of Article XIV, the present Convention shall come into operation, the authors of works of literature or of art, to whom the laws of either of the two countries do now or may hereafter give the right of property, or copyright, shall be entitled to exercise that right in the territories of the other of such countries for the same term, and to the same extent, as the authors of works of the same nature, if published in such other country would therein be entitled to exercise such right; so that the republication or piracy in either country, of any work of literature or of art, published in the other, shall be dealt with in the same manner as the republication or piracy of a work of the same nature first published in such other country; and so that such authors in the one country shall have the same remedies before the courts of justice in the other country, and shall enjoy in that other country the same protection against piracy and unauthorized republication, as the law now does or may hereafter grant to authors in that country.

The terms "works of literature or of art," employed at the beginning of this Article, shall be understood to comprize publications of books, of dramatic works, of musical compositions, of drawing, of painting, of sculpture, of engraving, of lithography, and of any other works whatsoever of literature and of the fine arts.

The lawful representatives or assigns of authors, translators, composers, painters, sculptors, or engravers, shall, in all respects, enjoy the same rights which by the present Convention are granted to the authors, translators, composers, painters, sculptors, or engravers themselves.

ARTICLE II.

The protection granted to original works is extended to translations; it being, however, clearly understood, that the intention of the present Article is simply to protect a translator in respect of his own translation, and that it is not intended to confer upon the first translator of any work the exclusive right of translating that work, except in the case and to the extent provided for in the following Article.

ARTICLE III.

The author of any work published in either of the two countries, who may choose to reserve the right of translating it, shall, until the expiration of five years from the date of the first publication of the translation thereof authorized by him, be, in the following cases, entitled to protection from the publication in the other country of any translation of such work not so authorized by him :

§ 1. If the original work shall have been registered and deposited in the one country within three months after its first publication in the other.

§ 2. If the author has notified on the title-page of his work his intention to reserve the right of translating it.

§ 3. Provided always, that at least a part of the authorized translation shall have appeared within a year after the registration and deposit of the original, and that the whole shall have been published within three years after the date of such deposit.

§ 4. And provided that the publication of the translation shall take place within one of the two countries, and that it shall be registered and deposited according to the provisions of Article VIII.

With regard to works which are published in parts, it will be sufficient if the declaration of the author that he reserves the right of translation, shall appear in the first part. But with reference to the period of five years limited by this Article for the exercise of the exclusive right of translation, each part shall be treated as a separate work, and each part shall be registered and deposited in the one country within three months after its first publication in the other.

ARTICLE IV.

The stipulations of the preceding Articles shall also be applicable to the representation of dramatic works, and to the performance of musical compositions, in so far as the laws of each of the two countries are or shall be applicable in this respect to dramatic and musical works first publicly represented or performed therein.

In order, however, to entitle the author to legal protection in regard to the translation of a dramatic work, such translation must appear within three months after the registration and deposit of the original.

It is understood that the protection stipulated by the present Article is not intended to prohibit fair imitations, or adaptations of dramatic works to the stage in England and France respectively, but is only meant to prevent piratical translations.

The question whether a work is an imitation or a piracy, shall in all cases be decided by the courts of justice of the respective countries, according to the laws in force in each.

ARTICLE V.

Nothwithstanding the stipulations of Article I and II of the present Convention, articles extracted from newspapers or periodicals published in either of the two countries, may be republished or translated in the newspapers or periodicals of the other country, provided the source from whence such articles are taken be acknowledged.

Nevertheless, this permission shall not be construed to authorize the republication in one of the two countries, of articles from newspapers or periodicals published in the other country, the authors of which shall have notified in a conspicuous manner in the journal or periodical in which such articles have appeared, that they forbid the republication thereof.

ARTICLE VI.

The importation into and the sale in either of the two countries of piratical copies of works which are protected from piracy under Articles I, II, III, and V of the present Convention, are prohibited, whether such piratical copies originate in the country where the work was published, or in any other country.

ARTICLE VII.

In the event of an infraction of the provisions of the foregoing Articles, the pirated works or articles shall be seized and destroyed; and the persons who may have committed such infraction shall be liable in each country to the penalties and actions which are or may be prescribed by the laws of that country for such offences, committed in respect of a work or production of home origin.

ARTICLE VIII.

Neither authors, nor translators, nor their lawful representatives or assigns, shall be entitled in either country to the protection stipulated by the preceding Articles, nor shall copyright be claimable in either country, unless the work shall have been registered in the manner following, that is to say:—

1°. If the work be one that has first appeared in France, it must be registered at the Hall of the Company of Stationers in London.

2°. If the work be one that has first appeared in the dominions of Her Britannic Majesty, it must be registered at the Bureau de la Librairie of the Ministry of the Interior at Paris.

No person shall be entitled to such protection as aforesaid, unless he shall have duly complied with the laws and regulations of the respective countries in regard to the work in respect of which such protection may be claimed. With regard to books, maps, prints, or musical publications, no person shall be entitled to such protection, unless he shall have delivered gratuitously, at one or other of the places mentioned above, as the case may be, one copy of the best edition, or in the best state, in order to its being deposited at the place appointed for that purpose in each of the two countries; that is to say, in Great Britain, at the British Museum at London; and in France, at the National Library at Paris.

In every case, the formality of deposit and registration must be fulfilled within three months after the first publication of the work in the other country. With regard to works published in parts, the period of three months shall not begin to run until the date of the publication of the last part, unless the author shall have notified his intention to reserve the right of translating it, as provided in Article III; in which case each part shall be treated as a separate work.

A certified copy of the entry in the Register Book of the Company of Stationers in London shall confer, within the British dominions, the exclusive right of republication, until a better right shall have been established by any other party before a court of justice.

The certificate given under the laws of France, proving the registration of any work in that country, shall be valid for the same purpose throughout the territories of the French Republic.

A certificate or certified copy of the registration of any work so registered in either country shall, if required, be delivered at the time of registration; and such certificate shall state the exact date at which the registration was made.

The charge for the registration of a single work, under the stipulations of this Article, shall not exceed one shilling in England, nor one franc and twenty-five centimes in France; and the further charge for a certificate of such registration shall not exceed the sum of five shillings in England, nor six francs and twenty-five centimes in France.

The provisions of this Article shall not extend to articles which may appear in newspapers or periodicals; which shall be protected from republication or translation simply by a notice from the author, as prescribed by Article V. But if any article or work which has originally appeared in a newspaper or periodical, shall afterwards be published in a separate form, it shall then become subject to the stipulations of the present Article.

ARTICLE IX.

With regard to any article other than books, prints, maps, and musical publications, in respect to which protection may be claimable under Article I of the present Convention, it is agreed, that any other mode of registration than that prescribed in the preceding Article, which is or may be applicable by law in one of the two countries to any work or article first published in such country, for the purpose of affording protection to copyright in such work or article, shall be extended on equal terms to any similar work or article first published in the other country.

ARTICLE X.

During the continuance of this Convention, the duties now payable upon the lawful importation into the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland of books, prints, drawings, or musical works, published throughout the territories of the French Republic, shall be reduced to and fixed at the rates hereinafter specified; that is to say—

1. Duties on books and musical works, viz.—

(a) Works originally produced in the United Kingdom, and republished in France; the cwt. . . .	2	10	0
(b) Works not originally produced in the United Kingdom; the cwt. .	0	15	0

2. Prints or drawings :—

(a) Coloured or plain, single, each .	0	0	$0\frac{1}{2}$
(b) Bound or sewed, the dozen .	0	0	$1\frac{1}{2}$

It is agreed that the rates of duty above specified shall not be raised during the continuance of the present Convention : and that if hereafter, during the continuance of this Convention, any reduction of those rates should be made in favour of books, prints, drawings, or musical works published in any other country, such reduction shall be at the same time extended to similar articles published in France.

It is moreover understood that all works published in France, of which any part may have been originally produced in the United Kingdom, shall be considered as "works originally produced in the United Kingdom, and republished in France," and as such shall be subject to the duty of fifty shillings per cwt., although the same may contain also original matter not produced in the United Kingdom; unless such original matter shall be at least equal in bulk to the part of the work originally produced in the United Kingdom, in which case the work shall be subject only to the duty of fifteen shillings per cwt.

ARTICLE XI.

In order to facilitate the execution of the present Convention, the two High Contracting Parties engage to communicate to each other the laws and regulations which may hereafter be established in their respective territories, with respect to copyright in works or productions protected by the stipulations of the present Convention.

ARTICLE XII.

The stipulations of the present Convention shall in no way affect the right which each of the two High Contracting Parties expressly reserves to itself, of controuling or of prohibiting, by measures of legislation or of internal police, the sale, circulation, representation, or exhibition of any work or production, in regard to which either country may deem it expedient to exercise that right.

ARTICLE XIII.

Nothing in this Convention shall be construed to affect the right of either of the two High Contracting Parties to prohibit the importation into its own dominions, of such books as, by its internal law, or under engagements with other States, are or may be declared to be piracies, or infringements of copyright.

ARTICLE XIV.

Her Britannic Majesty engages to recommend to Parliament to pass an Act to enable Her to carry into execution such of the arrangements contained in the present Convention as require the sanction of an Act of the Legislature. When such an Act shall have been passed, the Convention shall come into operation from and after a day to be then fixed upon by the two High Contracting Parties. Due notice shall be given beforehand in each country, by the Government of that country, of the day which may be so fixed upon; and the stipulations of the Convention shall apply only to works or articles published after that day.

The Convention shall continue in force for ten years from the day on which it may come into operation; and if neither Party shall, twelve months before the expiration of the said period of ten years, give notice of its intention to terminate its operation, the Convention shall continue in force for a year longer, and so on from year to year, until the expiration of a year's notice from either Party for its termination.

The High Contracting Parties, however, reserve to themselves the power of making by common consent, in this Convention, any modifications which may not be inconsistent with its spirit and principles, and which experience of its working may show to be desirable.

ARTICLE XV.

The present Convention shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Paris as soon as may be within three months from the date of signature.

In witness whereof the respective Plenipotentiaries have signed the same, and have affixed thereto their respective seals.

Done at Paris, the third day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one.

Procès-Verbal of the exchange of Ratifications.

THE Undersigned having met together in order, on the part of Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and of the President of the French Republic, to proceed to the exchange of the respective Ratifications of the Convention between Great Britain and France, signed at Paris on the 3rd of November last, for the mutual protection, in the two countries, of copyright in works of literature and of art; the respective instruments of ratification were produced, and after having been carefully compared and found to be exactly conformable to each other, were exchanged in the usual form.

1. Notwithstanding, however, that by terms of Article XIV, it is stipulated that none of the arrangements of the Convention shall come into operation until after the time when such of those arrangements as require to be confirmed in Great Britain by an Act of the Legislature, shall have been so sanctioned; it was mutually agreed that such of those arrangements as do not require that sanction, and as the present state of the Law enables the British Crown to carry at once into execution, shall on either side receive their full and entire effect as soon as possible.

2. It was also agreed, that the stipulations contained in Article V, which forbid the republication in either of the two countries of articles from newspapers or periodicals published in the other, the authors of which shall have notified in the newspaper or periodical in which such articles have appeared, that they forbid the publication thereof,—shall not be applicable to articles of political discussion.

The preceding interpretations and explanations shall have the same force and validity as if they had been inserted in the Convention itself.

In witness whereof the Undersigned have signed the present procès-verbal, in duplicate, at Paris, the eighth day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two.

TREASURY WARRANT.

WHEREAS by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," power is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, from time to time, by warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of British postage or inland postage payable by law on the transmission by the post of foreign or colonial letters or newspapers, or of any other printed papers, and to subject the same to rates of postage according to the weight thereof, and a scale of weight to be contained in such warrant, and from time to time, by warrant as aforesaid, to alter or repeal any such altered rates, and make and establish any new or other rates in lieu thereof, and from time to time, by warrant as aforesaid, to appoint at what time the rates that may be payable are to be paid; and it is provided that the power thereby given should extend to any increase or reduction or remission of postage:

And whereas it is considered expedient that an alteration should be made in the rates of postage between the United Kingdom and the Argentine Republic in South America:

Now we, the undersigned, being two of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, do, in exercise of the powers and authorities in us for such purpose vested in and by the said Act, and of all other powers and authorities enabling us in this behalf, order and direct,—

That on every letter, not exceeding half an ounce in weight, transmitted by the post between any part of the United Kingdom and any port in the Argentine Republic, there shall be charged and taken in lieu of any rates of British postage now payable by law on such respective letters an uniform rate of British postage of one shilling :

And we direct, that on every letter transmitted as is mentioned in this Warrant exceeding half an ounce in weight, there shall be charged, taken, and paid progressive and additional rates of postage as follows (that is to say) :

On every letter exceeding half an ounce in weight, and not exceeding one ounce in weight, two rates of postage.

On every letter exceeding one ounce, and not exceeding two ounces in weight, four rates of postage.

On every letter exceeding two ounces, and not exceeding three ounces in weight, six rates of postage.

And on every letter exceeding three ounces, and not exceeding four ounces in weight, eight rates of postage.

And for every ounce in weight above the weight of four ounces, there shall be charged and taken two additional rates of postage, and every fraction of an ounce above the weight of four ounces, shall be charged as one additional ounce; and each progressive and additional rate, chargeable under this clause, shall be estimated and charged at the sum which any such letter would be charged with under this warrant, if not exceeding half an ounce in weight.

And we direct, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to extend to any letters sent by private ships.

And we further direct, that the term "by the post," used in this warrant, shall, as to the sea conveyance, include the conveyance by packet-boat, and that the several other terms and expressions used in this warrant shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects as they would have had if inserted in the said Act, passed in the fourth year of Her present Majesty.

TREASURY WARRANT.

WHEREAS by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," certain scales of weight and rates of postage were fixed and made chargeable and payable upon, for, or in respect of letters, newspapers, parliamentary proceedings, and printed papers, transmitted and forwarded by the post; and various regulations were made for facilitating the transmission of such letters and papers by the post:

And whereas by an Act, passed in the eleventh year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for giving further facilities for the transmission of letters by post, and for the regulating the duties of postage thereon," and for other purposes relating to the Post-office, the proviso concerning the maximum weight of letters to be sent by the post, as fixed in and by the said first-mentioned Act, is repealed; and in order to prevent packets of an unwieldy bulk or an inconvenient size being transmitted by the post, power is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, at any time or times thereafter, by warrant under their hands, to fix a maximum weight of letters to be sent by the post, and from time to time to repeal or revoke such maximum weight, wholly or in part, and declare any other maximum of weight in lieu thereof, and all letters are to be forwarded, conveyed, and delivered by the post in conformity with any such warrant, and also in conformity with, and under and subject to, all such orders, conditions, limitations, regulations, and restrictions as to the form, size, or dimensions thereof, whether in proportion to the weight or otherwise, as the Postmaster-General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall from time to time direct. And by the said Act power is also given to the Postmaster-General to collect and receive the foreign and colonial postage, charged or chargeable on any letters sent by the post; and also, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, to require the postage, British, colonial, or foreign, of any letters sent by the post to be prepaid either in money or in stamps, as he may think fit, on the same being put into the Post-office; and also with such consent to abolish or restrict the prepayment in money of postage on letters sent by the post either altogether or on certain letters, and to require the prepayment thereof to be in stamps, and to refuse to receive or send by the post any letters tendered contrary to any regulations thereby made. And it is also declared and enacted, that it shall be lawful for the Postmaster-General, and any officer of the Post-office, to detain any letters which shall be posted or sent by the post contrary to the regulations of that Act or the first-mentioned Act, or contrary to the regulations of any Treasury Warrant to be issued under or by virtue of that Act, or which had been or should be issued under or by virtue of the said first-mentioned Act, and to open such letters, and either to return them to the senders thereof, or to forward them to the places of their destination, charged in either case with such rates of postage as the Postmaster-General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, shall from time to time direct:

Now we, the undersigned, being two of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, do, in exercise of the powers reserved to us in and by the said before-mentioned Acts, or either of them, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, by this warrant under our hands, order and direct that printed books, printed magazines, printed reviews, and printed pamphlets (whether British, colonial, or foreign), posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to Cape Town, in the colony of the Cape of Good Hope, or posted in Cape Town, addressed to the United Kingdom, may be transmitted by the post between any part of the United Kingdom and Cape Town aforesaid, subject to the several regulations and rates hereinafter contained (that is to say):

On every packet consisting of a single printed book, or printed magazine, or printed review, or printed pamphlet, the several sheets or parts of which, when more than one, shall be sewed or bound together, if not exceeding half a pound in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of sixpence ;

And on every such packet, if exceeding half a pound, and not exceeding one pound in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of one shilling ;

And on every such packet, if exceeding one pound, and not exceeding two pounds in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of two shillings ;

And on every such packet, if exceeding two pounds, and not exceeding three pounds in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of three shillings ;

And for every additional one pound in weight of any such packet above the weight of three pounds, there shall be charged and taken an additional rate of postage of one shilling ; and every fraction of such additional pound shall be charged as an additional pound.

And we further order and direct, that no such packet, if containing more than one printed book, or printed magazine, or printed review, or printed pamphlet, or containing any paper or thing besides a printed book, printed magazine, printed review, or printed pamphlet, or containing any printed book, printed magazine, printed review, or printed pamphlet, the several sheets or parts of which when more than one shall not be sewed or bound together, or which packet, in length, or breadth, or width, or depth, shall exceed the dimensions of two feet or twenty-four inches, shall be forwarded by the post under the provisions aforesaid.

And we further order and direct, that as to any packet hereinbefore authorized to be sent by the post under the provisions aforesaid, which shall be posted in the United Kingdom, the postage thereof shall in every case be prepaid at the time of the same being posted, not in money, but by being duly stamped with the proper British postage stamp or stamps affixed thereto; which stamp or stamps shall in every case be affixed or appear on the outside of every such packet, near the address, and shall be of the value or amount of the postage duty payable thereon, under or by virtue of this warrant; and as to any such packet posted in Cape Town aforesaid, the postage thereof shall in every case be prepaid, either in money, or by the proper colonial postage stamp or stamps being affixed thereto at the time of the same being posted.

And we further order and direct, that every such packet shall be sent without a cover, or in a cover or envelope open at the ends or sides, and shall contain printed matter only, with the binding thereof, and there shall be no writing or marks upon the cover or envelope thereof, or upon or within any part of the contents thereof, other than the name and address of the person to whom the packet shall be sent.

And in order to prevent any obstacles to the due and regular transmission of letters by the post, we further direct that it shall be lawful for any officer of the Post-office in the United Kingdom, to delay the transmission of any packet, posted or forwarded by the post under the provisions of this warrant, either for the space of twenty-four hours from the time at which (or at his option until the dispatch of the mail next after that by which,) the same ought otherwise to have been forwarded by him.

And we further direct, that nothing hereinbefore contained shall be construed to interfere with, or affect the transmission by the post of printed votes and proceedings of the Imperial Parliament, or of printed votes and proceedings of the Colonial Legislatures, nor of printed papers, or other printed publications which are allowed to pass by the post under the newspaper privilege.

And we further order and direct, that if any packet sent, or tendered or delivered in order to be sent, by the post under the provisions of this present warrant, shall contain any paper or thing besides a printed book, printed magazine, printed review, or printed pamphlet, and the binding thereof; or shall have any writing or marks upon the same, or upon the cover or envelope thereof, except the name and address of the person to whom it is forwarded; or shall not be open at the ends or sides; or shall in length, or breadth, or width, or depth, exceed the dimensions of two feet or twenty-four inches; or shall contain more than one printed book, or printed magazine, or printed review, or printed pamphlet, or shall contain any printed book, printed magazine, printed review, or printed pamphlet, the several sheets or parts of which, when more than one, shall not be sewed or bound together; or if the postage of any such packet, posted in the United Kingdom, shall not be duly and properly pre-paid by British stamps when posted, or if the postage of any such packet posted in Cape Town aforesaid, shall not be duly and properly prepaid in money or by colonial stamps when posted, the same shall and may be detained and opened at any place in the United Kingdom, and at the option of the Postmaster-General, shall be either returned or given up to the sender thereof, or be given up to the person to whom it shall be addressed, or be forwarded to the place of its destination; and any such packet on being so returned, given up, or forwarded, shall be chargeable with the like amount of postage to which it would have been liable as a letter.

And we further direct, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to extend to any packets sent through France, or any other foreign country to which a transit rate of postage would be payable thereon, nor to any packets sent by private ships.

And we further order and direct, that the term "by the post" used in this warrant, shall, as to the sea conveyance, include the conveyance by packet-boat; and that the several other terms and expressions used in this warrant, shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects as they would have had if inserted in the said Act passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty.

And we further direct, that this warrant shall come into operation on the first day of April, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two.

Provided lastly, and we do hereby declare and direct, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, for the time being, of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any two of them, by warrant under their hands, at any time hereafter to alter or repeal any of the rates hereby fixed or altered or the regulations hereby made; and to make and establish any new or other rates or regulations in lieu thereof, and, from time to time, to appoint at what time the rates that may be payable are to be paid.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of FEBRUARY 6, 1852.

Buckingham-Palace, February 3, 1852.

THIS day Her Majesty, accompanied by His Royal Highness Prince Albert, proceeded in state from Buckingham-Palace to the House of Peers, where she arrived soon after two o'clock; and was received, on alighting from her state coach, by the Lord Chancellor, the Lord Privy Seal, Sir Augustus Clifford, Bart. C.B. Deputy Great Chamberlain, (in the absence of the Lord Willoughby de Eresby), the Lord Steward of the Household, the Duke of Wellington, Garter King of Arms, and the Yeoman Usher of the Black Rod, and proceeded to the State Robing-room in the customary manner.

Her Majesty was there robed, and the procession moved into the House in the usual order;—the sword of state was borne by the Duke of Wellington, the cap of maintenance by the Earl of Albemarle, and the crown by the Marquess of Normanby.

Her Majesty being seated on the Throne, and His Royal Highness Prince Albert on a Chair on the left side of the Cloth of Estate, the Great Officers of State and others standing on the right and left, James Pulman, Esquire, Yeoman Usher of the Black Rod, was sent with a message from Her Majesty to the House of Commons, commanding their attendance in the House of Peers. The Commons being come thither accordingly, Her Majesty was pleased to deliver the following most gracious Speech to both Houses of Parliament:

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

THE period has arrived when, according to usage, I can again avail myself of your advice and assistance in the preparation and adoption of measures which the welfare of the country may require.

I continue to maintain the most friendly relations with foreign powers.

The complicated affairs of the Duchies of Holstein and Sleswig have continued to engage my attention. I have every reason to expect that the Treaty between Germany and Denmark, which was concluded at Berlin in the year before last, will in a short time be fully and completely executed.

I regret that the war which unfortunately broke out on the eastern frontier of the Cape of Good Hope more than a year ago, still continues. Papers will be laid before you containing full information as to the progress of the war, and the measures which have been taken for bringing it to a termination.

While I have observed with sincere satisfaction the tranquillity which has prevailed throughout the greater portion of Ireland, it is with much regret that I have to inform you, that certain parts of the counties of Armagh, Monaghan, and Louth have been marked by the commission of outrages of the most serious description. The powers of the existing law have been promptly exerted for the detection of the offenders, and for the repression of a system of crime and violence fatal to the best interests of the country. My attention will continue to be directed to this important object.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I have ordered estimates of the expenses of the current year to be laid before you.

I rely with confidence on your loyalty and zeal to make adequate provision for the public service.

Where any increase has been made in the estimates of the present over the past year, such explanations will be given as will, I trust, satisfy you that such increase is consistent with a steady adherence to a pacific policy and with the dictates of a wise economy.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

The improvement of the administration of justice in its various departments has continued to receive my anxious attention; and in furtherance of that object I have directed bills to be prepared, founded upon the reports made to me by the respective commissions appointed to inquire into the practice and proceedings of the superior courts of law and equity, as nothing tends more to the peace, prosperity, and contentment of a country than the speedy and impartial administration of justice. I earnestly recommend these measures to your deliberate attention.

The Act of 1848 for suspending the operation of a previous Act conferring representative institutions on New Zealand will expire early in the next year. I am happy to believe that there is no necessity for its renewal, and that no obstacle any longer exists to the enjoyment of representative institutions by New Zealand. The form of these institutions will, however, require your consideration; and the additional information which has been obtained since the passing of the Acts in question will, I trust, enable you to arrive at a decision beneficial to that important colony.

It gives me great satisfaction to be able to state to you, that the large reductions of taxes which have taken place of late years have not been attended with a proportionate diminution of the national income. The revenue of the past year has been fully adequate to the demands of the public service, while the reduction of taxation has tended greatly to the relief and comfort of my subjects.

I acknowledge, with thankfulness to Almighty God, that tranquillity, good order, and willing obedience to the laws, continue to prevail generally throughout the country.

It appears to me that this is a fitting time for calmly considering whether it may not be advisable to make such amendments in the Act of the late reign, relating to the representation of the Commons in Parliament, as may be deemed calculated to carry into more complete effect the principles upon which that law is founded.

I have the fullest confidence, that in any such consideration you will firmly adhere to the acknowledged principles of the constitution, by which the prerogatives of the crown, the authority of both Houses of Parliament, and the rights and liberties of the people, are equally secured.

At the Court at Buckingham Palace, the 2nd day of February 1852.

The QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty in Council was pleased to approve and ratify the schemes duly prepared (as set forth in this Gazette) by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for England—

For regulating the episcopal income of the Bishop of Salisbury.

For regulating the episcopal income of the Bishop of St. Asaph.

For regulating the incomes of the future deans and canons of the cathedral church of Durham.

For substituting a money payment to the prebendary of North Newbald, in the cathedral church of York, for certain property belonging to his prebend.

At the Court at Buckingham-Palace, the 2nd day of February 1852.

The QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty in Council was pleased to approve the representation made (as set forth in this Gazette) by Her Majesty's Commissioners for building new churches—

TREASURY WARRANT.

Whereas by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," certain scales of weight and rates of postage were fixed and made chargeable and payable upon, for, or in respect of letters, newspapers, parliamentary proceedings, and printed papers transmitted and forwarded by the post, and various regulations were made for facilitating the transmission of such letters and papers by the post:

And whereas by an Act, passed in the eleventh year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for giving further facilities for the transmission of letters by post, and for the regulating the duties of postage thereon, and for other purposes relating to the Post-office;" it is provided that all letters are to be forwarded, conveyed, and delivered by the post, in conformity with, and under and subject to, all such orders, conditions, limitations, regulations, and restrictions as to the form, size, or dimensions thereof, as the Postmaster-General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, shall from time to time direct; and by the said Act, power is also given to the Postmaster-General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, to require the postage of any letters sent by the post to be prepaid either in money or in stamps, as he may think fit, on the same being put into the Post-office, and also, with such consent, to abolish or restrict the prepayment in money of postage on letters sent by the post, either altogether or on certain letters, and to require the prepayment thereof to be in stamps; and to refuse to receive or send by the post any letters tendered contrary to any regulations thereby made. And it is also declared and enacted, that it shall be lawful for the Postmaster-General and any officer of the Post-office to detain any letters which shall be posted or sent by the post contrary to the regulations of that Act or the first-mentioned Act, or contrary to the regulations of any Treasury Warrant to be issued under or by virtue of that Act, or which had been or should be issued under or by virtue of the said first-mentioned Act, and to open such letters, and either to return them to the senders thereof, or to forward them to the places of their destination, charged, in either case, with such rates of postage as the Postmaster-General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall, from time to time, direct:

And whereas by two warrants, under the hands respectively of three of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, and dated respectively the seventh day of February one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight, and the twenty-second day of April one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight, it was ordered and directed, that printed books, printed magazines, printed reviews, and printed pamphlets, might be transmitted by the post within the United Kingdom, subject to the several regulations and rates in the said warrants contained:

And whereas by another warrant, under the hands of two of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, dated the second day of October one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one, it was ordered and directed that packets consisting of books, publications, or works of literature or art, might be transmitted by the post within the United Kingdom, subject to the several regulations and rates therein contained:

And whereas it is expedient that the said warrants should be repealed, and that such other regulations should be made respecting the conveyance of certain packets sent by the post, as are hereinafter contained:

Now we, the undersigned, being two of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, do, in exercise of all powers and authorities enabling us in this behalf, by this warrant under our hands, repeal and revoke the said warrants of the seventh day of February one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight, the twenty-second day of April one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight, and the second day of October one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one, and every of them, and all the rates thereby fixed or altered, and the regulations therein contained.

And we the said Commissioners do, in exercise of the powers reserved to us in and by the said before-mentioned Acts, or either of them, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, by this warrant under our hands, order and direct that all packets consisting of books, publications, or works of literature or art, may be transmitted by the post within the United Kingdom, subject to the several regulations and rates hereinafter contained; that is to say:

On every such packet, if not exceeding one pound in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of sixpence;

And on every such packet, if exceeding one pound, and not exceeding two pounds in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of one shilling;

And for every additional one pound in weight of any such packet above the weight of two pounds, there shall be charged and taken an additional rate of postage of sixpence, and every fraction of such additional pound shall be charged as an additional pound.

And we further order and direct, that no such packet which in length, or breadth, or width, or depth, shall exceed the dimensions of two feet, or twenty-four inches, shall be forwarded by the post, under the provisions aforesaid.

And we further order and direct, that the postage of all such packets as aforesaid shall in every case be prepaid at the time of the same being posted, not in money, but by being duly stamped with the proper postage stamp or stamps affixed thereto, which stamp or stamps shall in every case be affixed or appear on the outside of every such packet, near the address or direction, and shall be of the value or amount of the postage duty payable thereon, under or by virtue of this warrant.

And we further order and direct, that the terms "books, publications, or works of literature or art" herein used, shall, for the purposes of this warrant, mean and include all books, whether printed, written, or plain, publications or compilations, whether in print or in manuscript, almanacks, prints, maps, whether on paper or canvass or cloth, and whether printed or written, and any description of paper, parchment, or vellum, whether printed, written upon, or plain, together with any binding, mounting, or covering of, or upon, or belonging to, any book, or publication, or work, or any portion thereof, or of or belonging to any paper, parchment, or vellum, and any cases or rollers of prints, or maps, book-markers, pencils, pens, or other articles usually appertaining to any such book, publication, or work, paper, parchment, or vellum, or necessary for its safe transmission; and that every such packet shall be sent without a cover, or in a cover or envelope open at the ends or sides; and that there shall be no letter, either closed or open, nor any enclosure, sealed, or otherwise closed against inspection, sent in or with any such packet.

And we further direct, that the transmission of the packets aforesaid under this present warrant shall be restricted to such as shall be sent by the post between places within the United Kingdom, and by the post of any post town in the United Kingdom, and that nothing herein contained shall be construed to extend to interfere with, or in anywise to affect the transmission by the post of printed votes and proceedings of Parliament, nor of British newspapers or other British publications which are allowed to pass by the post between places within the United Kingdom under the newspaper privilege, nor shall this present warrant be construed to extend to any packet sent by the post between the United Kingdom and places beyond the seas.

And we further order and direct, that if any packet sent, or tendered or delivered in order to be sent, by the post, under the provisions of this present warrant, shall contain any letter either closed or open, or any enclosure, sealed or otherwise closed against inspection, or if any such packet shall not be open at the ends or sides, or shall, in length, or breadth, or width, or depth, exceed the dimensions of two feet or twenty-four inches, or if the postage thereof shall not be duly and properly prepaid by stamps when posted, the same shall and may be detained and opened, and at the option of the Postmaster-General shall be either returned or given up to the sender thereof, or be given up to the person to whom it shall be addressed, or be forwarded to the place of its destination under and subject to the following regulations; (that is to say:) if such packet shall be posted without any postage stamp thereon, the same, on being so returned, given up, or forwarded, shall be chargeable with a postage of double the amount of postage to which it would have been liable as a letter if the postage had been prepaid by stamps when posted, and such postage may be either prepaid by the sender or be charged to the person to whom such packet shall be forwarded; and if any such packet shall have thereon, or affixed thereto, any stamp or stamps, the value or amount of which shall be less than the rate of postage to which such packet, if it had been a letter, would be liable if prepaid by stamps when posted, there shall be charged thereon a postage of double the amount of the difference between the value of such stamp or stamps and the full postage to which such packet, if it had been a letter, would have been liable if prepaid by stamps when posted; and such additional postage may be prepaid by the sender, or shall be charged to the party to whom it is forwarded.

Provided always, that if any packet sent, or tendered or delivered in order to be sent, by the post, under the provisions of this warrant, shall contain any letter, whether closed or open, or any enclosure, sealed or otherwise closed against inspection, the Postmaster-General may, at his option, dispose of any such packet in conformity with the directions lastly hereinbefore contained, or any such letter or enclosure may be taken out and forwarded to the address on the packet, charged with the full rates of postage as an unpaid letter, and the remainder of the packet, if duly prepaid by stamps, may be forwarded to the place of its address without any extra charge.

And we do hereby further order and direct, that the terms and expressions used in this warrant shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects as they would have had if inserted in the said Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty.

And we do further direct, that this warrant shall come into operation on the first day of March one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two.

Provided lastly, and we do hereby declare and direct, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any two of them, by warrant under their hands, at any time hereafter to alter or repeal any of the rates hereby fixed or altered, or the regulations hereby made, and to make and establish any new or other rates or regulations in lieu thereof, and from time to time to appoint at what time the rates that may be payable are to be paid.

TREASURY WARRANT.

Whereas by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," certain scales of weight and rates of postage were fixed and made chargeable and payable upon, for, or in respect of letters, newspapers, parliamentary proceedings, and printed papers transmitted and forwarded by the post, and various regulations were made for facilitating the transmission of such letters and papers by the post:

And whereas by an Act, passed in the eleventh year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for giving further facilities for the transmission of letters by post, and for the regulating the duties of postage thereon, and for other purposes relating to the Post-office," the proviso concerning the maximum weight of letters to be sent by the post, as fixed in and by the said first-mentioned Act, is repealed; and in order to prevent packets of an unwieldly bulk, or an inconvenient size, being transmitted by the post, power is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, at any time or times thereafter, by warrant under their hands, to fix a maximum weight of letters to be sent by the post, and from time to time to repeal or revoke such maximum weight, wholly or in part, and declare any other maximum of weight in lieu thereof, and all letters are to be forwarded, conveyed, and delivered by the post in conformity with any such warrant, and also in conformity with, and under and subject to, all such orders, conditions, limitations, regulations, and restrictions as to the form, size, or dimensions thereof, whether in proportion to the weight or otherwise, as the Postmaster-

General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, shall from time to time direct. And by the said Act power is also given to the Postmaster-General to collect and receive the foreign and colonial postage, charged or chargeable on any letters sent by the post; and also, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, to require the postage, British, colonial, or foreign, of any letters sent by the post to be prepaid, either in money or in stamps, as he may think fit, on the same being put into the Post-office; and also, with such consent, to abolish or restrict the prepayment in money of postage on letters sent by the post, either altogether or on certain letters, and to require the prepayment thereof to be in stamps, and to refuse to receive or send by the post any letters tendered contrary to any regulations thereby made. And it is also declared and enacted, that it shall be lawful for the Postmaster-General, and any officer of the Post-office, to detain any letters which shall be posted or sent by the post contrary to the regulations of that Act, or the first-mentioned Act, or contrary to the regulations of any Treasury Warrant to be issued under or by virtue of that Act, or which had been or should be issued under or by virtue of the said first-mentioned Act, and to open such letters, and either to return them to the senders thereof, or to forward them to the places of their destination, charged in either case with such rates of postage as the Postmaster-General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, shall from time to time direct:

Now we, the undersigned, being two of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury do, in exercise of the powers reserved to us in and by the said before-mentioned Acts, or either of them, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, by this warrant under our hands, order and direct, that printed books, printed magazines, printed reviews, and printed pamphlets, whether British, colonial, or foreign, posted in the United Kingdom addressed to the island of Ceylon, or posted in the said island of Ceylon addressed to the United Kingdom, may be transmitted by the post between any part of the United Kingdom and Ceylon, subject to the several regulations and rates hereinafter contained; that is to say:

On every packet, consisting of a single printed book, or printed magazine, or printed review, or printed pamphlet, the several sheets or parts of which, when more than one, shall be sewed or bound together, if not exceeding half a pound in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of six pence;

And on every such packet, if exceeding half a pound, and not exceeding one pound in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of one shilling;

And on every such packet, if exceeding one pound, and not exceeding two pounds in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of two shillings;

And on every such packet, if exceeding two pounds, and not exceeding three pounds in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of three shillings;

And for every additional one pound in weight of any such packet above the weight of three pounds, there shall be charged and taken an additional rate of postage of one shilling, and every fraction of such additional pound shall be charged as an additional pound.

And we further order and direct, that no such packet, if containing more than one printed book, or printed magazine, or printed review, or printed pamphlet, or containing any paper or thing besides a printed book, printed magazine, printed review, or printed pamphlet, or containing any printed book, printed magazine, printed review, or printed pamphlet, the several sheets or parts of which, when more than one, shall not be sewed or bound together, or which packet, in length, or breadth, or width, or depth, shall exceed the dimensions of two feet, or twenty-four inches, shall be forwarded by the post under the provisions aforesaid.

And we further order and direct, that as to any packet hereinbefore authorized to be sent by the post under the provisions aforesaid, which shall be posted in the United Kingdom, the postage thereof shall in every case be prepaid at the time of the same being posted, not in money, but by being duly stamped with the proper British postage stamp or stamps affixed thereto, which stamp or stamps shall in every case be affixed or appear on the outside of every such packet, near the address, and shall be of the value or amount of the postage duty payable thereon under or by virtue of this warrant; and as to any such packet posted in the island of Ceylon, the postage thereof shall in every case be prepaid, either in money, or by the proper colonial postage stamp or stamps being affixed thereto at the time of the same being posted.

And we further order and direct, that every such packet shall be sent without a cover, or in a cover or envelope open at the ends or sides, and shall contain printed matter only, with the binding thereof, and there shall be no writing or marks upon the cover or envelope thereof, or upon or within any part of the contents thereof, other than the name and address of the person to whom the packet shall be sent.

And in order to prevent any obstacles to the due and regular transmission of letters by the post, we further direct that it shall be lawful for any officer of the Post-office in the United Kingdom to delay the transmission of any packet, posted or forwarded by the post under the provisions of this warrant, either for the space of twenty-four hours from the time at which (or at his option until the dispatch of the mail next after that by which) the same ought otherwise to have been forwarded by him.

And we further direct, that nothing hereinbefore contained shall be construed to interfere with or affect the transmission by the post of printed votes and proceedings of the Imperial Parliament, or of printed votes and proceedings of the Colonial Legislatures, nor of printed papers, or other printed publications, which are allowed to pass by the post under the newspaper privilege.

And we further order and direct, that if any packet sent, or tendered or delivered in order to be sent, by the post under the provisions of this present warrant, shall contain any paper or thing besides a printed book, printed magazine, printed review, or printed pamphlet, and the binding thereof, or shall have any writing or marks upon the same, or upon the cover or envelope thereof, except the name and address of the person to whom it is forwarded; or shall not be open at the ends or sides; or shall, in length, or breadth, or width, or depth, exceed the dimensions of two feet or twenty-four inches; or shall contain more than one printed book, or printed magazine, or printed review, or printed pamphlet, or shall contain any printed book, printed magazine, printed review, or printed pamphlet, the several sheets or parts of which, when more than one, shall not be sewed or bound together, or if the postage of any such packet, posted in the United Kingdom, shall not be duly and properly prepaid by British stamps when posted, or if the postage of any such packet posted in the island of Ceylon shall not be duly and properly prepaid in money or by colonial stamps when posted, the same shall and may be detained and opened at any place in the United Kingdom, and at the option of the Postmaster-General shall be either returned or given up to the sender thereof, or be given up to the person to whom it shall be addressed, or be forwarded to the place of its destination; and any such packet on being so returned, given up, or forwarded, shall be chargeable with the like amount of postage to which it would have been liable as a letter.

And we further direct, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to extend to any packets sent through France, or any other foreign country to which a transit rate of postage would be payable thereon, nor to any packets sent by private ships.

And we further order and direct, that the term "by the post," used in this warrant shall, as to the sea conveyance, include the conveyance by pocket-boat; and shall also include the conveyance through Egypt so long as no transit rate of postage be payable thereon; and that the several other terms and expressions used in this warrant shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects as they would have had if inserted in the said Act passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty.

And we further direct, that this warrant shall come into operation on the first day of March one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two.

Provided lastly, and we do hereby declare and direct, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any two of them, by warrant under their hands, at any time hereafter to alter or repeal any of the rates hereby fixed or altered, or the regulations hereby made, and to make and establish any new or other rates or regulations in lieu thereof, and from time to time to appoint at what time the rates that may be payable are to be paid.

PRESENT,

The QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas by an Act, passed in the session of Parliament, holden in the seventh and eighth years of Her Majesty's reign, intituled "An "Act to amend the law respecting the office of "county coroner," it is enacted, that when and as often as it shall seem expedient to the justices of any county that such county should be divided into two or more districts for the purposes of the said Act, or that any alteration should be made of any division theretofore made under the said Act, it shall be lawful for the said justices, in General or Quarter Sessions assembled, to resolve that a petition shall be presented to Her Majesty, praying that such division or alteration be made, and thereupon to adjourn the further consideration of such petition until notice thereof shall be given to the coroner or coroners of such county as thereinafter provided :

And whereas it is in and by the said Act further enacted, that the clerk of the peace shall give notice of any such resolution to every coroner for such county, and of the time when the petition will be taken by the said justices into consideration, and the justices shall confer with every such coroner who shall attend the meeting of the justices for that purpose, touching such petition, having due regard to the size and nature of each proposed district, the number of the inhabitants, the nature of their employments, and such other circumstances as shall appear to the justices fit to be considered in carrying into execution the provisions of the said Act; and such petition, with a description of the several proposed districts, and of the boundaries thereof, with the reasons upon which the petition is founded, shall be certified to Her Majesty under the hands and seals of two or more of the justices present when such petition shall be agreed to, and the clerk of the peace for such county shall forthwith give or send a true copy of such petition, certified under his hand, to every coroner for such county :

And whereas it is in and by the said Act further enacted, that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, if she shall think fit, with the advice of Her Privy Council, after taking into consideration any such petition, and also any petition which may be presented to her by any coroner of the same county, concerning such proposed division or alteration, or whenever it shall seem fit to Her Majesty, to direct the issue of a writ de coronatore eligendo, for the purpose of authorizing the election of an additional coroner above the number of those who have been theretofore customarily elected in such county, to order that such county shall be divided into such and so many districts, for the purposes of the said Act, as to Her Majesty, with the advice aforesaid, shall seem expedient, and to give a name to each of such districts, and to determine at what place, within each district, the court for the election of coroner for such district shall be holden as thereinafter provided, and every such Order shall be published in the London Gazette:

And whereas a petition of the justices of the peace for the county of Hertford, in Quarter Sessions assembled at the town of Hertford, on the fourteenth day of October one thousand eight hundred fifty-one, certified to Her Majesty under the hands and seals of five of the justices present when such petition was agreed to, hath been presented to Her Majesty, setting forth that there always had been two persons elected as coroners for the county of Hertford; and that by arrangement between them, the said county had been divided into two divisions, one of such coroners acting in all matters within the eastern division of the said county, and the other of such coroners acting in all matters within the western division thereof; that the said county of Hertford, including the liberty of Saint Albans, was of considerable extent, being thirty-six miles in length, twenty-eight miles in breadth, and one hundred and thirty miles in circumference, and that it would be a great convenience and saving of time to the public, a considerable diminution in the expences payable out of the county rate, and induce professional gentlemen of respectability to accept the office, which many declined to do under the present arrangement from the distance which they would have to travel from home, and the consequent unnecessary interruption to business, if the county were divided into more districts; that

Francis James Osbaldeston, Gentleman, one of the coroners for the said county, and who acted for the western side of the said county, was recently dead, and that not any appointment of a coroner had been made in his stead, and that it was desirable to divide the said western side of the said county, into three districts, that Thomas Sworder, of the town of Hertford, Gentleman, was the other coroner for the said county, and acted for the eastern side thereof, whose division of the county it was not proposed to alter or interfere with; that a description of the several proposed districts, was given in the schedule to the said petition, and that the boundaries of each district were shewn by the map or plan thereunto annexed, and upon which each district was differently coloured; that the preliminaries and notices under the second and third sections of the above-mentioned Act had been duly complied with and given; and humbly praying that the said county of Hertford, including the liberty of Saint Albans, might for the purposes of the said Act be divided into four districts, in the manner set forth in the schedule to the said petition, or as near thereto as circumstances would admit, and that a separate coroner might be elected forthwith for the Hemel Hempstead District, the Saint Albans District, and the Hitchin District, the same forming, as near as circumstances would admit, the western division of the said county, for which the said Francis James Osbaldeston, previous to his death, used to act; and that the parishes and places within the eastern division of the said county, for which the said Thomas Sworder had been accustomed to act, and then did act, might constitute the fourth district of the said county, and be called the Hertford District:

And whereas a petition has been presented to

Her Majesty by the present coroner for the county of Hertford, in the said petition mentioned, concerning the proposed division of the said county:

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, having taken the said petition of the justices of the peace, together with the petition of the coroner above-mentioned, into her royal consideration, is pleased by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to accede to the prayer of the petition of the said justices of the peace, and to order, as it is hereby ordered, that the county of Hertford, including the liberty of Saint Albans, shall, from and after the publication of this Order in the London Gazette, be divided into four districts, for the purposes of the said recited Act;

That the names of the said districts respectively shall be—

And Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, is pleased hereby further to order, that after the publication of this Order in London Gazette, three several writs de coronatore eligendo shall be issued for the election of coroners for the Hemel Hempstead District, the Saint Albans District, and the Hitchin District respectively. Wm. L. Bathurst.

Admiralty, February 16, 1852.

DISPATCHES have this day been received from Commodore Bruce, the Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's ships and vessels on the West Coast of Africa, of which the following are copies or extracts :

Sir, Penelope, off Lagos, January 2, 1852.

I have the honour to report, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that their Lordships' instructions of the 14th October, and the wishes of Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, as far as respects Lagos, have been most faithfully fulfilled by the expulsion of the slave-dealing chief Kosoko and his people, the utter destruction of his town, and the establishment of the friendly chief Akitoye, with his followers, in the seat of power at Lagos.

By my letter No. 216, of 1851, their Lordships are aware that Kosoko very recently rejected the proffered friendship of England, and that he opposed with fire and sword the approach of a flag of truce proceeding to his seat of Government with Mr. Consul Beecroft, who offered to negotiate and to advise with him, and who was merely attended by an escort of armed boats, scarcely or problematically sufficient for his personal safety among savages.

I therefore determined to send a strong and well-organized force to punish this refractory chief, and having, through the untiring energy and exertions of Mr. Beecroft, procured the attendance of Akitoye and nearly 500 of his followers near the scene of action, ready to take advantage of a clear sweep when we should make it, I concerted measures with Captain Lewis T. Jones, of the Sampson, and Captain Henry Lyster, of this ship, who both were volunteers on the occasion, and intrusted the detail and execution of the service to Captain Jones, seconded by Captain Lyster, and their Lordships will see, from the accompanying reports, the complete success with which the enterprise has been crowned.

I am at a loss to do justice to the chivalrous bearing and devoted bravery of these two officers; Captain Jones, who, commanding the expedition, was no less conspicuous for his gallantry and firmness than for his judgment and energy; and Captain Lyster, who, finding himself, by unavoidable circumstances, exposed in the Teazer to be summarily destroyed by the enemy's guns, made a noble rush into the midst of armed hosts on shore, and with his undaunted followers spiked the obnoxious guns, and turned the fortune of the day at that point. It is to be borne in mind, that our people could expect no quarter, nor did they get any.

I should come short of my duty did I not bring before the notice of their Lordships the ardent and devoted gallantry exhibited during this very severe affair by officers and men. The responsible post which Captain Lyster filled cost him a severe wound, happily not dangerous. Commander Hillyar, of this ship, who charged with him, is severely, but not dangerously wounded. Lieutenants Edward Marshall and F. D. Rich, each in command of a paddle-box boat, exhibited heroism and firmness never surpassed. Lieutenant John Corbett, in command of Mr. Beecroft's iron boat with rockets, with his own hands spiked the guns, receiving a shot in his arm after doing so, and had five severe wounds before the affray ended. Lieutenant Williams, Royal Marine Artillery, was dangerously wounded, and Mr. Frederick Fletcher, midshipman, commanding one of the cutters appointed to guard the boats when on shore, defended them to the last, and fell with two balls in his forehead. With the other division,

Lieutenant Saumarez, of the Sampson, received a dangerous wound while encouraging his men, and Mr. Richards, midshipman of that ship, got his death wound. The conduct of Lieutenant Patey, commanding the Bloodhound, and Lieutenant Leckie, commanding the Teazer, and the success attending their efforts, is beyond all praise; besides their annihilating fire, their vessels were a rallying point for the respective divisions of boats, and were conspicuously instrumental in the attainment of victory, reflecting infinite credit on all belonging to them. Commander Coote, of the Volcano, and Commander Gardner, of the Waterwitch, with their detachments, contributed, as soon as they arrived, to the labours of the hour with an energy and zeal well worthy of them.

Nothing could exceed the devotion of the officers of the medical staff to the exigencies of the day.—Mr. Richard Carpenter, Surgeon, Mr. Walling, and Mr. Sproule, Assistant-Surgeons of this ship; Dr. Barclay, Acting Surgeon of the Sealark, and Mr. Morgan and Mr. Pendrith, Assistant-Surgeons of the Sampson. TREASURY WARRANT.

Whereas by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," power is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, from time to time, by warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of British postage or inland postage, payable by law on the transmission by the post of foreign or colonial letters or newspapers, or of any other printed papers, and to subject the same to rates of postage according to the weight thereof, and a scale of weight to be contained in such warrant, and from time to time, by warrant as aforesaid, to alter or repeal any such altered rates, and make and establish any new or other rates in lieu thereof; and from time to time, by warrant as aforesaid, to appoint at what time the rates that may be payable are to be paid. And it is provided that the power thereby given should extend to any increase, or reduction, or remission of postage:

And whereas by a warrant, under the hands of three of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, bearing date the seventh day of September one thousand eight hundred and forty-six, the said Commissioners, in exercise of the power for such purpose vested in them by the said Act, have fixed and established rates of postage on letters and certain newspapers passing between the United Kingdom and Denmark:

And whereas, in consequence of communications opened with the Post-office at Denmark, it is considered expedient to fix and establish certain rates of postage on the printed newspapers and other printed papers hereinafter mentioned:

Now we the undersigned, being two of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, do, in exercise of the power reserved to us in and by the said Act, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, by this warrant under our hands, order and direct, that such printed newspapers, printed publications, printed prices current, printed commercial lists, and printed courses of exchange, as are hereinafter mentioned, may be sent by the post according to the regulations and rates hereinafter set forth; that is to say:

Newspapers, and other publications allowed to pass by the post as newspapers in Denmark, published and posted in Denmark, may be sent from thence to the British colonies, and foreign countries, through the United Kingdom, and foreign and colonial newspapers addressed to Denmark, may be sent from foreign countries, and the British colonies, to Denmark, through the United Kingdom, (the conveyance in every case between the United Kingdom and Denmark being direct, or viâ Heligoland, or any port or place in the river Elbe, by packet-boat or private ship,) at a rate of one half-penny each.

Periodical works, (not of daily publication, and not allowed to pass as newspapers,) printed, published, and posted within the United Kingdom, addressed to Denmark, and periodical works, (not of daily publication, and not allowed to pass as newspapers,) printed, published, and posted in Denmark, addressed to the United Kingdom, may be transmitted between the two countries direct, or viâ Heligoland, or any port or place in the river Elbe, by packet-boat, or private ship, at the following rates, namely :

For every publication, not exceeding two ounces in weight, one penny ;

Above three ounces in weight, and not exceeding four ounces, eight pence ;

And for every additional ounce in weight above four ounces, up to sixteen ounces, (the limit of weight beyond which such publications are not to be sent by the post, except at the letter rates of postage,) two pence more ; and every lesser weight than an ounce, is to be charged as a full ounce.

Printed courses of exchange, printed prices current, printed commercial lists, and such other printed papers as are allowed either in the United Kingdom, or Denmark, to pass by the post at a reduced rate of postage, may, if posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to Denmark, or posted in Denmark, addressed to the United Kingdom, be transmitted between the United Kingdom and

Denmark direct, or viâ Heligoland, or any port or place in the river Elbe, by packet-boat, or private ship, at a rate of one penny each.

Printed courses of exchange, printed prices current, and printed commercial lists, published and posted in, or addressed to, Denmark, may be sent between Denmark and the British colonies or foreign countries, through the United Kingdom (the conveyance between Denmark and the United Kingdom being direct, or viâ Heligoland, or any port or place in the river Elbe, by packet-boat, or private ship), at a rate of one penny each.

The postage payable on any such periodical publications, courses of exchange, prices current, commercial lists, and other printed papers, as shall be posted in the United Kingdom, to be paid on the same being put into the Post-office, and each of such periodical publications to be printed in the language of the country in which it is published.

The said newspapers, periodical publications, printed courses of exchange, printed prices current, printed commercial lists, and such other printed papers as aforesaid, to be forwarded under and subject to the following conditions (that is to say): —

Each must be sent from the country in which it is published, without a cover, or in a band or cover, open at the sides, and there must be no word or communication printed on the paper after its publication, or upon the band or cover thereof, nor any writing, figures, or manual marks upon it, or upon the band or cover of it, except the name and address of the person to whom sent.

There must be no paper or thing inclosed in or with any such newspaper, periodical publication, printed course of exchange, printed price current, printed commercial list, or other printed paper.

The courses of exchange, prices current, and commercial lists, must contain merely the names and prices of the goods, without mentioning the name or residence of the vendor or sender.

Any newspaper, periodical publication, course of exchange, price current, commercial list, or other printed paper, not forwarded in conformity with the regulations and conditions of this warrant, is to be chargeable with the full letter rates of postage.

And we further direct, that nothing herein contained shall be deemed or construed to extend to any newspaper, periodical publication, course of exchange, price current, commercial list, or other printed paper, passing by the post between the United Kingdom and the kingdom of Denmark, or between Denmark and the British colonies or foreign countries, viâ France, Belgium, or Holland.

And we do hereby further order and direct, that the terms and expressions used in this warrant shall be construed to have the like meaning, in all respects, as they would have had if inserted in the said Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty.

And we do further direct, that this warrant shall come into operation on the first day of March one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two.

Provided lastly, and we do hereby declare and direct, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any two of them, by warrant under their hands, at any time hereafter to alter or repeal any of the rates hereby fixed or altered, or the regulations hereby made, and to make and establish any new or other rates or regulations in lieu thereof, and from time to time to appoint at what time the rates that may be payable are to be paid.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

LONDON GAZETTE of FEBRUARY 20, 1852.

Admiralty, February 20, 1852.

THE following Dispatches have been received at the Admiralty from Commodore Bruce, reporting the destruction of Lagos by Her Majesty's naval forces on the West Coast of Africa.

Capture of Lagos.

(No. 10.)

SIR, Penelope, off Lagos, January 2, 1852.

I HAVE the honour to report, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that their Lordships' instructions of the 14th October, and the wishes of Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, as far as respects Lagos, have been most faithfully fulfilled by the expulsion of the slave-dealing chief Kosoko and his people, the utter destruction of his town, and the establishment of the friendly chief Akitoye, with his followers, in the seat of power at Lagos.

2. By my letter No. 216, of 1851, their Lordships are aware that Kosoko very recently rejected the proffered friendship of England, and that he opposed with fire and sword the approach of a flag of truce proceeding to his seat of Government with Mr. Consul Beecroft, who offered to negotiate and to advise with him, and who was merely attended by an escort of armed boats, scarcely or problematically sufficient for his personal safety among savages.

3. I therefore determined to send a strong and well-organized force to punish this refractory chief, and having, through the untiring energy and exertions of Mr. Beecroft, procured the attendance of Akitoye and nearly 500 of his followers near the scene of action, ready to take advantage of a clear sweep when we should make it, I concerted measures with Captain Lewis T. Jones, of the Sampson, and Captain Henry Lyster, of this ship, who both were volunteers on the occasion, and intrusted the detail and execution of the service to Captain Jones, seconded by Captain Lyster, and their Lordships will see, from the accompanying reports, the complete success with which the enterprise has been crowned.

4. I am at a loss to do justice to the chivalrous bearing and devoted bravery of these two officers; Captain Jones, who, commanding the expedition, was no less conspicuous for his gallantry and firmness than for his judgment and energy; and Captain Lyster, who, finding himself, by unavoidable circumstances, exposed in the Teazer to be summarily destroyed by the enemy's guns, made a noble rush into the midst of armed hosts on shore, and with his undaunted followers spiked the obnoxious guns, and turned the fortune of the day at that point. It is to be borne in mind, that our people could expect no quarter, nor did they get any.

5. I should come short of my duty did I not bring before the notice of their Lordships the ardent and devoted gallantry exhibited during this very severe affair by officers and men. The responsible post which Captain Lyster filled cost him a severe wound, happily not dangerous. Commander Hillyar, of this ship, who charged with him, is severely, but not dangerously wounded. Lieutenants Edward Marshall and F. D. Rich, each in command of a paddle-box boat, exhibited heroism and firmness never surpassed. Lieutenant John Corbett, in command of Mr. Beecroft's iron boat with rockets, with his own hands spiked the guns, receiving a shot in his arm after doing so, and had five severe wounds before the affray ended. Lieutenant Williams, Royal Marine Artillery, was dangerously wounded, and Mr. Frederick Fletcher, midshipman, commanding one of the cutters appointed to guard the boats when on shore, defended them to the last, and fell with two balls in his forehead. With the other division, Lieutenant Saumarez, of the Sampson, received a dangerous wound while encouraging his men, and Mr. Richards, midshipman of that ship, got his death wound. The conduct of Lieutenant Patey, commanding the Bloodhound, and Lieutenant Leckie, commanding the Teazer, and the success attending their efforts, is beyond all praise; besides their annihilating fire, their vessels were a rallying point for the respective divisions of boats, and were conspicuously instrumental in the attainment of victory, reflecting infinite credit on all belonging to them. Commander Coote, of the Volcano, and Commander Gardner, of the Waterwitch, with their detachments, contributed, as soon as they arrived, to the labours of the hour with an energy and zeal well worthy of them.

Nothing could exceed the devotion of the officers of the medical staff to the exigencies of the day,—Mr. Richard Carpenter, Surgeon, Mr. Walling, and Mr. Sproule, Assistant-Surgeons of this ship; Dr. Barclay, Acting Surgeon of the Sealark, and Mr. Morgan and Mr. Pendrith, Assistant-Surgeons of the Sampson. Wherever a man was struck in the boats a medical officer was immediately by his side, setting their own lives at nought when compared with the wants of their brave companions in arms. Mr. Walling and Mr. Sproule landed at the charge, with their comrades, under Captain Lyster.

Mr. Beecroft during all these operations was on board the Bloodhound, and gave every assistance that his advice and experience could afford.

6. I cannot withhold the expression of my regret for the very severe loss which has attended this achievement, but in which I trust their Lordships will feel that the dignity of England has been asserted, and the honour of the flag gloriously sustained.

7. The enclosures with this despatch will afford all further information.

I have, &c.

H. W. BRUCE, Commodore and Commander-in-Chief.

Enclosure No. 1.

Her Majesty's Steam Vessel Bloodhound, off the North Point of Lagos, 29th December 1851.

SIR,

1. IN my letter to you dated the 27th, I had the extreme gratification of reporting to you the entire and complete success of the expeditionary forces which you did me the honour of placing under my command, upon which event permit me sincerely to congratulate you.

2. It now becomes my duty to represent to you in an official form my proceedings since leaving the Sampson, and to thank you for allowing me hitherto to keep you acquainted with these movements by private notes as opportunities offered.

3. In entering into the various details arising from the nature of the service of the several divisions, and to do justice to all, and particularize those who have had the opportunity particularly to distinguish themselves, I feel that I shall be obliged to write rather a long despatch in the form of a daily journal, commencing on the day of my crossing the bar of Lagos on the 23rd to the subjugation of our opponents on the 29th December, and finally rejoining you on the 1st January.

4. You are, aware, Sir, that on the 23rd December, in pursuance of your orders to place the Sampson in the most advantageous position for throwing shells occasionally across the lagoon, I moored the ship as near as possible at the back of the surf, and then with the boats of the Sampson, crossed the bar, preceded by the Bloodhound, and anchored off Point Bruce for the night.

5. On the morning of the 24th, in company with Akitoie and Mr. Beecroft, Her Majesty's Consul for the Bights, I mustered and inspected the Badagry and Abbeakutuan forces, at the time of muster numbering 500, and increasing during the day to 640. To these we distributed as a mark of recognition a white neck-tye, with which they seemed much pleased. I then ordered that these men should be supplied with three days' bread from the Bloodhound. At 2 P.M. the Bloodhound weighed and crossed to the opposite side of the river, where the boats of the Sampson, under the orders of Lieutenant Thomas Saumarez, were sent to launch all the canoes at the slave-station on the left bank, worth bringing off. At 3, Lieutenant Saumarez returned, having in a very short time launched seven large and two small canoes, a most desirable acquisition for the conveyance of the auxiliary forces. The landing party was covered by the guns of the Bloodhound, right, left, and overhead, to check the advance of an armed force, seen from the masthead, advancing. This service being finished, the Bloodhound dropped up the river with the tide, for the purpose of acquiring piloting knowledge, and examining the lines of defence. Three guns from the south end of the island opened on her : the fire was exceedingly well directed but faulty in elevation. We now knew the channel and therefore steamed down. At 3·30 P.M., true to time and promise, the Teazer, accompanying the boats of the Penelope, was seen crossing the Bar, and at 5, Bloodhound and Teazer anchored near together out of range of the enemy's shot. Captain Lyster immediately came on board and placed himself under my orders; we then consulted and decided on the plan of attack as shewn by paper 3, and that the auxiliaries should keep on the right bank of the river, proceeding up as the steam-vessels advanced.* The day was too far gone to commence the attack, and we also determined that Christmas-day should be a day of rest, and the 25th was a quiet day, with the exception of the enemy wasting a vast deal of ammunition.

26th. The plan of attack was the suggestion of Captain Lyster, that we should pass the lines of defence as quickly as convenient, and round the north point of the island, and at that point make the grand attack, it being there that Kosoko and the slave dealers reside, and to let them have the first punishment. The line of sea-defence extends from the south point of the island of Lagos to the north point along the west front, a distance of nearly two miles, and in parts where the water is sufficiently deep for boats to land, stakes in double rows are driven in six feet water, and along the whole of this distance an embankment and ditch for the protecting of infantry, and at chosen points, stockades exceedingly strong, made from stout cocoa-nut trees, were erected for guns, the guns being laid for the difficult points of the passage. We could count four guns so placed, since found to be twenty-five.

6. Our work being thus clear before us, the Bloodhound weighed at dawn of day on the 26th, with the Sampson's boats in two divisions, the one preceding, the other following, proceeded up the river, the Teazer following with the boats of the Penelope similarly arranged, and accompanied by Mr. Beecroft's iron boat Victoria, fitted for rockets. The enemy immediately opened a fire of great guns and musketry, the whole line of embankment being filled with men, the muzzles of the muskets only being visible. This fire was returned from great guns only, and with very beautiful precision, yet with very little effect, for the shot did not do much injury to the green wood of the stockade, and the guns themselves, from being retired, could not be seen. At 7.20 A.M. the Bloodhound and her division of boats had passed the N.W. point, and in trying to get round the north point grounded in eight feet. The black pilot, John Johns, did his work well and steadily, and is not to blame,—the channel had filled up since he was last here,—Mr. Beecroft and his interpreter, Richards, assisting. We had carried three fathoms all the way up. On sounding it was found impossible to get further; anchors were therefore laid out to heave off. During this time a very deliberate and beautiful fire was kept up from the 18-pounder of the Bloodhound, directed by Mr. Barry, the gunner, and from the 12-pounder howitzer, by Lieutenant Mc Arthur, R.M.A. with shrapnel and common shells, by which means the great guns abreast were silenced; but nothing could silence the perpetual showers of musketry, the greater part of which fell short, but every now and then one or two would fall on board, and men were hit slightly; very few indeed escaped a slight touch.

7. The Teazer had grounded shortly after weighing, and I did not observe her to be aground before we had advanced too far "to anchor for mutual support," as had been agreed upon; I have therefore the honour to forward to you Captain Lyster's report of the proceedings of the division under his command during the remainder of the 26th and morning of the 27th. The operations of the division under my immediate direction continued occasionally to throw shot and shell as any movement was observed on shore, and to check the operations of the enemy, who had nearly succeeded in bringing an invisible gun to bear, the shot at each discharge coming nearer and nearer. At 10 A.M. I despatched Lieut. Thomas

Saumarez in command of the gun-boats of H.M.S. Sampson, viz., first and second life-boats and pinnace round the north-east point, to ascertain the strength and position of the guns on that side of the island. A fire from 4 guns, strongly stockaded, was immediately opened; this fire was returned from the life-boats and pinnace, by the 24 and 12-pound howitzers, with such good effect as to have upset and turned out of its carriage one of these guns. The object being attained of ascertaining the position of the guns on the north-east side of the island, I recalled the boats, as it became requisite to reserve the ammunition and shells for the grand assault, when the other division, under Captain Lyster, should have joined. The fire from gingals, petrals, and muskets continuing from the ditch and embankment abreast, and observing the enemy busy in trying to bring other guns into position, I, at 2.30 P.M. despatched Lieutenant Thomas Saumarez, with the boats of H.M.S. Sampson, accompanied by Lieutenant Edward Mc Arthur, R.M.A. in command of the Royal Marine Artillery, to attempt a landing, and spike these small guns. They did all that men could do, but it was found impossible to make their way through the showers of musketry opened against them; and Lieutenant Saumarez, therefore, very properly relinquished the attempt, and returned, with 10 men severely wounded, Mr. Richards, midshipman, mortally, and himself hit in three places. I must here bring to your notice the gallant conduct of Mr. William J. Stivey, Carpenter, of H.M.S. Sampson, who, neck deep in water, axe in hand, was hewing away at the stakes to make a passage for the boats to land; he is one of those men always where he is wanted. The remainder of the day was passed in firing shot and shell as circumstances required, so as to prevent guns being moved against us, the nearest shot passing about ten yards astern. At daylight, on the 27th, I had the satisfaction of seeing the Teazer afloat; and at 7.20, that she had entered the right channel and coming towards us. I immediately ordered that a deliberate flanking fire should be opened on the west part of the enemy's defences from the Bloodhound and gun-boats, and sent a boat under Mr. Bullen, my clerk, to point out to Captain Lyster the position for the Teazer to anchor. 8.10.—Teazer anchored, and I went on board to see Captain Lyster. Ordered the rocket-boats to take up a position to the northward of the Bloodhound, which was quickly done; and Lieutenant Marshall threw some rockets with beautiful effect, setting fire to several houses, and particularly that of the prime minister, Tappis; this produced a spontaneous cheer, through the little squadron, for the rocket-boat. The rocket-boat shifted her position ahead of the Teazer, and a general but deliberate fire was opened from the whole force. At 10.45, Lieutenant Marshall threw a rocket which struck the battery below Tappis' house, and simultaneously a shot from the Teazer capsized the gun; an awful explosion ensued, and, from this moment, the fate of our foes was decided; it became evident they must submit; house after house caught fire, and the town was shortly in a general blaze.

8. At 10.30 Commander Coote joined with the boats of the Volcano, and at 1.45 P.M. Commander Gardner, with the boats of the Water-witch. At 2.45 I despatched the gun-boats of squadron under Commander Coote, accompanied by the rocket-boat, round the north point, to salute Kosoko's house, but directed that they should only fire a few rounds, being unwilling further to destroy the town, the ultimate fate being positive should resistance continue. I therefore recalled the boats. Sent a summons to Kosoko by a chief of the island, Echalli, and determined to wait till Monday morning at 7.

Sunday 28th. This on our part was a day of rest in preparation for the final assault of the 29th should Kosoko reject the proffered terms as in Paper No. 4. I felt a reluctance to destroy the detached part of the town still standing, as it would be required for the new-comers. I felt it as a national question that we should duly observe the Sabbath.

9. During the whole of the day canoes from the N.E. side of Lagos were observed crossing to the island of Echalli, loaded with furniture and household goods; but I conceived that it was no part of the grand object with which England had sent her forces here to care whether a bed or table and private property of any kind were on one side of the river or the other; that might safely be left to the choice of individuals fleeing from a city in flames. I therefore allowed this to go on without molestation, though a jolly-boat might have stopped it; it was also desirable to show that we did not come for pillage, but that our sole object was to stop slave-trade. At 3.45 P.M. it was ascertained that Kosoko and his followers had abandoned the island; I therefore sent my aide-de-camp, Mr. Bullen, with the interpreter, Richards, to the chiefs of the auxiliary forces, desiring them to close with the canoes, and escort the rightful king, Akitoie, to his house, and install him in office, preferring that they who had joined him in adversity should have the honour of being his body-guard. None of the British forces landed except a small party with Commander Coote, to spike guns. In the evening I landed with Captain Lyster and Mr. Beecroft, when a scene of the most perfect desolation presented itself.

10. The lines of defence are the most cunningly devised scheme for entrapping assailants into ambush that can be conceived. I have desired Lieutenant McArthur to make sketches, which shall be forwarded to you when ready.

11. A creek and swamp running about 200 yards inland had checked the flames and saved the eastern division of the town.

29th. At daylight I ordered Commander Coote with his own boats and those of the Sampson, and Commander Gardner with his boat and those of the Penelope, the one on the N.E. the other on the N.W. front to embark or destroy the whole of the guns. They returned at noon, having by extraordinary exertion embarked and destroyed 52 pieces of ordnance as stated in their several reports sent herewith, Nos. 5 and 6.

12. Thus sir, the island of Lagos and its dependencies are prostrate before us—ours by the right of conquest to deal with as might be most expedient—every one had fled.

13. It appears Kosoko, with about 2000 followers, had absconded in 50 or 60 canoes; the women and children had been sent away several days before. Akitoie and his followers are in full possession.

14. I have thus, sir, arrived at the point when the full and complete accomplishment of your instructions were fulfilled; the climax of your expectations, as conveyed in your first order placing the gallant and devoted officers and men composing the expeditionary forces under my command, realized.

15. And I cannot in terms of adequate import convey to you how fully I appreciate the cheerful endurance of intense heat, the perpetual rattling of shot from an invisible foe, and the labour of getting the vessels afloat after grounding.

16. In these duties each and all in their several departments exerted their best, but the toil and anxieties of floating the vessels principally devolved on Lieut. Russell Patey, of the Bloodhound, and Lieutenant Leckie, of the Teazer. Each and all have done their duty with a cheerfulness and goodwill, worthy of the righteous cause upon which we have been engaged, and to all, my best thanks are due.

17. I have, in the course of this despatch, mentioned the names of officers who have stood forth as leaders, and of those in command of boats; and I fully adopt the report of Captain Lyster to bear testimony of the ardent zeal of Commander Hillyar and Lieutenants Marshall and Rich. My gallant friend, Caytain Lyster, and Commander Hillyar, were each severely wounded in the assault to spike the guns, on the 26th, bearing on the Teazer, but nothing could induce these officers to return to their ship, though suffering severely, until they had seen the final triumph of their exertions. The gallantry and devotion of Lieutenant Corbett is fully set forth in the letter of Captain Lyster, and I trust, "I have done it," will not be forgotten as an example of what a man may do by courage and perseverance.

18. Lieutenant Thomas Saumarez, who was in command of the boats of the Sampson, is a most energetic and promising young officer; he has for some time been doing duty as first Lieutenant of this ship.

19. Mr. James Cooke, the gunner, has been the conveyer of all my notes to you, and keeping up the supply of ammunition.

20. Charles Blofield, boatswain's mate, has had charge of the pinnace, mounting a 12-pounder howitzer, for the last two days, having no officer left to put in her; he conducted his charge to my entire satisfaction, and is a deserving promising young man; and will with a little more experience make a good boatswain.

21. The 24-pounder howitzer in the first life-boat was served by George Yule, gunner, Royal Marine Artillery, with admirable precision.

22. Before concluding, I must, as senior officer of the Bights division, express to you how deeply I feel indebted to Commander Wilmot, of the Harlequin, for the manner in which he has executed my orders to make himself acquainted with the passage of the Lagos Bar. He first ferreted his way in his gig, and then, step by step, day by day, when the surf would permit, till he discovered a passage of ten feet, which enabled the steam-vessels to pass the bar. I much regret that he should not have been present to witness the final triumph of which he was the pioneer.

23. I forward to you two notes received from Mr. Olive, master, who was left in command of the Sampson, shewing that those who were left on board were not idle; and that the anxiety of Mr. Donnelly, the surgeon, to come to the assistance of the wounded, nearly cost him his own life; he succeeded however in joining us the following day.

24. Mr. Thomas Hocking, the purser, stationed himself in the maintop to report the effect of shells and progress of the forces inside.

25. I herewith send lists of the killed and wounded, amounting to:

Wounded	75

26. I have yet another paragraph to add to this lengthened despatch, which I cannot without extreme injustice omit; and that is to express how deeply I feel indebted to Mr. Robert H. Bullen, Clerk of the Sampson, who has combined the duties of Secretary and Aid-de-Camp; and when I say that no Lieutenant could have done better, I hope I shall convey to you how fully I appreciate his services.

I have, &c.

LEWIS T. JONES, Captain.

Enclosure No. 2.

H. M.'s S. V. Teazer (Tender to the Penelope), off the town of Lagos, December 29th, 1851.

SIR,

I HAVE the honour to report my proceedings from the time of entering the River Lagos until I anchored, in company with the Bloodhound, on the morning of the 27th instant.

2. On the morning of the 26th, while following you up the river, the Teazer grounded under the enemy's guns on the left bank; I ran anchors out immediately, and kept up a steady fire from the ship and boats. At half past eight, the water ceased to rise, and all our exertions to get off failed; up to this time Teazer's 32-pounders bore on the enemy's battery and kept it in check, but it was not long before two guns were brought to a stockade about a point on our quarter, in an unassailable position from us: these guns were admirably served, and I felt satisfied they would destroy the vessel before the tide rose again. Under these circumstances two courses were open to me; namely: to set fire to, and abandon Her Majesty's ship, or to land and carry the guns; there could be no hesitation on these points; I knew the sacrifice of life would in all probability be great, but I determined to adopt the alternative, and the cheerful and ready acquiescence which Commander Hillyar, and the rest of the officers with me, gave to my determination, left no doubt of its successful issue.

3. The boats, as noted in the margin,* were formed in line abreast; we pulled in, keeping up a continued fire of spherical, grape, and canister shot, directly for the stockade, where the best landing-place appeared to be. As the boats touched the shore, we received a discharge of, at least, 1,500 muskets, notwithstanding, we landed, formed on the beach, and entered the stockade, from which the enemy retreated into the bush close to the rear. Lieutenant Corbett rushed ahead and spiked the guns; of this officer I shall have to speak again presently.

Having thus accomplished our object, I ordered the party to re-embark, and had scarcely done so when Commander Hillyar informed me that No. 1 life-boat was taken, and that the enemy were tracking her along the beach towards the guns that first opened on the Teazer. It was necessary to retake her, and we hurried down accordingly. As the crew of the captured boat, consisting of upwards of 60 men, had now to get into other boats, we became crowded, and some little delay occurred in consequence; all this time the enemy were coming from the bush in swarms, and poured a crushing, destructive fire on us at pistol-range. When we had shoved off, and while Commander Hillyar was arranging the boats, I observed something wrong with the Victoria, which was nearer to the shore; on pulling back to her, I could only see Mr. Blight, boatswain, who said "the kroomen let go the anchor without orders;" I desired him to slip the cable; he replied, "it is a chain cable clinched to the bottom, and we can't unshackle it;" as I jumped on board to look, Lieutenant Corbett staggered up from the stern, saying "I have done it, and am alive!" Yes, he had cut the chain cable with a cold chisel, and in doing so received five different wounds, which, with a severe wound received on shore, rendered him almost helpless; his right arm was hanging by his side, but with the left he assisted in getting the Victoria off to the Teazer. I have entered into particulars here, because I feel that such heroic devotion deserves to be recorded.

4. On leaving the Victoria I was shot in the back with a musket ball, and I found that I had too many of my force wounded to justify an attempt to recover the life-boat on this occasion, and most reluctantly left her on the beach, and returned to the Teazer. Some 40 or 50 of the enemy had the audacity to go on board the life-boat, seeing which, Mr. Balfour, acting mate, assisted by Mr. Dewar, gunner, threw a rocket into her magazine and blew it up.

5. On reaching the Teazer, I ordered all the provisions to be taken out of her, the coals, with the exception of ten tons, to be thrown overboard, and shored her up. We were not much annoyed by the enemy on this occasion. At sunset we succeeded in heaving her off, and anchored, out of gun-shot, for the night.

6. I had decided not to go up to you if I found the Bloodhound afloat at daylight, until I could communicate, by signal, the number of wounded men there were on board this small vessel; but as you were aground, I felt it to be my duty to join, which I did at 9 o'clock A.M. on the 27th, and took a position opposite the town batteries. Our proceedings there came under your own observation, and therefore need no comment from me.

7. Where each officer and man vied with the other in performing daring exploits of valour, I naturally feel a difficulty in naming particular individuals; but the prominent position of those who were in command, on whose coolness and courage the safety of the persons subordinate to them depended, compels me, in justice, to bring to your notice Commander Hillyar, Lieutenants Marshall, Rich, and Corbett, and Lieutenant Williams of the Royal Marine Artillery, who, although severely wounded in three places, remained at the head of his men until the last; also Lieutenant Leckie, commanding the Teazer, and Mr. W. R. Bent, senior mate.

Mr. John Brown, Master of the Penelope, was of great assistance in piloting the Teazer.

Mr. F. R. Fletcher, Midshipman, in charge of the 2nd cutter, who had the care of the boats while on shore, received a mortal wound, and died in the execution of his duty.

James Webb, gunner's mate, in attempting to spike the gun of the 1st life-boat, was cut down and mortally wounded.

The warrant officers, Mr. Dewar, gunner, Mr. Blight, boatswain, and Mr. Wilcox, carpenter, distinguished themselves.

The medical officers, Mr. R. Carpenter, senior surgeon in the expedition, Mr. Walling, assistant-surgeon of the Penelope, Dr. Barclay, acting surgeon, and Dr. Sproule, assistant-surgeon, never flinched from their duty; in the midst of the fire they stepped from boat to boat, and alleviated the sufferings of the wounded and the dying.

To each of the above-mentioned and other officers and men engaged with me, and to the seamen and marines, collectively and individually, my warmest thanks are due; under the most trying circumstances their ardour was never checked, their spirit was never daunted.

8. I enclose a list of the killed and wounded. I deeply regret the loss which has been sustained, but even if it had been greater, I should feel that I had done my duty in preventing one of Her Majesty's ships from falling into the hands of the enemy.

9. I am happy to report that the 1st life-boat has been recovered.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) H. LYSTER, Captain of H.M.S. Penelope.

TREASURY WARRANT.

Whereas by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," certain scales of weight and rates of postage were fixed and made chargeable and payable upon, for, or in respect of letters, newspapers, parliamentary proceedings, and printed papers, transmitted and forwarded by the post; and various regulations were made for facilitating the transmission of such letters and papers by the post:

And whereas by an Act, passed in the eleventh year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for giving further facilities for the transmission of letters by post, and for the regulating the duties of postage thereon, and for other purposes relating to the Post-office," the proviso concerning the maximum weight of letters to be sent by the post, as fixed in and by the said first-mentioned Act, is repealed; and in order to prevent packets of an unwieldy bulk or an inconvenient size being transmitted by the post, power is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, at any time or times thereafter, by warrant under their hands, to fix a maximum weight of letters to be sent by the post, and from time to time to repeal or revoke such maximum weight, wholly or in part, and declare any other maximum of weight in lieu thereof, and all letters are to be forwarded, conveyed, and delivered by the post in conformity with any such warrant, and also in conformity with, and under and subject to, all such orders, conditions, limitations, regulations, and restrictions as to the form, size, or dimensions thereof, whether in proportion to the weight or otherwise, as the Postmaster-General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, shall from time to time direct. And by the said Act power is also given to the Postmaster-General to collect and receive the foreign and colonial postage, charged or chargeable on any letters sent by the post, and also, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, to require the postage, British, colonial, or foreign,

of any letters sent by the post to be prepaid, either in money or in stamps, as he may think fit, on the same being put into the Post-office; and also with such consent to abolish or restrict the prepayment in money of postage on letters sent by the post, either altogether or on certain letters, and to require the prepayment thereof to be in stamps, and to refuse to receive or send by the post any letters tendered contrary to any regulations thereby made. And it is also declared and enacted, that it shall be lawful for the Postmaster-General, and any officer of the Post-office, to detain any letters which shall be posted or sent by the post contrary to the regulations of that Act or the first-mentioned Act, or contrary to the regulations of any Treasury Warrant to be issued under or by virtue of that Act, or which had been or should be issued under or by virtue of the said first-mentioned Act, and to open such letters, and either to return them to the senders thereof, or to forward them to the places of their destination, charged in either case with such rates of postage as the Postmaster-General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, shall from time to time direct:

Now we, the undersigned, being two of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, do, in exercise of the powers reserved to us in and by the said before-mentioned Acts, or either of them, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, by this warrant under our hands, order and direct that printed books, printed magazines, printed reviews, and printed pamphlets, whether British, colonial, or foreign, posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to the island of Heligoland, or posted in the said island of Heligoland, addressed to the United Kingdom, may be transmitted by the post between any part of the United Kingdom and Heligoland, direct by packet-boat or viâ the territory of Hamburgh (conveyed direct by packet-boat between the United Kingdom and the territory of Hamburgh), subject to the several regulations and rates hereinafter contained; that is to say:

On every packet consisting of a single printed book, or printed magazine, or printed review, or printed pamphlet, the several sheets or parts of which, when more than one, shall be sewed or bound together, if not exceeding half a pound in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of sixpence;

And on every such packet, if exceeding half a pound, and not exceeding one pound in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of one shilling;

And on every such packet, if exceeding one pound, and not exceeding two pounds in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of two shillings;

And on every such packet, if exceeding two pounds, and not exceeding three pounds in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of three shillings;

And for every additional one pound in weight of any such packet above the weight of three pounds, there shall be charged and taken an additional rate of postage of one shilling; and every fraction of such additional pound shall be charged as an additional pound.

And we further order and direct, that no such packet, if containing more than one printed book, or printed magazine, or printed review, or printed pamphlet, or containing any paper or thing besides a printed book, printed magazine, printed review, or printed pamphlet, or containing any printed magazine, printed review, or printed pamphlet, the several sheets or parts of which, when more than one, shall not be sewed or bound together, or which packet, in length, or breadth, or width, or depth, shall exceed the dimensions of two feet, or twenty-four inches, shall be forwarded by the post under the provisions aforesaid.

And we further order and direct, that as to any packet hereinbefore authorized to be sent by the post under the provisions aforesaid, which shall be posted in the United Kingdom, the postage thereof shall in every case be prepaid at the time of the same being posted, not in money, but by being duly stamped with the proper British postage stamp or stamps affixed thereto: which stamp or stamps shall in every case be affixed or appear on the outside of every such packet, near the address, and shall be of the value or amount of the postage duty payable thereon, under or by virtue of this warrant; and as to any such packet posted in the island of Heligoland, the postage thereof shall in every case be prepaid in money, at the time of the same being posted.

And we further order and direct, that every such packet shall be sent without a cover, or in a cover or envelope open at the ends or sides, and shall contain printed matter only, with the binding thereof, and there shall be no writing or marks upon the cover or envelope thereof, or upon or within any part of the contents thereof, other than the name and address of the person to whom the packet shall be sent.

And in order to prevent any obstacles to the due and regular transmission of letters by the post, we further direct, that it shall be lawful for any officer of the Post-office in the United Kingdom, to delay the transmission of any packet, posted or forwarded by the post under the provisions of this warrant, for the space of twenty-four hours from the time at which (or at his option until the dispatch of the mail next after that by which,) the same ought otherwise to have been forwarded by him.

And we further direct, that nothing hereinbefore contained shall be construed to interfere with or affect the transmission by the post of printed votes and proceedings of the Imperial Parliament, or of printed votes and proceedings of the Colonial Legislatures, nor of printed papers, or other printed publications which are allowed to pass by the post under the newspaper privilege.

And we further order and direct, that if any packet sent, or tendered or delivered in order to be sent, by the post under the provisions of this present warrant, shall contain any paper or thing besides a printed book, printed magazine, printed review, or printed pamphlet, and the binding thereof; or shall have any writing or marks upon the same, or upon the cover or envelope thereof, except the name and address of the person to whom it is forwarded; or shall not be open at the ends or sides; or shall in length, or breadth, or width, or depth, exceed the dimensions of two feet, or twenty-four inches; or shall contain more than one printed book, or printed magazine, or printed review, or printed pamphlet, or shall contain any printed book, printed magazine, printed review, or printed pamphlet, the several sheets or parts of which, when more than one, shall not be sewed or bound together; or if the postage of any such packet, posted in the United Kingdom, shall not be duly and properly prepaid by British stamps when posted, or if the postage of any such packet, posted in the island of Heligoland, shall not be duly and properly prepaid in money when posted, the same shall and may be detained and opened, at any place in the United Kingdom, and at the option of the Postmaster-General, shall be either returned or given up to the sender thereof, or be given up to the person to whom it shall be addressed, or be forwarded to the place of its destination; and any such packet on being so returned, given up, or forwarded, shall be chargeable with the like amount of postage to which it would have been liable as a letter.

And we further direct, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to extend to any packets sent through any foreign country to which a transit rate of postage would be payable thereon, nor to any packets sent by private ships.

And we further order and direct, that the term "by the post" used in this warrant, shall, as to the sea conveyance, include the conveyance by packet-boat; and that the several other terms and expressions used in this warrant, shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects, as they would have had if inserted in the said Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty.

And we further direct, that this warrant shall come into operation on the first day of May, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two.

Provided lastly, and we do hereby declare and direct, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, for the time being, of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any two of them, by warrant under their hands, at any time hereafter to alter or repeal any of the rates hereby fixed or altered or the regulations hereby made; and to make and establish any new or other rates or regulations in lieu thereof, and, from time to time, to appoint at what time the rates that may be payable are to be paid.

TREASURY WARRANT.

Whereas by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," it is enacted, that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's Postmaster-General to charge on all letters conveyed by the post between places within any of Her Majesty's colonies, or conveyed by packet-boats, between one part of Her Majesty's dominions and another part of the same dominions, or between Her Majesty's dominions and foreign parts, or between one port in any foreign country and another port in the same or any other foreign country where post communications shall be established, and where rates of postage have not hitherto been authorized by law; and also to charge on all letters conveyed by any vessels to or from any of the colonies, or between any of the colonies, or between any of the colonies and a foreign port, and on all letters which shall be brought by the master of any vessel to the Post-office in any of the colonies such rates of postage as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by warrant under their hands, shall from time to time direct :

And by the same Act, power is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of British or inland postage payable by law on the transmission by the post of foreign or colonial letters, or newspapers, or any other printed papers, and to subject the same to rates of postage according to the weight thereof, and a scale of weight to be contained in such warrant, and from time to time, by warrant as aforesaid, to alter or repeal any such altered rates, and to make and establish any new or other rates in lieu thereof, and, by warrant as aforesaid, to appoint at what time the rates that might be payable were to be paid; and it is provided that the power thereby given to alter and fix rates of postage, should extend to any increase, or reduction, or remission of postage :

And whereas it is expedient that further regulations should be made for the transmission by the post of the letters and newspapers hereinafter mentioned :

Now we, the undersigned, being two of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, do, in exercise of the power or authority in us for such purpose vested in and by the said Act, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, by this warrant under our hands, direct, that on every letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight, posted in or addressed to any of the Danish colonies in the West Indies, and transmitted by the post between any place in the United Kingdom and any port or place in such colonies (the sea conveyance being by British packet-boats) there shall be charged and taken, in lieu of any rates of British postage now payable by law on such letters, an uniform British rate of one shilling.

And we further direct, that on every letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight, posted in or addressed to any of the Danish colonies in the West Indies, and transmitted by British packet-boat between any ports in such colonies, or between any of such colonies and any port in the British West Indies, or any port in Martinique, Guadaloupe, Venezuela, or New Granada, without in any case such letters passing through the United Kingdom, there shall be charged and taken, in lieu of any rates of British postage now payable by law on such letters, an uniform British rate of four pence.

And we further direct, that on every letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight, posted in or addressed to any of the Danish colonies in the West Indies, and transmitted by British packet-boats, viâ Panama, between any of such colonies and any port or place on the western coast of South America, without passing through the United Kingdom, there shall be charged and taken, in lieu of any rates of British postage now payable by law on such letters, an uniform British rate of one shilling and four pence.

And we direct, that on every letter transmitted as is mentioned in this warrant, exceeding half an ounce in weight, there shall be charged, taken, and paid, progressive and additional rates of postage as follows (that is to say):

On every such letter exceeding half an ounce in weight, and not exceeding one ounce in weight, two rates of postage.

On every such letter exceeding one ounce, and not exceeding two ounces in weight, four rates of postage.

On every such letter exceeding two ounces, and not exceeding three ounces in weight, six rates of postage.

And on every such letter exceeding three ounces, and not exceeding four ounces in weight, eight rates of postage.

And for every ounce in weight above the weight of four ounces, there shall be charged and taken two additional rates of postage, and every fraction of an ounce above the weight of four ounces shall be charged as one additional ounce, and each progressive and additional rate chargeable under this clause shall be estimated and charged at the sum which any such letter would be charged with under this warrant if not exceeding half an ounce in weight.

And we further direct, that such printed newspapers as are hereinafter mentioned, may be sent by the post according to the regulations and rates hereinafter set forth, which rates shall be in lieu of any rates of British postage now payable by law on such newspapers (that is to say):

Newspapers between any of Her Majesty's colonies and the United States of America through the United Kingdom by the closed mail, viâ Marseilles, the sea conveyance between such colonies and Marseilles being by British packet-boat, three pence each.

Newspapers between any of Her Majesty's colonies and British North America through the United Kingdom and also through the United States by the closed mail, viâ Marseilles, the sea conveyance between such colonies and Marseilles being by British packet-boat, four pence each.

British newspapers posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to Belgium, and sent to that country either direct or in closed mails, viâ France (the sea conveyance being by packet-boat), free.

Newspapers published in Belgium, and sent from thence to any part of the United Kingdom either direct or in closed mails, viâ France (the sea conveyance being by packet-boat), one halfpenny each.

And we direct, that every printed supplement or additional sheet to any newspaper shall, for the purpose of charging the postage under this warrant, be deemed a distinct newspaper, unless sent in the same cover or together with the newspaper to which it is a supplement or addition.

And we direct, that no such printed newspaper shall be sent by the post at the rates aforesaid, unless the following conditions shall be observed:

First. Every such newspaper shall be sent without a cover, or in a band or cover open at the sides or ends.

Second. There shall be no word or communication printed on the newspaper after its publication, or upon the cover thereof, nor any writing or marks upon it, or upon the cover of it, except the name and address of the person to whom sent.

Third. There shall be no paper or thing enclosed in or with any such newspaper.

And in case any one of such conditions shall not be fulfilled, the whole paper or packet shall be charged with the letter rates of postage.

And we direct, that as to any packet authorized to be sent by the post under the provisions of a warrant under the hands of two of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, dated the second day of June one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one, and which shall be posted in Canada, or the Ionian Islands, and also as to any packet authorized to be sent by the post under the provisions of a warrant under the hands of two of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, dated the eleventh day of August one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one, and which shall be posted in Nova Scotia, the postage thereof shall, in every case, be prepaid either in money or by the proper colonial postage stamp or stamps being affixed thereto at the time of the same being posted; and if the postage of any such packet, posted in Canada, the Ionian Islands, or Nova Scotia, shall not be duly and properly prepaid in money or by colonial stamps when posted, the same shall and may be detained and opened at any place in the United Kingdom, and, at the option of the Postmaster-General, shall be either returned or given up to the sender thereof, or be given up to the person to whom it shall be addressed, or be forwarded to the place of its destination; and any such packet, on being so returned, given up, or forwarded, shall be chargeable with the like amount of postage to which it would have been liable as a letter.

And we further direct, that nothing herein contained shall be deemed or construed to annul, prejudice, or affect any of the exemptions and privileges granted by the said recited Act, or by any other Acts of Parliament relating to the Post-office, and that all such exemptions and privileges shall remain in full force.

And we further direct, that the term "British West Indies," used in this warrant, shall include the Bermudas, Bahamas, and other British islands commonly called the West Indies, as also the colonies of British Guiana and Honduras, and their respeetive dependencies; and that the term "by the post," used in this warrant, shall, as to the sea eonveyanee, include the conveyance by packet-boat; and that the several other terms and expressions used in this warrant, shall be eonstrued to have the like meaning in all respeets as they would have had if inserted in the said Aet.

ADMIRALTY NOTICE

RESPECTING LIGHTS TO BE CARRIED BY SEA-GOING VESSELS TO PREVENT COLLISION.

By the Commissioners for Executing the Office of Lord High Admiral of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, &c. &c.

By virtue of the power and authority vested in Us by the Act 14 and 15 Victoria, Cap. 79, dated 7th August, 1851, we hereby require and direct that the following Regulations be strictly observed:—

Steam Vessels.

All British Sea-going Steam Vessels (whether propelled by Paddles or Screws) shall within all Seas, Gulfs, Channels, Straits, Bays, Creeks, Roads, Roadsteads, Harbours, Havens, Ports, and Rivers, and under all circumstances, between sunset and sunrise, exhibit Lights of such description, and in such manner, as hereinafter mentioned, viz:

When under Steam.
- A Bright White Light at the Foremast Head.
- A Green Light on the Starboard Side.
- A Red Light on the Port Side.

1. The Mast-head Light is to be visible at a distance of at least five miles in a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, and the Lantern is to be so constructed as to shew a uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of twenty points of the Compass, being ten points on each side of the Ship, viz. from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on either side.

2. The Green Light on the Starboard side is to be visible at a distance of at least two miles in a dark night, with a clear atmosphere; and the Lantern is to be so constructed as to shew a uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of ten points of the Compass, viz. from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the Starboard side.

3. The Red Light on the Port side is likewise to be fitted so as to throw its light the same distance on that side.

4. The side Lights are moreover to be fitted with screens, on the inboard side, of at least three feet long, to prevent the lights from being seen across the bow.

When at Anchor.—A Common Bright Light.

Sailing Vessels.

We hereby require that all Sailing Vessels when under sail, or being towed, approaching or being approached by any other Vessel, shall be bound to shew between sunset and sunrise a bright light in such a position as can be best seen by such vessel or vessels, and in sufficient time to avoid collision.

All Sailing Vessels at anchor in Roadsteads or Fairways, shall be also bound to exhibit between sunset and sunrise, a constant bright light at the Mast-head, except within Harbours or other places where regulations for other Lights for Ships are legally established.

The Lantern to be used when at anchor, both by Steam Vessels and Sailing Vessels, is to be so constructed as to shew a clear good light all round the horizon.

We hereby revoke all Regulations heretofore made by us relating to Steam Vessels exhibiting or carrying Lights; and we require that the preceding Regulations be strictly carried into effect, on and after the 1st of August, 1852.

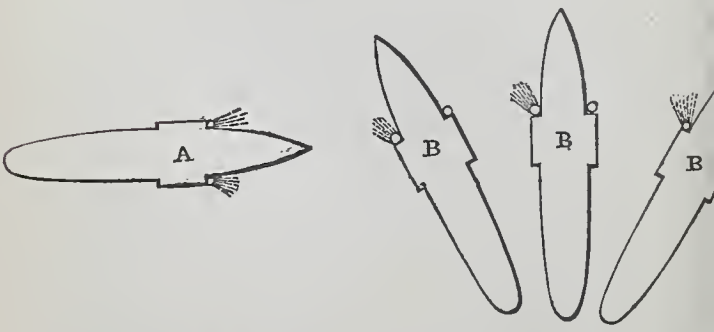
Given under our hands the 1st day of May, 1852.

HYDE PARKER.
P. HORNBY.

By Command of their Lordships,
W. A. B. HAMILTON.

Diagrams intended to illustrate the working of this mode of fitting Lights.

1st Situation.



In this situation the Steamer A. will only see the Red Light of the Vessel B. in whichsoever of the three positions the latter may happen to be, because the Green Light will be hid from view. A. will be assured that the Port side of B. is towards him, and that the latter is therefore crossing the bows of A. in some direction to Port. A. will therefore (if so close as to fear collision) Port his helm with confidence, and pass clear. On the other hand, the Vessel B. in either of the three positions, will see the Red, Green, and Mast-head Lights of A. appear in a triangular form, by which the former will know that a Steamer is approaching directly towards him.—B. will act accordingly.

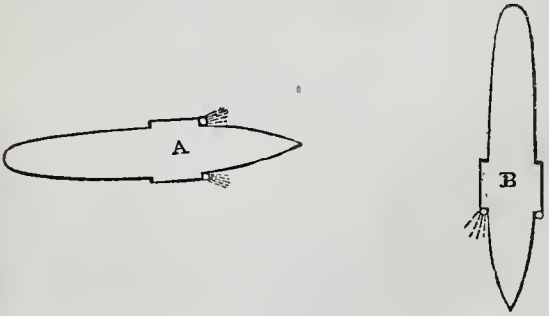
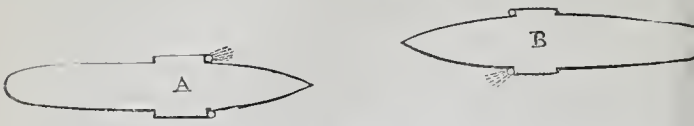
It is scarcely necessary to remark that the Mast-head Light will always be visible in every situation till abaft the Beam.

2ND SITUATION.



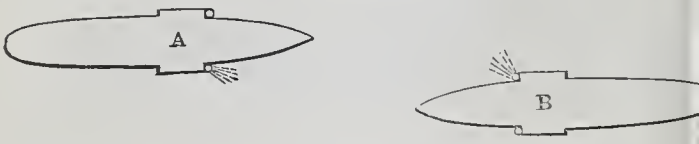
Here A. will see B's Green Light only, which will clearly indicate to the former that B. is crossing to Starboard. Again A's three Lights being visible to B. will apprize the latter that a Steamer is steering directly towards him.

3RD SITUATION.



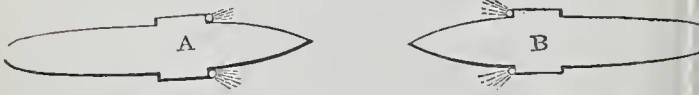
A. and B. will see each other's Red Light only; the screens preventing the Green Lights from being seen. Both Vessels are evidently passing to Port.

4TH SITUATION.



Here a Green Light only will be visible to each; the screens preventing the Red Lights from being seen. They are therefore passing to Starboard.

5TH SITUATION.



Here the two coloured Lights, visible to each, will indicate their direct approach towards each other. In this situation both should put their helms to Port.

Directions for fitting the Lights.

The manner of fixing the Coloured Lights is to be particularly attended to. They should be fitted, each, with a screen of wood, on the inboard side, in order to prevent both being seen at the same moment from any direction but that of right-a-head.

This is important, for without the screens (a principle first introduced with this plan) any plan of bow-lights would be ineffective as a means of indicating the direction of steering.

This will be readily understood by a reference to the preceding illustrations, where it will appear evident, that in any situation in which two vessels may approach each other in the dark, the coloured lights will instantly indicate to both the relative course of each—that is, each will know whether the other is approaching directly or crossing the bows, either to starboard or to port. This intimation is all that is required to enable vessels to pass each other in the darkest night, with almost equal safety as in broad day, and for the want of which so many lamentable accidents have occurred.

Patterns of the Lanterns to be carried, and of the mode in which the Screens are to be fitted, may be seen at the Custom Houses of the principal Commercial Ports of the United Kingdom.

By command of their Lordships,
W. A. B. HAMILTON.

NOTE.—The system of Night Lights laid down in the above Regulations has been adopted in Her Majesty's Service, and by the Governments of the principal Foreign Maritime Nations.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MAY 11, 1852.

Downing-Street, May 8, 1852.

THE Right Honourable Sir John S. Pakington has this day received a Dispatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are Copies, addressed to the Right Honourable Earl Grey by Lieutenant-General Sir Henry G. W. Smith, Bart., K.G.C.B.

No. 47.—Military.

Camp, Blinkwater,
17th March 1852.

My Lord,

I HAD the honour to receive on the 1st instant at King William's Town your Lordship's Dispatch, No. 732, of the 14th January last, intimating to me that Her Majesty's Government had deemed it an unavoidable duty to relieve me from my present position, that my Sovereign had approved of the measure, and that my successor was immediately to leave England. At that period, however, such were the prospects of this war, and so rapid the progression towards that state of things which can alone perpetuate peace (best shown by the Proclamation issued by me on the 6th of February, and again enclosed), that a sense of the duty which has guided me in the service of my Sovereign and country for so many years, induced me to persevere in the preparatory steps I had taken for the expulsion from certain strongholds within the colony, of the rebel Gaikas and Hottentots under the wily Chief Macomo, a renegade from the authority of his paramount Chief Sandili; as also for expelling the Gaika tribes from British Kaffraria, and driving them over the Great Kei. My intention was communicated to your Lordship in my despatch of the 16th ultimo.

2. I have the honour, therefore, to report that on the 5th instant I moved the 12th Lancers and a large detachment of the Cape Mounted Rifles under Lieutenant-Colonel Pole; two guns Royal Artillery, the 6th, 60th, and four companies of the 45th Regiment, with detachments of Hottentot and Fingoe levies, under Lieutenant-Colonel Michel; two guns Royal Artillery, the 43rd Light Infantry and 73rd Regiment, and detachments of Hottentot and Fingoe levies, under Lieutenant-Colonel Eyre, all well supplied with provisions, to the general rendezvous at Fort Beaufort, where I established my head-quarters.

3. On the 4th instant Major-General Somerset had a smart affair with the enemy in the Water Kloof, in which the 91st Regiment greatly distinguished itself; Lieutenant-Colonel Yarborough, of that regiment, and Captain Bramly, of the Cape Mounted Rifles, having, however, been severely, and Ensign Hibbert, of the 91st, slightly wounded. The Chief Macomo fought with great determination; but one hundred head of cattle and forty horses were captured—the best criterion of success. Subsequently to this affair, such part of Major-General Somerset's division as was available for the field, consisting of the 91st Regiment, four companies of the 74th Highlanders, the Cape Mounted Rifles, and strong detachments of Hottentot and Fingoe levies, was assembled at Haddon's Old Post, on the western end of the low mountain range forming the Water Kloof, Blinkwater, and Fuller's Hoek; the best position it could occupy with reference to my intended operations.

4. Meanwhile, Lieutenant-Colonel Perceval, with a detachment Royal Artillery and a gun, with rockets, the 12th Regiment, detachments of the 91st Regiment, Cape Mounted Rifles, and Armstrong's Horse, and Hottentot and Fingoe levies, and burghers, had been ordered to act on the enemy's position in the Fish River Bush. The various posts of defence in the neighbourhood of my proposed scene of action, viz. Whittlesea, Eland's Post, Blinkwater, and Post Retief, were at the same time strengthened for the purpose of patrolling.

5. On the 9th instant the troops marched to establish themselves on their respective bases of operation, as set forth in the instructions annexed; and I established my head-quarters at the Blinkwater Post—a commanding and central position.

6. On the 10th instant, the several officers in command, viz. Lieutenant-Colonels Michel, Eyre, and Napier, having well reconnoitered the strong positions held by the rebels, moved forward to the attack. The enemy was everywhere well prepared, and received them, especially Lieutenant-Colonel Eyre, whose column I had reinforced with two additional guns and two companies of the 74th from the Blinkwater Post, with his usual war cry, and even more than common demonstrations of defiance.

7. The enemy opposed to Lieutenant-Colonel Eyre was well and judiciously posted in that part of the range called Fuller's Hoek, very extensive and densely wooded, and where Macomo's "Den," as they termed it, was so strongly situated in a deep kloof as to be regarded almost inaccessible. By the activity of Captain Faddy, of the Royal Artillery, the four guns were with incredible exertion dragged up a precipitous ascent, judiciously posted and well served, aided by rockets. The Lieutenant-Colonel moved upon these savages in eight small columns of attack, and the troops carried every thing before them. Every obstacle was speedily overcome; and a well-known and most difficult pass, held stoutly by the enemy, was gallantly carried by Captain Campbell, of the 73rd Regiment, with a company of his own corps and two companies of the 43rd Light Infantry. The troops crowned the heights, where they burned many villages, destroyed some cultivation, drove the enemy before them in every direction, and bivouacked for the night.

8. On the following day, the 11th instant, Lieutenant-Colonel Eyre made the most able disposition of his troops, so as to descend the mountain and effectually dislodge the enemy from those positions which the columns had been able only to pass through on the previous day. His special object also was, to assail the Den and stronghold of Macomo, the destruction of which I regarded as a great step towards the humbling of the rebels; for although Sandili and the Gaikas affected humility and a desire for peace, I well knew that all eyes were intent on the result of these operations. Colonel Eyre, aware of the importance I attached to this service, headed the column for the assault of the Den, the descent to which was found by the assistance of a captured woman, a flight of natural steps affording great means of defence. This column was most successful, though stoutly resisted; the Den was carried, the four guns firing into it with sanguinary effect, and 130 women, now prisoners, were found stowed away in the clefts of rock. Among them is Macomo's young and favourite wife, as also his great wife, a Tambookie, much regarded among the tribe, and mother of his great son Namba. Large quantities of European wearing apparel, provisions of different kinds, some little gunpowder, a bullet mould and supply of lead in bars, were found in the Den, which was completely destroyed, and the huts consumed. The number slain by our guns was very great, eleven having been found in one spot, and seven in another, and many fell in the assault. Meanwhile, Captain Campbell made his way down the difficult pass by which he had ascended the day before, and was again stoutly resisted by the enemy in front and flank. Here three gallant soldiers of the 73rd regiment fell, another being at the same time wounded, and farther on, Lieutenant the Honourable Henry Wrottesley of the 43rd, received a mortal wound.

9. The carrying by our troops of this "Den," heretofore regarded as inaccessible, has had throughout the effect of magic; and no positive resistance has since been offered. Colonel Eyre continued his operations through the whole of the extensive fastnesses of the Fuller's Hoek and adjoining kloofs, but the enemy appeared no more. On the 15th instant, he again ascended the passes, and re-visited Macomo's Den, to shew the enemy our determination to expel him. Not a single Kafir was to be seen; and Colonel Eyre and the rest of the officers, who had then leisure for observation, describe the loss suffered by the enemy as evidently very considerable, and much greater than they had believed. It indeed could not well be otherwise, exposed as he was to the fire of four well-directed guns and rockets, and so hemmed in that he necessarily suffered severely from musketry, and even from the bayonet.

10. On the same day, the 10th instant, Lieutenant-Colonel Michel's column moved from Blakeway's Farm, ascended the heights, the guns being with great exertion brought up an almost impracticable acclivity, and occupied the dense bush connecting Fuller's Hoek with the Water Kloof, formerly the scene of considerable conflict. Every part of this bush was well traversed, and many kraals destroyed. Few of the rebel Hottentots or Kafirs shewed themselves, until Lieutenant-Colonel Napier's column, ascending the valley of the Water Kloof, entered the narrow and bushy defile which forms its head.

Here he was fiercely attacked, the onset of the enemy being, according to his usual custom, especially directed to the rear of the advancing column. This was, however, judiciously anticipated by Colonel Napier, who advantageously posted the 91st Regiment, under Major Forbes, so as to resist the attack. The rebels were daring on this occasion, and well sustained the fight until they saw Colonel Michel advancing, when they gave way in every direction and fled into the dense bush to escape pursuit.

11. On the following day, these two columns acted simultaneously, driving the enemy before them, and destroying his villages in the Water Kloof. On the third day it was necessary for both to procure provisions at their respective bases of operation. Colonel Michel very judiciously took the opportunity to report himself to me; and I at the same time ascertained that 200 Boers of the district of Somerset and the Konap had arrived at Haddon's Old Post. Upon this, I immediately dispatched Major-General Somerset, whom I had retained with me at head-quarters, to take the command of these burghers and of Colonel Napier's column. On doing so, the Major-General at once ascended the heights overhanging the Water Kloof, bringing up his two guns by a very difficult ascent; and then proceeded to penetrate the bush with his infantry, while his mounted force watched the open—thus acting simultaneously with Colonel Michel. In these operations the enemy showed little resistance. On the afternoon of the 15th instant, observing a number of the enemy in possession of cattle in a deep valley, General Somerset dispatched his mounted force of Cape Corps and burghers, under Lieutenant-Colonel Napier, in pursuit. One hundred and thirty head, and many horses were captured, several of the rebels slain, and some fifty women and children made prisoners.

12. On the 15th instant, Lieutenant-Colonel Michel, having replenished his provisions, moved from the base of his operations to the neighbourhood of the Eisler Krantz, or "Iron Mountain," in the Water Kloof, where he halted and cooked. His intention was to assail this mountain with small parties, according to the mode in which he had previously conducted his operations; but observing that the Kafirs numerously occupied the rocky heights, and were evidently prepared for a determined resistance, he collected his troops, advanced in regular order, and endeavoured to turn the position. A rocky ravine, however, well maintained by the enemy, posted behind bushy rocks, prohibited any successful attempt upon his flank. A direct advance to the front became therefore necessary, and was immediately ordered by Colonel Michel; so well, however, was it met by the enemy, that the troops received a momentary check; when Captain Hope's company of the 60th Rifles, fixed swords, charged, and carried the mountain, supported by the column. The enemy were driven over krantzes and rocks with great slaughter; many cattle and horses were captured, in the defence of which so stout a resistance had been made; and Major Bedford, with two companies of the 60th Rifles, pursued the fugitives over declivities nearly impassable, many more cattle falling into his hands. The whole capture amounted to 560 head and 75 horses; some of the latter being very valuable. In this gallant and rapid affair, Colonel Michel reports that he remarked the especial gallantry displayed by Captain Hope and Lieutenant Du Cane of the 60th Rifles, by his Brigade-Major, Lieutenant Whitmore, of the Cape corps, and by Mr. De Ro-beck, of Armstrong's Horse. Colonel Michel subsequently continued his operations with every activity, and all the country placed before him was well cleared of the enemy. On the morning of the 15th instant, Captain Taylor, with his company of Hottentot levies, had a sharp affair with a party of the rebels, and captured eleven horses. This was the last occasion on which the enemy appeared. Colonel Michel describes Captain Taylor's company of levies as deserving the name of soldiers.

13. On the 10th instant, Lieutenant-Colonel Perceval, with his column strengthened by the force assembled from Graham's Town and its neighbourhood, and aided by a few burghers of that town, attacked the strong position of the Chief Stock in the Fish River Bush, in two divisions, under himself and Major Armstrong. These simultaneous and well-conducted movements, in a very difficult country, were completely successful; and after a sharp conflict, in which Colonel Perceval much praises the conduct of Major Armstrong, the enemy were driven from every point. One hundred and ninety head of cattle were captured, as well as large flocks of goats, some horses, and several stand of arms; among the latter the double-barrelled fowling-piece of the Chief Dodo, who is believed to have fallen in the fight. The enemy was so hotly pushed as to drive a small herd of cattle into the Fish River, which was full. Nineteen of these, and a Kafir, were shot in the act of swimming. Colonel Perceval was preparing, when I last heard from him, to attack the Chief Tola, who occupied a position somewhat higher up the river; of whom he will, no doubt, give a good account.

14. Your Lordship will perceive, by the instructions which I enclose, that Lieutenant-Colonel Pole, with the 12th Lancers, has been placed intermediately between Eland's Post and Post Retief, so as to intercept fugitives from the Water Kloof range of mountains during the progress of the operations which I have described. The different posts on the line of the enemy's retreat into the Amatolas have also detached parties to occupy the numerous drifts of the rivers; and the Fingoes of Fort Beaufort and Fort Hare have been most successful in capturing horses and cattle, and in adding to the consternation of the rebels. They were fleeing yesterday in all directions, in the distance, past this post—men, women, and children—without cattle; and I pronounce these difficult, and heretofore well-maintained, positions of the enemy, viz. the Water Kloof, Blinkwater, and Fuller's Hoek, to be now completely cleared.

15. This day, the 17th instant, the columns of Lieutenant-Colonels Michel and Eyre, under my immediate command, move, with five days' provisions, on the Chumie range of the Amatolas, for the purpose of dislodging the tribe of Tyalie and the rebel Hottentots, and then penetrating into the heart of the mountains, while I leave Major-General Somerset with his division to pursue the retreating enemy, 200 Cradock burghers under the Civil Commissioner, Mr. Gilfillan, operating at the same time from Whittlesea against the Tambookies. Every part of the rebel enemy's country will thus be assailed.

16. I deeply regret, for the credit of the frontier inhabitants, to report that only 200 burghers from the district of Somerset, 200 from Cradock, and 33 from Graham's Town, have responded to my command. They first objected to the volunteer system which I offered to their loyalty. They then requested to be commanded to turn out. Their shuffling conduct is melancholy. There are many loyal and energetic men who do not fall under this censure, especially the burghers of Albert, under Mr. Cole, who, although they have not turned out on this last occasion, having been only just dismissed after a long and harassing though successful inroad over the Upper Kei, have done right good service during the war.

17. I am fully aware that I have been accused, during the progress of this campaign, of using the language of hyperbole in describing the numerous rencontres which have occurred, and in giving praise to the gallant officers and troops as well as burghers. Possessing, however, some experience in war, I must maintain that such is not the case. Troops acting in the open field expect not the stimulus of praise; the soldier sees his foe and his British courage rises at each step; but he who, after perhaps a night march of great length, has to ascend mountains or penetrate dense bush and ravines, filled probably with a daring and intrepid enemy, as resolute as athletic, ready to murder any one who may fall into his hands, and whose warfare is of the most stealthy and enterprising kind, appreciates the praise of his commander, because when his acts are conspicuously daring, he is conscious he deserves it. He does his duty; but human nature renders even the soldier's intrepid heart sensible of the approbation of his superior, which he is proud to know may reach the eye of his parents and friends.

18. Upon the eve, therefore, of relinquishing this command, I will not shrink from the performance of my duty: and I here record the value I attach to the indefatigable services of Major-General Somerset, whose experience of thirty years in Kafir warfare, its difficulties and its labours, renders him a most valuable, as he is a highly deserving officer. Lieutenant-Colonel Michel, of the 6th Royal Regiment, has frequently distinguished himself in command, and on no occasion more so than in the recent affair of the 15th instant on the "Iron Mountain:" his energy in the field is equal to his zeal and attention to regimental duty. Lieutenant-Colonel Nesbitt, of the 60th Rifles, merits much praise; and I regret that I have been only able on one occasion to give him a separate command. Lieutenant-Colonel Eyre, perpetually in the field since the commencement of hostilities, has been so frequently praised by me for his invariable success in every operation entrusted to his conduct, that what I now add enhances, and does not merely establish, his reputation. I must here record my opinion of the soldierlike and judicious manner in which he carried and cleared the stronghold of the enemy in Fuller's Hoek, a position occupied with defiance by Macomo; and express my conviction that the war would remain unextinguished until that determined chief should be, as he has been, thoroughly dislodged and expelled. This has been effected in a masterly manner by the gallantry, judgment, and perseverance of Lieutenant-Colonel Eyre. The 73rd Regiment first set the example, under my orders, of taking the bush; they have been ever most successful, and the other regiments have emulated their exertions with equal results. Lieutenant-Colonel Pole has commanded his efficient regiment, the 12th Lancers, with zeal and activity. Lieutenant-Colonel Napier, of the Cape Mounted Rifles, has frequently been entrusted with the direction of patroles, which he has ever well conducted. Lieutenant-Colonel Yarborough, of the 91st, is a steady officer, and greatly distinguished himself on the day he was wounded. The 2nd Queen's Regiment have, upon this occasion, occupied the different forts; their services during the campaign under Lieutenant-Colonel Burns, have been valuable. Lieutenant-Colonel Skipwith, of the 43rd Light Infantry, is an officer of much promise. Licutenant-Colonel Perceval, of the 12th Regiment, has greatly attracted my attention by his exertions, ability, and natural talent for command. Major Kyle, commanding the four companies of the 45th Regiment, is a very valuable officer, and there is indeed no field officer, from the gallant Major Pinckney, of the 73rd, downwards—the senior of his rank in this army—who has not well performed his many arduous duties.

19. I fear, my Lord, that I render this a lengthy despatch. At the wind-up of a fifteen months' campaign, desultory it is true, but on that account and opposed as we have been to from 20 to 25,000 intrepid warriors, probably of even a more than usually arduous character, much labour will naturally have devolved upon the officers of the staff, general as well as personal. I desire to draw your Lordship's attention to the services of Colonel Cloete, the Chief of the Staff, whose unremitting zeal in the performance of the many duties devolving upon him, has been as remarkable as the intelligence and perfect knowledge of his profession, which he has invariably evinced. I am deeply indebted to him, and the service equally so. Every officer of the General Staff has ably and zealously done his duty. To Lieutenant-Colonel Garvock, my Private Secretary, and Captain Maydwell, my Military Secretary, who have had the largest share of correspondence of every varied character, of any officers in this army, I am truly grateful. Their devotion to the public service merits every encomium. The perseverance of these officers has greatly contributed to ensure that economy in the public expenditure which I have endeavoured to enforce, and I hope with much success. My Aide-de-Camps, Major Holdich, Captain Smith, and Lieutenant Greville, have filled their situations with great utility to me and labour to themselves.

The officers and soldiers of this army, one and all, have undergone continued labour and fatigue in the prosecution of a most difficult warfare, extending over a territory larger than England, with that energy and courage conveyed by the words, "British Soldiers."

I have, &c.

PROCLAMATION

By His Excellency Lieutenant-General Sir Henry George Wakelyn Smith, Baronet, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath, Colonel of the Second Battalion Rifle Brigade, Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the colony of the Cape of Good Hope, in South Africa, and of the territories and dependencies thereof, and Ordinary and Vice-Admiral of the same; and Her Majesty's High Commissioner for the settling and adjustment of the affairs of the territories in Southern Africa, adjacent and contiguous to the eastern and north-eastern frontier of the said colony, &c. &c. &c.

WHEREAS the time has arrived when it is both just and expedient to expel the rebel Gaika tribes and the rebel Hottentots, from the Waterkloof, Blinkwater, Fuller's Hoek, Kat River, and the whole of the Amatola Mountains; all the burghers of the divisions of Albany, Somerset, Fort Beaufort, Victoria, Albert, Cradock, and Graaff-Reinet, between the ages of twenty and fifty, are commanded to assemble; that is to say:

The burghers of	Albany, at Fort Brown
„	Somerset, at Post Retief
„	Fort Beaufort, at Old Koonap Post
„	Victoria, at Fort Hare
„	Albert and Cradock, at Whittlesea
„	Graaff-Reinet, to assemble at Cradock, as a second line.

In the name and in behalf of Her Majesty, I do hereby proclaim and make known that the burghers aforesaid are commanded to take the field upon the old commando system, with this exception, the rations will be provided for themselves by Commissariat arrangements, but no expense will be incurred by the Government for arms, horses, or appointments. They are to nominate their own officers, but they will be moved by the Commander-in-Chief himself, after their assembly, upon those points where their services may be most required to co-operate with Her Majesty's Army, which will be so disposed in converging columns, under the Commander-in-Chief personally, as to sweep the whole country, extending from Fort Beaufort to the left bank of the Mancazana, and the Winterberg eastward to the Kie.

I do hereby proclaim to the colonists, that they are now called on and commanded by Her Majesty's representative to aid in the expulsion of those irreclaimable Gaikas and Hottentot rebels, in driving them over the Kei, and in establishing in perpetuity that security for this frontier which can alone protect the families, the homes, and the property of its inhabitants.

And I do hereby make known, and do warn all concerned, that if this commando be not promptly and fully obeyed, the colonists must bear the responsibility which will be entailed upon them by their own apathy.

The burghers will be at the points herein designated, by the 8th day of March proximo, prepared to move.

The head-quarters of the Commander-in-Chief will be, on the 8th day of March, either at Fort Beaufort or Fort Hare, as may be hereafter announced.

GOD save the QUEEN.

(Signed) H. G. SMITH, Governor.

By command of His Excellency the Governor, (Signed) JOHN GARVOCK, Lieut.-Col.
Private Secretary.

No. 2.

Head-Quarters, Fort Beaufort,
8th March 1852.

THE troops assembled at and near Fort Beaufort, to dislodge the rebel Hottentots and Kafirs under the Chief Macomo, occupying the strongholds of the Blinkwater, Fuller's Hoek, Water Kloof, &c. will be thus posted at the base of the respective operations of the different columns.

2. The right column under Lieutenant-Colonel Eyre, consisting of two guns Royal Artillery, 43rd Light Infantry, 73rd Regiment, and detachment of Levies, Hottentots, and Fingoes, at the Blinkwater Post. This column will be joined by two guns Royal Artillery, and two companies 74th Highlanders now occupying that post, Captain Harwell's Mounted Detachment now there, will march to Post Retief.

3. The centre column under Lieutenant-Colonel Michel, consisting of two guns Royal Artillery, 6th Royal Regiment, four companies 45th Regiment, 60th Rifles, and detachment of Hottentot and Fingoe levies at Blakeway's Farm.

4. These two columns will post themselves on these points to-morrow, Tuesday the 9th instant.

5. The left column under Lieutenant-Colonel Napier, consisting of two guns Royal Artillery, the 91st Regiment, four companies 74th Highlanders, 150 Cape Mounted Rifles, 200 Fingoes, and the burghers ordered to assemble at Haddon's Old Post, will make that post the base of its operations.

6. On Tuesday the 9th instant, this column will move and occupy the small farm, called Nel's Farm, on the road below the Bush Neck.

7. The 12th Lancers, and detachment Cape Mounted Rifles, are posted at Hertzog, near Eland's Post, for the purpose of interrupting the retreat of the rebels into the Amatola Mountains.

8. On Wednesday the 10th instant, the three columns will move to the attack.

The right column will direct its main exertions to dislodge the rebels from Fuller's Hoek, the ridge of which the enemy principally occupies, and where Macomo's kraal is.

9. The centre column will ascend the high ridge by the route pursued by Lieutenant-Colonel Fordyce, in the former attack, and will assail the Bushy Kloof, connecting Fuller's Hoek with the Water Kloof.

10. The left column will move by the waggon-road up the Water Kloof valley to its head, and will direct its Infantry and Cape Mounted Rifles to ascend thence, to meet the attack of the centre column, while its mounted force of burghers patroles, so as to cut off any dislodged fugitives, who may endeavour to cross from one kloof to the other, communicating with the mounted burghers expected to move from Post Retief.

11. The troops to carry with them three days' bread and field rations. It is possible they may supply themselves with slaughter cattle, but, whether or not, they must not be withdrawn from any stronghold of which they may possess themselves, for where the troops are, the rebels cannot be, but move forward invariably into the bush, never coming into the open. The mounted force must cut off fugitives.

12. These are the outlines of the operations.

13. The officers commanding columns, and Major-General Somerset, will meet the Commander-in-Chief at 10 o'clock this day, to enter into the minutiæ of their combined operations, upon which success depends.

14. The Head-Quarters and Major-General Somerset will be established at Blinkwater.

TREASURY WARRANT.

Whereas by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," certain scales of weight and rates of postage were fixed and made chargeable and payable upon, for, or in respect of letters, newspapers, parliamentary proceedings, and printed papers, transmitted and forwarded by the post; and various regulations were made for facilitating the transmission of such letters and papers by the post:

And whereas by an Act, passed in the eleventh year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for giving further facilities for the transmission of letters by post, and for the regulating the duties of postage thereon, and for other purposes relating to the Post-office," the proviso concerning the maximum weight of letters to be sent by the post, as fixed in and by the said first-mentioned Act, is repealed; and in order to prevent packets of an unwieldy bulk or an inconvenient size being transmitted by the post, power is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, at any time or times thereafter, by warrant under their hands, to fix a maximum weight of letters to be sent by the post, and from time to time to repeal or revoke such maximum weight, wholly or in part, and declare any other maximum of weight in lieu thereof, and all letters are to be forwarded, conveyed, and delivered by the post in conformity with any such warrant, and also in conformity with, and under and subject to, all such orders, conditions, limitations, regulations, and restrictions as to the form, size, or dimensions thereof, whether in proportion to the weight or otherwise, as the Postmaster-General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, shall from time to time direct. And by the said Act power is also given to the Postmaster-General to collect and receive the foreign and colonial postage, charged or chargeable on any letters sent by the post, and also, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, to require the postage, British, colonial, or foreign, of any letters sent by the post to be prepaid, either in money or in stamps, as he may think fit, on the same being put into the Post-office; and also, with such consent, to abolish or restrict the prepayment in money of postage on letters sent by the post, either altogether or on certain letters, and to require the prepayment thereof to be in stamps, and to refuse to receive or send by the post any letters tendered contrary to any regulations thereby made. And it is also declared and enacted, that it shall be lawful for the Postmaster-General, and any officer of the Post-office, to detain any letters which shall be posted or sent by the post contrary to the regulations of that Act or the first-mentioned Act, or contrary to the regulations of any Treasury Warrant to be issued under or by virtue of that Act, or which had been or should be issued under or by virtue of the said first-mentioned Act, and to open such letters, and either to return them to the senders thereof, or to forward them to the places of their destination, charged in either case with such rates of postage as the Postmaster-General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, shall from time to time direct:

Now we, the undersigned, being two of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, do, in exercise of the powers reserved to us in and by the said before-mentioned Acts, or either of them, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, by this warrant under our hands, order and direct that printed books, printed magazines, printed reviews, and printed pamphlets, whether British, colonial, or foreign, posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to the island of Mauritius, or posted in the said island of Mauritius, addressed to the United Kingdom, may be transmitted by the post between any part of the United Kingdom and the said island of Mauritius, subject to the several regulations and rates hereinafter contained; that is to say:

On every packet consisting of a single printed book, or printed magazine, or printed review, or printed pamphlet, the several sheets or parts of which, when more than one, shall be sewed or bound together, if not exceeding half a pound in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of sixpence;

And on every such packet, if exceeding half a pound, and not exceeding one pound in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of one shilling;

And on every such packet, if exceeding one pound, and not exceeding two pounds in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of two shillings;

And on every such packet, if exceeding two pounds, and not exceeding three pounds in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of three shillings;

And for every additional one pound in weight of any such packet above the weight of three pounds, there shall be charged and taken an additional rate of postage of one shilling; and every fraction of such additional pound shall be charged as an additional pound.

And we further order and direct, that no such packet, if containing more than one printed book, or printed magazine, or printed review, or printed pamphlet, or containing any paper or thing besides a printed book, printed magazine, printed review, or printed pamphlet, or containing any printed book, printed magazine, printed review, or printed pamphlet, the several sheets or parts of which, when more than one, shall not be sewed or bound together, or which packet, in length, or breadth, or width or depth, shall exceed the dimensions of two feet or twenty-four inches, shall be forwarded by the post under the provisions aforesaid.

And we further order and direct, that as to any packet hereinbefore authorized to be sent by the post under the provisions aforesaid, which shall be posted in the United Kingdom, the postage thereof shall in every case be prepaid at the time of the same being posted, not in money, but by being duly stamped with the proper British postage stamp or stamps affixed thereto; which stamp or stamps shall in every case be affixed or appear on the outside of every such packet, near the address, and shall be of the value or amount of the postage duty payable thereon, under or by virtue of this warrant; and as to any such packet posted in the island of Mauritius, the postage thereof shall in every case be prepaid either in money, or by the proper colonial postage-stamp or stamps being affixed thereto, at the time of the same being posted.

And we further order and direct, that every such packet shall be sent without a cover, or in a cover or envelope open at the ends or sides, and shall contain printed matter only, with the binding thereof, and there shall be no writing or marks upon the cover or envelope thereof, or upon or within any part of the contents thereof, other than the name and address of the person to whom the packet shall be sent.

And, in order to prevent any obstacles to the due and regular transmission of letters by the post, we further direct, that it shall be lawful for any officer of the Post-office in the United Kingdom to delay the transmission of any packet, posted or forwarded by the post under the provisions of this warrant, for the space of twenty-four hours from the time at which (or at his option until the dispatch of the mail next after that by which), the same ought otherwise to have been forwarded by him.

And we further direct, that nothing hereinbefore contained shall be construed to interfere with or affect the transmission by the post of printed votes and proceedings of the Imperial Parliament, or of printed votes and proceedings of the Colonial Legislatures, nor of printed papers, or other printed publications which are allowed to pass by the post under the newspaper privilege.

And we further order and direct, that if any packet, sent, or tendered or delivered in order to be sent, by the post, under the provisions of this present warrant, shall contain any paper or thing besides a printed book, printed magazine, printed review, or printed pamphlet, and the binding thereof; or shall have any writing or marks upon the same, or upon the cover or envelope thereof, except the name and address of the person to whom it is forwarded; or shall not be open at the ends or sides; or shall, in length, or breadth, or width, or depth, exceed the dimensions of two feet or twenty-four inches; or shall contain more than one printed book, or printed magazine, or printed review, or printed pamphlet, or shall contain any printed book, printed magazine, printed review, or printed pamphlet, the several sheets or parts of which, when more than one, shall not be sewed or bound together; or if the postage of any such packet, posted in the United Kingdom, shall not be duly and properly prepaid by British stamps when posted, or if the postage of any such packet, posted in the island of Mauritius, shall not be duly and properly prepaid in money, or by colonial stamps, when posted, the same shall and may be detained and opened at any place in the United Kingdom, and at the option of the Postmaster-General, shall be either returned or given up to the sender thereof, or be given up to the person to whom it shall be addressed, or be forwarded to the place of its destination; and any such packet on being so returned, given up, or forwarded, shall be chargeable with the like amount of postage to which it would have been liable as a letter.

And we further direct, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to extend to any packets sent through France or any other foreign country to which a transit rate of postage would be payable thereon, nor to any packets sent by private ships.

And we further order and direct that the term "by the post" used in this warrant, shall, as to the sea conveyance, include the conveyance by packet-boat, and shall also include the conveyance through Egypt, so long as no transit rate of postage be payable thereon; and that the several other terms and expressions used in this warrant, shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects, as they would have had if inserted in the said Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty.

And we further direct, that this warrant shall come into operation on the first day of July one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two.

Provided lastly, and we do hereby declare and direct, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, for the time being, of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any two of them, by warrant under their hands, at any time hereafter to alter or repeal any of the rates hereby fixed or altered, or the regulations hereby made; and to make and establish any new or other rates or regulations in lieu thereof, and, from time to time, to appoint at what time the rates that may be payable are to be paid.

National Debt Office, May 14, 1852.

The Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury having, by virtue of the powers vested in them by the Act 3 William 4th, cap. 14, revoked and recalled, by warrant under their hands, the tables heretofore in use for granting annuities upon single lives, and annuities to continue for a certain term of years, under the said Act, and having approved and authorized the Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt to adopt, until further notice, certain other tables to be used in lieu and in place of the tables so revoked and recalled as aforesaid; the said Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt hereby give notice of such revocation and of their Lordships' approval of such new tables, and that they are ready to issue such new tables to the Trustees of Savings' Banks and Parochial Societies, and to grant annuities in conformity therewith.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MAY 18, 1852.

AT the Court at Buckingham-Palace, the 15th day of May 1852.

PRESENT,

The QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

THIS day the Right Honourable Richard Southwell Bourke (commonly called Lord Naas) was, by Her Majesty's command, sworn of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, and took his place at the Board accordingly.

TREASURY WARRANT.

Whereas by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," it is enacted, that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's Postmaster-General to charge on all letters conveyed by the post between places within any of Her Majesty's colonies, or conveyed by packet-boats between one part of Her Majesty's dominions and another part of the same dominions, or between Her Majesty's dominions and foreign parts, or between one port in any foreign country and another port in the same or any other foreign country where post communications shall be established, and where rates of postage have not hitherto been authorized by law; and also to charge on all letters conveyed by any vessels to or from any of the colonies, or between any of the colonies, or between any of the colonies and a foreign port, and on all letters which shall be brought by the master of any vessel to the Post-office in any of the colonies, such rates of postage as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by warrant under their hands, shall from time to time direct:

And by the same Act, power is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of British or inland postage payable by law on the transmission by the post of foreign or colonial letters, or newspapers, or any other printed papers, and to subject the same to rates of postage according to the weight thereof, and a scale of weight to be contained in such warrant, and from time to time, by warrant as aforesaid, to alter or repeal any such altered rates, and to make and establish any new or other rates in lieu thereof:

And whereas it is expedient that regulations should be made for the transmission by the post of the letters and newspapers hereinafter mentioned:

Now we, the undersigned, being two of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, do, in exercise of the power or authority in us for such purpose vested in and by the said Act, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, by this warrant under our hands, direct, that on every letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight, posted in or addressed to the Falkland Islands, and transmitted by the post between any place in the United Kingdom and any port or place in such islands, either direct or viâ Monte Video (the sea conveyance being by British packet-boat) there shall be charged and taken, in lieu of any rates of British postage now payable by law on such letters, an uniform British rate of one shilling.

And we further direct, that on every letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight, posted in or addressed to the Falkland Islands, and transmitted by British packet-boat between any port in such islands and the port of Monte Video, without in any case such letters passing through the United Kingdom, there shall be charged and taken, in lieu of any rates of British postage now payable by law on such letters, an uniform British rate of four pence.

And we direct, that on every letter transmitted as is mentioned in this warrant, exceeding half an ounce in weight, there shall be charged, taken, and paid progressive and additional rates of postage as follows; that is to say:

On every such letter exceeding half an ounce in weight, and not exceeding one ounce in weight, two rates of postage.

On every such letter exceeding one ounce, and not exceeding two ounces in weight, four rates of postage.

On every such letter exceeding two ounces, and not exceeding three ounces in weight, six rates of postage.

And on every such letter exceeding three ounces, and not exceeding four ounces in weight, eight rates of postage.

And for every ounce in weight above the weight of four ounces, there shall be charged and taken two additional rates of postage, and every fraction of an ounce above the weight of four ounces shall be charged as one additional ounce, and each progressive and additional rate chargeable under this clause shall be estimated and charged at the sum which any such letter would be charged with under this warrant if not exceeding half an ounce in weight.

And we further direct, that such printed newspapers as are hereinafter mentioned, may be sent by the post according to the regulations and rates hereinafter set forth, which rates shall be in lieu of any rates of British postage now payable by law on such newspapers (that is to say):

British newspapers and such British publications as are allowed to pass by the post as newspapers in the United Kingdom, may, if posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to the Falkland Islands, be sent from the United Kingdom to the Falkland Islands direct, or viâ Monte Video, by packet-boat, free of postage, and by private ship, at the rate of one penny each.

Newspapers published in the Falkland Islands may be sent from thence to any part of the United Kingdom direct, or viâ Monte Video, by packet-boat, free of postage, and by private ship at the rate of one penny each.

British, colonial, or foreign newspapers may be sent between any port in the Falkland Islands and Monte Video by packet-boat (without passing through the United Kingdom), at the rate of one penny each.

And we direct, that every printed supplement or additional sheet to any newspaper shall, for the purpose of charging the postage under this warrant, be deemed a distinct newspaper, unless sent in the same cover or together with the newspaper to which it is a supplement or addition.

And we direct, that no such printed newspapers shall be sent by the post at the rates aforesaid, unless the following conditions shall be observed:

First. Every such newspaper shall be sent without a cover, or in a band or cover open at the sides or ends.

Second. There shall be no word or communication printed on the newspaper after its publication, or upon the cover thereof, nor any writing or marks upon it, or upon the cover of it, except the name and address of the person to whom sent.

Third. There shall be no paper or thing enclosed in or with any such newspaper.

And in case any one of such conditions shall not be fulfilled, the whole paper or packet shall be charged with the letter rates of postage.

And we further direct, that nothing herein contained shall be deemed or construed to annul, prejudice, or affect any of the exemptions and privileges granted by the said recited Act, or by any other Acts of Parliament relating to the Postoffice, and that all such exemptions and privileges shall remain in full force.

And we further direct, that the several terms and expressions used in this warrant shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects as they would have had if inserted in the said Act; and that vessels employed in the conveyance of post letters, under contract with Her Majesty's Colonial Land and Emigration Commissioners, shall be included in the term packet-boat used in this warrant, in addition to any other ships or vessels, which under the Post-office Acts are included in such term.

And we further direct, that this warrant shall come into operation on the first day of June, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two.

Provided lastly, and we hereby declare and direct, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, for the time being, of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any two of them, by warrant under their hands, at any time hereafter, to alter or repeal any of the rates hereby altered, or the regulations hereby made, and to make and establish any new or other rates or regulations in lieu thereof, and from time to time to appoint at what time the rates that may be payable are to be paid.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE EXTRAORDINARY of MAY 31, 1852.

India Board, May 31, 1852.

THE following Dispatches have been this day received at the East India House:

The Governor-General of India in Council to the Secret Committee of the Court of Directors of the East India Company.

Fort William, April 24, 1852.

WE have the highest satisfaction in transmitting to you the enclosed copy of dispatches just received from his Excellency Rear-Admiral Austen, C.B. and Lieutenant-General Godwin, commanding the Naval and Military Forces employed in Burmah.

2. They report the assault and capture of Martaban on the 5th, and of Rangoon on the 14th April, and announce the complete success of the combined operations of the army and fleet.

3. The necessity for immediately despatching this intelligence now by the last express which can safely be relied upon, renders it impossible for us to convey to your Honourable Committee our sentiments on the gratifying results which are announced, as fully as we desire to do. This duty we shall have the satisfaction of discharging by the ensuing Mail.

4. But we beg leave to take this earliest opportunity of assuring you that we feel we cannot use language too strong in making known to you our unqualified approbation of the admirable spirit which has been displayed in these combined operations of the naval and military forces, or express too warmly our gratitude to the Rear-Admiral and to the Lieutenant-General by whom the operations have been conducted, and to the officers, non-commissioned officers, and men of both services, who, as the several dispatches will show you, have so nobly performed their duty in the field.

We have, &c.

SIR,

REFERRING to the seventh paragraph of the instructions from the Indian Government to the Commander of the Forces, in which that functionary is desired before proceeding to Rangoon to ascertain by such means as may seem best through a flag of truce, whether any letter from the Court of Ava to the Government had been received, I have the honour by the desire of the Rear-Admiral Commander-in-Chief to state, for the information of the Governor-General, that the East India Company's steamer Proserpine was sent up the river with Captain Latter, Burmese interpreter, to the Governor of Dalla, to ascertain whether any letter had been received.

The steamer, with a flag of truce, was permitted to pass two stockades on the right bank of the river unmolested, but a third upon the left bank opened fire upon her.

In obedience to the instructions His Excellency had given her commander, she turned back; but as the flood tide was running very strong, this was a work of difficulty, and she had to remain for some time under fire, which she returned with shell and shot and blew up the stockade. The other two stockades then opened fire, but she succeeded in returning to the anchorage without damage, having been struck by only one shot from a 12-pounder gun.

Rattler, Rangoon River, April 9, 1852.

Sir,

I HAVE the honour to request you will be pleased to inform the Governor-General, that, agreeably with the intention expressed in my letter of the 25th ultimo, the Rear-Admiral Commander-in-Chief hoisted his flag on board Her Majesty's steam sloop Rattler, and, accompanied by Her Majesty's steam sloop Salamander, left Penang on the 28th of March.

On the 1st of April, his Excellency arrived off the mouth of the Rangoon River, where he found lying Her Majesty's ships Fox and Serpent, the East India Company's steamers Phlegethon and Proserpine, three transports, and the ship taken from the King of Ava. On the following morning the steamers and transports named in the margin* arrived from Calcutta with the Lieutenant-General Commanding the Forces on board, and the Salamander came in shortly after.

The Proserpine was sent to Moulmein the same day to give notice of projected movements; and on the 3rd instant, the Rattler, bearing his Excellency's flag, the Hermes, with the Commander of the Forces on board, and the Salamander, sailed for Moulmein. Receiving troops on board there, to the number of fifteen hundred, the squadron proceeded off Martaban, and assisted at the capture of that place on the 5th instant, the particulars of which the Commander of the Forces will have the honour of communicating to his lordship. The Hermes grounded too far off to be of much use. The Salamander, owing to her draught of water, could not come so near as was desirable; nevertheless the shelling was most effective. The Rattler took up an admirable position, two hundred and fourteen yards from the stockades: her shot and shell did much execution. The Proserpine, admirably managed by her able commander (whom his Excellency would beg to bring under favourable notice), received the troops from the larger steamers and landed them, and at the same time kept up a constant fire upon the stockades. The only casualties that occurred in the squadron were on board the Rattler, where one seaman was wounded in the arm, and two of the Madras Native Infantry.

On the 7th instant eleven hundred European troops, with camp followers, baggage, &c. were embarked in the squadron, and the transport

Jessie, and all sailed for the rendezvous, arriving on the 8th instant.

The steamers and transports named in the margin* had arrived at the rendezvous, and arrangements are this day being made for an advance upon Rangoon.

The Rear-Admiral will have the honour of communicating future proceedings as opportunities occur.

I have, &c.

The Secretary to Rear-Admiral Austen, to the Secretary to the Government of India.

Rattler, Rangoon River,
SIR, April 9, 1852.

I HAVE the honour to inform you, by desire of the Rear-Admiral Commander in Chief, that, in compliance with an arrangement entered into between the Lieutenant-General Commander of the Forces and his Excellency, Commodore G. R. Lambert, in Her Majesty's ship Fox, ascended this river, in force, on the 4th instant, for the purpose of destroying the stockades below Rangoon; thus clearing the way for the advance of the squadron.

I have the honour to enclose a copy of a letter † from the Commodore, reporting the execution of this service in a manner which, in the opinion of the Rear-Admiral, must meet with approval.

I have, &c.
GEO. P. MARTIN.

Commodore G. R. Lambert to His Excellency Rear-Admiral C. J. Austen, C.B.

Fox, in the Rangoon River,

SIR,

IN pursuance of the instructions I had received from your Excellency, I proceeded up the Rangoon River on the afternoon of the 4th instant, taking under my orders Her Majesty's sloop Serpent, and the Tenasserim and Phlegethon, steamers belonging to the East India Company, with three companies of H. M. 18th Regiment, under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Coote. I anchored off the Bassein Creek the same evening.

At daylight on the morning of the 5th I again weighed and went up the river, having previously given direction to Commander Luard, with the Serpent and Phlegethon, which I placed under his orders, with one company of the 18th Regiment, to attack and destroy the De Silva Stockade; which service he most effectually performed.

I proceeded myself with the Fox and Tenasserim to the Dunnout, and a new stockade that had recently been erected, nearly opposite on the other side of the river; as we approached, the enemy opened an ill regulated fire on us, (two of their shot striking the Fox,) which was soon silenced by Her Majesty's ship and the steamer. The troops and the marines of the Fox were then landed, and by the evening both stockades were burnt, and the whole force re-embarked without any casualty.

I have great satisfaction in stating that the energy and good feeling displayed by both services in performing this duty was such as to meet my highest approval, and I have to express my thanks for the assistance I received from Lieutenant-Colonel Coote and Commanders Tarleton and Luard, as well as from the Commanders of the East India Company's steam vessels of war Tenasserim and Phlegethon.

I have, &c.
G. R. LAMBERT.

The Secretary to Rear-Admiral Austen to the Secretary to the Government of India.

Rattler, at Rangoon,
SIR, April 16, 1852.

IN continuation of my letter of the 9th instant, reporting, for the information of the Governor-General of India, the proceedings of the naval squadron employed in these waters, I have the honour further to report, by desire of the Rear-Admiral Commander-in-Chief, that, on the 10th instant, the ships, steamers, and transports commenced an advance up the river, and anchored below the Hastings Shoal that evening.

The Zenobia had been sent a part of the way up on the day previous, for the purpose of watering, but grounding on the De Silva Shoal, was, unfortunately unable to get out of her difficulties in time to take a part in the proceedings against Rangoon.

A copy of the Rear-Admiral's order to advance is annexed,* by which it will be seen that it was intended on the following morning (Easter Sunday) to anchor above the shoal, but out of the range of fire from the enemy. I have the honour also to enclose a copy of the General Order† for the proceedings of the squadron while off Rangoon. Some alteration had, however, to be made in the arrangements proposed. It was found that there would not be room for all the ships to anchor above the shoal out of gunshot, without a risk of their grounding, and it was for some time debated whether the squadron should remain below the shoal until Monday, or advance on the Sunday morning to take up their positions off Rangoon, and risk the commencement of the action on that day. The tides and other causes decided the authorities on adopting the latter course, and accordingly the shoal was crossed on the morning of the 11th by each ship as the water served. When the first vessels had anchored above it, the Dagon Pagoda fired several guns, apparently with a view to call in the people. Upon the East India Company's steamers Feroze, Moozuffer, and Sesostris, taking up their positions, fire was opened upon them from the stockades on either side, which was returned with shot and shell. In the course of an hour an explosion took place, the importance of which was only afterwards discovered. It was that of a stockade mounting nine 18-pounder guns, well planted, and would doubtless have done great mischief to our shipping, if not thus accidentally silenced so early. Upon the Fox advancing to take up her position, she poured effective broadsides into the stockades on both sides of the river. After consulting the Lieutenant-General Commander of the Forces, the boats of the Fox landed with a party of seamen and marines and a company of the 18th Royal Irish, and, under cover of the ships' guns, stormed two stockades on the Dalla side. Although a rapid fire of musketry was kept up from many hundreds of the enemy in these defences, yet this service was happily effected with but one man wounded on our side. Her Majesty's sloop Serpent and the East India Company's steamer Phlegethon then passed up the river, and anchored above Kemmendine, in order to capture the war-boats, and to prevent fire-rafts being sent down upon the squadron. The Rattler and Tenasserim next advanced along the line, and succeeded in silencing three more stockades. The party before alluded to in the boats of the Fox, and a few seamen, with thirty of the Royal Irish, from the Rattler, stormed another on the Dalla side, driving hundreds of the enemy out of it into the jungle. All the stockades that had been taken were then set fire to and burnt in succession. The ships returned to their respective positions, in readiness to land the troops, which commenced at four o'clock on the morning of the 12th, without opposition from the enemy. It was discovered that the Dagon Pagoda was not so far from the ships as was laid down in the charts, being at a good shelling distance; the ships accordingly commenced throwing shells into it. In the course of the evening a magazine blew up, and the outskirts of the pagoda were set on fire in several directions, creating great confusion among the enemy. Shells were occasionally thrown from the ships on the 13th instant, during the day and night, frequently setting fire to the stockades in various places. On the afternoon of that day a large party of men, with two elephants and riders, were seen to leave the pagoda. It was afterwards understood that this was the Governor of Rangoon, who had quitted the pagoda in despair of being able to hold it.

* 10th April 1852.

It will be the pleasing duty of the Commander of the Forces to report the advance of the troops and the gallant storming of the White Stockade, about half-a-mile from the landing-place, and ultimately the storming and capture of the Dagon Pagoda. The Rear-Admiral desires further to observe that he leaves to the Lieutenant-General to report upon the conduct of the small naval brigade, composed as per margin,* under the command of Senior Lieutenant J. W. Dorville of the flag-ship, employed with the forces upon this occasion, in the utmost confidence that ample justice will be done to them.

Enclosed is a list of the casualties that took place in the squadron while employed upon this service, and his Excellency desires to remark, that it is a subject not less of surprise than thankfulness that so few have taken place on the occasion.

I am, &c.
G. P. MARTIN.

The steamers not named will take up their positions in the advance as convenient.

The gun-boat has been placed at the end of the De Silva Shoal to mark its position. Her Majesty's sloop Serpent and the East India Company's steamer Phlegethon have been sent to place themselves in mid-channel off the Hastings Sand, in order to point it out.

It is intended that the squadron shall anchor this evening in two divisions at the lower end of the Hastings Shoal; the first to consist of Her Majesty's ships and the East India Company's steamers from Calcutta, anchoring with their transports on the starboard hand; the second division, to consist of the steamers of the Indian Navy, under the immediate charge of Captain Lynch, with their transports, are to anchor on the port hand.

The following forenoon, upon the signal to weigh being given, the steamers, with their ships and transports in tow, will proceed across the Hastings Sand, and anchor above the shoal, but not so far up as to be within range of fire from the stockades.

Directions for future movements will hereafter be given.

Particular attention is to be paid to signals, and an officer on board each ship is to be appointed to this important duty.

C. J. AUSTEN, Rear-Admiral.

General Memorandum.

To the Captains and Commanders of Her Majesty's ships and vessels, and the East India Company's steamers in the Rangoon River.

Rattler, Rangoon River, March 11, 1852.

THE Captains, Commanders, and Commanding Officers of Her Majesty's ships and vessels, and of the East India Company's steamers under my orders, are hereby informed of the proposed arrangements for the contemplated attack upon Rangoon.

At 4·30 A.M. to-morrow, the steamers will weigh and proceed to take up their positions off Rangoon in the following order :—

East India Company's steamers — Zenobia (headmost up the river), Moozuffer, Sesostris, Feroz.

Her Majesty's ships—Fox (Commodore's broad pendant), Rattler (flag ship), Hermes (head quarters), Salamander.

The especial duty of the East India Company's steamers, Tenasserim, Enterprise, Medusa, Pluto, and Maha Nuddie, will be to assist in landing the troops, by towing the boats on shore, and in such other manner as they will from time to time be directed.

The Fire Queen is to take up a position close to the flag ship, as a tender to her and the head quarters, but, upon the signal to land being given, she is to draw near the ship King of Ava, to assist in landing her troops.

The order in which it is proposed landing the men and guns comprising the land force, is as follows :—

First, Her Majesty's 51st Regiment.—Ex Feroz, 515; ex Sesostris, 380; total, 895.

Second, Her Majesty's 18th Royal Irish.—Ex Fox, 115; ex Tenasserim, 102; ex Maha Nuddie, 81; ex Hermes, 300; ex Rattler, 100; ex Fatel Rozaek, 96; total, 794.

Third, the 40th Regiment Bengal Native Infantry.—Ex Enterprise, 270; ex Fire Queen, 240; ex King's Ship, 550; total 1060.

The Artillery and Park will be landed at this time in long-boats belonging to the transports, and towed by the Medusa and ships' boats.

Artillery.—Ex Hermes, 120; ex Bengal, 120; ex Berenice, 277; total, 517.

Ordnance.—Ex Berenice, two 24-pound howitzers, four 9-pounders; ex Lahore, two 24-pound howitzers, four 9-pounders; ex Hermes, two 24-pound howitzers.

Park.—Ex Salamander, Sappers and Miners, 160; ex Hermes, one boat for ladders and powder bags; ex Monarch, one boat for tools and materials.

There are also a few ladders on board the Fox, Monarch, Tenasserim, and Phlegethon, which it is desirable to be landed.

Finally, the Madras Infantry will be landed.

9th Regiment Madras Native Infantry.—Ex Moozuffer, 583; ex Medusa, 100; total, 683.

35th Regiment Madras Native Infantry.—Ex Zenobia, 350; ex Sir Thomas Gresham, 350; total 700.

Commander E. G. Fishbourne, of Her Majesty's steam-sloop Hermes, is to be on shore at the spot which will be pointed out to him by the Commander of the Forces, to superintend the landing of the troops, and from which place a white ensign will be hoisted, as a signal to the boats as the place at which to land.

Captain H. B. Lynch, Senior Officer of the Indian Navy, will make the necessary arrangements for the debarkation of Her Majesty's 51st Foot, by means of the boats of the steamers under his immediate orders. The boats are to be alongside of the steamers containing that regiment, in readiness to take them on shore directly the signal to land is given, which will be a white ensign hoisted from head-quarters, and repeated along the line.

The Commodore undertakes the arrangement for debarking Her Majesty's 18th Royal Irish, and will issue the necessary directions for this purpose, as also for the landing of the Artillery and Park.

The landing of the 40th Regiment Bengal Native Infantry is to be superintended by Commander J. S. Ellman, of Her Majesty's steam sloop Salamander, which will be accomplished by his own boats, assisted by the Medusa.

The Madras Native Infantry will finally be landed by the small steamers and the boats of the squadron, after their duties, before detailed, have been executed.

The troops having been landed, and the stockades having been silenced by the fire from the squadron, a party of seamen and marines will probably be directed by signal (a white ensign from the flag ship to be repeated along the line), to land from each ship, armed with pistols and cutlasses only, under the charge of a Lieutenant; the whole to be commanded by Commander Tarleton, of Her Majesty's ship Fox.

The vessels are not to land more men than will enable them in their absence to work the guns.

It is necessary that particular directions be given as to the necessity of keeping a vigilant look-out for signals. Any that should not be answered at once by the ship or ships indicated, are to be repeated by the other vessels.

The troops are to be landed with one day's provisions in their knapsacks.

Rattler, at Rangoon,
16th April, 1852.

My Lord Marquis,

WHILE congratulating your Lordship on the success that has hitherto attended the expedition against Burmah, in the storming and capture of the strongholds of Martaban and Rangoon, I trust your Lordship will permit me to bring under notice the support that I have received from all the officers and men under my command, forming the naval part of the expedition. The embarking and disembarking the troops, baggage, and military stores, the arrangements for the transports and for victualling the combined forces, have furnished almost incessant night and day work for the officers and men under my orders. It has been done on all sides with the utmost cheerfulness, and this large force has been moved up a rapid river, without any accident of moment having occurred ; and I have, up to the present time, to thank every officer and man employed under my orders for the cheerful manner in which they have undergone so much toil in this distressing climate.

To the Commodore I feel under especial obligation. His local knowledge proved valuable, as his judgment and discretion were most useful. It would be impossible to value the services of an officer, second in command, more highly than I do those of the Commodore.

Captain Lynch, senior officer of the Indian Navy, has, by his ability, judgment, and discretion, rendered essential service.

Commander Mellersh of my flag ship, and Commanders Fishbourne and Tarleton, have rendered every possible assistance in carrying out all necessary arrangements. I was an eye-witness to Commander Tarleton's bravely leading his men to storm a stockade, to his being the first to mount the walls, and enter it. Commander Luard, of Her Majesty's sloop Serpent, has been employed many months in these waters. A more zealous and indefatigable officer is not to be met with, and, relying upon his ability, he has frequently been placed in charge of responsible duties. With the assistance of the East India Company's steamer Phlegethon, commanded by G. T. Neblett, Esq. he destroyed the De Silva stockades. When the action on the 11th of April commenced, he passed along the line of fire in the sloop under his command, to above Kemmendine, for the purpose of preventing the removal of the war-boats; and while on this service he was attacked by a very important stockade, and an officer (Mr. C. Sproull, Assistant-Surgeon,) and seven of his men were wounded, but which he ultimately succeeded in silencing. Before the commencement of the war he took great pains in surveying the coast and river, and his information was afterwards of great use.

The Commanders and officers of the Indian Navy and of the East India Company's uncovenanted service have, without a single exception, performed their duties with all possible alacrity. Commander Brooking, of the Proserpine, had at Martaban an opportunity of particularly distinguishing himself, of which he took good care to avail himself, and it is with great regret that I found myself under the necessity of leaving him at Moulmein for the protection of British interests, and thus losing his valuable services here.

Lieutenant George Rice, in temporary command of the Maha Nuddie, rendered essential service to the cause, admirably handling his little vessel; he landed men on the beach to storm stockades, covering their landing with his own guns, and at the storming of them he was to be seen among the foremost ranks. In landing men, stores, and baggage, and ascending the narrow creeks of this river, the Maha Nuddie has proved most useful.

Senior Lieutenant Dorville, of my flag ship, commanded the naval brigade at the capture of Rangoon, and from the flattering manner in which the Commander of the Forces has been pleased to speak of his services, I feel assured he must be honourably mentioned in the Lieutenant-General's dispatches.

Among those that have fallen victims in the service of their country upon this occasion, it is my painful duty to record that of the Rev. Thomas T. Baker, Chaplain of Her Majesty's ship Fox. Incessantly employed in administering to the wounded and dying, and in burying the dead, he fell a victim to the prevailing epidemic, cholera, on the 16th instant, leaving, I am informed, a widow and young family, who were wholly dependent on him for support.

I was an eye-witness to the indefatigable exertions of Dr. Minter, Surgeon of the Fox, at the hospital on shore and on board the Tubal Cain. Dr. Montgomery, Superintending Surgeon, expressed himself to me as being under the greatest obligations to him for his assistance. In addition to the duties performed by Dr. Minter at the hospital, he had those of his own ship to attend to, where the cholera had broken out with some virulence. Mr. Seccombe, Assistant-Surgeon of the Hermes, was also employed at the hospital on shore.

In conclusion, I beg to remark that the whole conduct of the officers and men under my orders, employed on the present expedition, has been such as reflects much credit on themselves and on the services to which they respectively belong.

I have, &c.

CHAS. JNO. AUSTEN, Rear-Admiral.

Lieutenant-General H. Godwin, C.B., commanding the Forces in Ava, Arracan, and Tenasserim, to C. Allen, Esq., Secretary to the Government of India.

SIR, Moulmein, April 6, 1852.

I HAVE the honour to acquaint you, for the information of the Governor-General in Council, that the force under my command left the Sand Heads on the 28th of March, for the Rangoon River, the place of rendezvous for the combined force from Bengal and Madras, where it arrived on the 2nd of April.

In obedience to my instructions, a flag of truce was immediately sent up to Rangoon, to enquire if any communication had arrived from the Court of Ava, in reply to the terms sent up to the Burmese Government, for the adjustment of the violences committed on the subjects of Her Majesty by the authorities at Rangoon : the flag was in charge of Captain Latter, of the Bengal army, and conveyed in the East India Company's steamer Proserpine, Commander Brooking.

On reaching the stockades that guarded the river on both its banks, the flag was fired on, and it was only by the excellent arrangement and brave conduct of Commander Brooking that his ship extricated herself, inflicting on the enemy a severe chastisement, by blowing up a powder magazine and destroying many men.

I found, on my arrival at the rendezvous, that the Madras division had not made its appearance, nor were there tidings of it, so that I resolved to go to Moulmein and make arrangements for the capture of Martaban.

In the Rangoon River I found that Rear-Admiral Austen, C.B., the naval Commander-in-Chief, had just arrived from Penang, in Her Majesty's steamer Rattler. His Excellency and Commodore Lambert immediately came on board the Hermes, Commander Fishbourne, in which I had my head-quarters, when it was agreed, in conference, that the Admiral would accompany me to Moulmein with Her Majesty's steamers Hermes, Rattler, and Salamander,—sending in advance to the mouth of the Martaban River the East India Company's steamer Proserpine. We accordingly left the Rangoon River at day break on the 3rd of April ; reached Moulmein the next day at noon. Orders were immediately issued for the troops to be in readiness for embarkation by 4 P.M., and by 9 that evening a wing of her Majesty's 18th Royal Irish, a wing of Her Majesty's 80th Regiment, a wing of the 26th Madras Native Infantry, with detachments of Bengal European Artillery, and Madras Sappers—in all about 1400 men—were on board.

Martaban stands on a noble sheet of water, with a river line of defences of about 800 yards. Inland lies a large pagoda, a wall running along the whole front, with an ascent from the water's edge of about 500 feet, on the top of which small pagodas stand, the slope being partially covered with fine trees and close jungle.

Arrangements were made for the attack at day break of the 5th. The Rear-Admiral made every disposition possible, in waters full of shoals and violent currents, for bombarding the position with his five steamers, and to cover the landing of the troops. It was the admiration of every one to witness the noble manner the Rattler worked her way within 200 yards of the wall, and close to the pagoda, doing tremendous execution. I changed from the Rattler at six o'clock, to superintend the landing of the troops, and went on board the Proserpine, a smaller vessel, with my staff. Colonel Reignolds commanded the attack. At half-past six the steamer opened fire, and at seven the troops were in the boats, and landed, by the indefatigable exertions of Commander Brooking, under a smart fire of musketry and guns. Soon was the storming party under the walls, and over them, with less loss than I thought possible. Lieutenant-Colonel Reignolds immediately ascended to the pagodas on the height, and took possession of them, after some skirmishing with the enemy.

At 8 A.M. Martaban was won ; and, considering the enemy's position and numbers, which report gives at 5000 men, we have got it very cheaply.

I have to ask his Lordship's and the Council of India's best consideration of the services of Lieutenant-Colonel Reignolds of the 18th Royal Irish, to whom is due the credit of this day's endurance of severe fatigue and privation under a burning sun.

To Captain Gillespie, in command of the Grenadiers of the 18th Royal Irish, whom I saw first on the wall, the soldier following him receiving three wounds, to Captain Campbell who commanded the wing of the 18th Royal Irish, to Major Lockhart in command of the wing of the 80th Foot, to Lieutenant-Colonel Johnson, commanding the wing of the 26th Regiment Madras Native Infantry, and to Captain Rundall, commanding the detachment of Madras Sappers and Miners, my warm approbation is due.

I beg also to recommend to the consideration of His Lordship in Council, the Assistant-Adjutant-General of the Force, Captain Mayhew, whose exertions during the disembarkation of the troops tended greatly to its success, as also my Aides-de-Camp, Lieutenant Chads, of Her Majesty's 64th Regiment, and Lieutenant Lambert, of the 56th Bengal Native Infantry, son of the Commodore, who were highly useful to me during the whole day.

Major Fraser, the Commanding Engineer of the Force, and Major Turton, in command of the Bengal Artillery, were with me the whole day, but from the nature of the operations, their particular services were not called into play, though they had made every disposition for the efficiency of their respective departments.

It will be obvious from the foregoing how greatly the success of the operations I have detailed has depended on the cooperation of the sister branch of the service. His Excellency Rear-Admiral Austen, C.B. has throughout afforded me the most cordial assistance. Her Majesty's steamers Rattler, Hermes, and Salamander, worked in concert with the troops throughout the day.

On my departure to-morrow, I intend to take with me to the Rangoon River the wings of the 18th and 80th Regiments, and the Company of Bengal Artillery, and the detachment of Madras Sappers and Miners doing duty at Moulmein.

In conjunction with Lieutenant-Colonel Bogle, the Commissioner of these provinces, I have put the 26th Madras Native Infantry and a Company of European Madras Artillery, with a suitable battery of guns, as a garrison at Martaban, relievable from Moulmein, when it may be thought desirable.

In addition to which a war steamer has been placed by the Naval Commander-in-Chief on the station. These arrangements are I think adequate to the protection of the place, and will I trust meet with the approbation of the Government of India.

In conclusion, I beg to remark that I am greatly indebted to Lieutenant-Colonel Bogle, who accompanied me during the whole of the operations of the 5th, and was from his local knowledge of much use to me.

HENRY GODWIN.

W. MAYHEW, Capt. Assistant Adjutant-General of the Forces.

Lieutenant-General H. Godwin, C.B., to the Secretary to the Government of India.

Head-Quarters, Rangoon, April 18, 1852.

SIR,

ON my return from Martaban on the 8th of April, I had the satisfaction to find the Madras division had arrived on the previous day, so that no time had been lost by my going to Martaban.

It was arranged that, during my absence at Moulmein, Commodore Lambert should, on the 5th instant, aided by some troops, destroy the stockades on the Rangoon River, which had long been troublesome, and had fired on the flag of truce. This had been so effectually performed as to leave hardly a sign of where the stockade had stood.

I shall now have the satisfaction of acquainting you, for the information of the Governor-General in Council, of the proceedings of this force, inclusive of the capture of the Great Dagon Pagoda at Rangoon, and the consequent fall of all around it.

The 9th of April I devoted to making every disposition for the landing of the troops, and to becoming acquainted with the heads of the departments of the Madras Division. I informed the Admiral, on the evening of that day, that my preparations were complete, and his Excellency proceeded up the river next day, close off Rangoon. On the 11th the Admiral moved opposite the old town, with the intention, the next morning, to bombard the whole line of stockades on both banks of the river; but some of the flotilla getting very near the shore were fired on, which brought on a return from our side, and ended in the general destruction of the whole line of defences, though the fire of the enemy proved fatal to many on board the shipping. The Admiral and Commodore took a most distinguished part in the operations, landing and setting fire to all around them. This powerful attack, from the steam-frigates of both Her Majesty's and the East India Company's navy, completely cleared the ground for nearly a mile for our landing. On Monday the 12th, at daybreak, the troops were ready, and by about 7 I had landed Her Majesty's 51st Light Infantry, the 18th Royal Irish, the 40th Bengal Native Infantry, and part of my Artillery. The Bengal guns, under Major Reid, were ordered to move in advance, covered by four companies of the 51st Light Infantry. They had not proceeded far, however, when on opening some rising ground to our right, guns opened on us, and shortly after skirmishers showed themselves in the jungle. This was a new mode of fighting with the Burmese; no instance having occurred last war of their attacking our flanks, or leaving their stockades, that I remember ever to have taken place. I make this remark as they are now not only good shots, but bold in their operations, and clever in selecting their ground and covering themselves. Our casualties for the past three days will prove it—our dress exposing us, and their garb and colour concealing them.

On looking at the stockade whence the fire came, I perceived it was a strong work, which used to be called in the last war the White House Picquet, a very strong position, and just in the way of our advance. A battery of four guns was immediately opened on it by Majors Reid and Oakes, the whole being under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Foord, Commandant of that arm. The fire of these guns was very effective. A storming party was formed of four companies of the 51st Light Infantry, under Lieutenant-Colonel St. Maur, with the Madras Sappers, under Major H. Fraser, Commanding Engineer, and advanced under cover of a jungle, on getting through which the musketry was so steady and effective from the stockades and adjoining buildings, that a great many of our party were killed and wounded; amongst whom were several officers. I have to deplore the temporary loss of Lieutenant-Colonel Bogle, the Commissioner of the Tenasserim Provinces, who was very bravely attending the army to witness its operation. Major Fraser took the ladders to the stockade most gallantly, and alone mounted the defences of the enemy, where his example soon brought around him the storming party, which carried the stockade, but at very severe loss on our part.

It was my intention to move on to the main object of our operations; but on looking around me at the complete exhaustion of the storming party, it now being 11 o'clock, under a sun that may be understood since Major Oakes of the Madras Artillery was struck down by it at his battery, and died. Brevet Major Griffith, Madras Army, whilst conveying an order, died on the road. Lieutenant-Colonel Foord, Commandant of Artillery, was nearly a victim to the heat, and obliged to quit the field; Brigadier Warren and Lieutenant-Colonel St. Maur also suffered greatly; so that, under such destruction, I resolved to halt where I was, and to concentrate the force in as strong a position as the country admitted of. We were teazed by parties of the enemy hovering around us till the night closed, when all was quiet under the protection of our guns, which had been brought up to the front.

On Tuesday the 13th it was reported the heavy battery guns could not be landed and with me before the middle of that day, and also that rations for the troops could not be prepared in time to enable me to advance. I, therefore, held my position till the next morning.

His Lordship in Council knows well the spot where I proposed to force my way into the Great Pagoda; and the road I was about to move on entirely turned all the defences of this real stronghold. The present position of Rangoon is entirely altered since the last war; within a few years the old town, which stood on the river bank, has been utterly destroyed, its bricks now lying in heaps on its site. A new town has been formed about a mile and a quarter from the river; it is nearly a square, with a bund or mud wall about sixteen feet high and eight broad; a ditch runs along each side of the square, and on the north side, where the Pagoda stands, it has been very cleverly worked into the defences, to which it forms a sort of citadel. The distance from the Pagoda to the south entrance of the town is about three quarters of a mile, and it is something more than that breadth from east to west. The old road from the river to the Pagoda comes up to the South Gate, running through the new town, and it was by this road the Burmese had settled that we should attack it, and where they had made every preparation to receive us, having armed the defences with nearly a hundred pieces of cannon and other missiles, and with a garrison of at least 10,000 men. The attempt to assault on this side would, I am convinced, from the steady way the Burmese defend their works, have cost us half our force.

On Wednesday the 14th the troops were under arms at 5 A.M., all in as fine a temper as ever men were. Our march was to the north-west, through thick jungle; four light guns, 9-pounders, their flanks protected by two companies of Her Majesty's 80th Regiment, the rest of the wing of that corps following, with two more guns, and the 18th Royal Irish and the 40th Bengal Native Infantry formed the advance. The 51st Light Infantry and the 35th Madras Native Infantry were in reserve; the 9th Madras Native Infantry keeping open the communication with the shipping. We proceeded in this order for about a mile, when we opened the Great Pagoda, and its fire was turned on us. An excellent position for two guns was taken by Major Turton to our left flank, these were left under the command of Major Montgomery of the Madras Artillery, who served them well. The ground to the front getting very difficult barely admitted of the 80th and Royal Irish occupying it in close order. We had now completely turned the enemy's position, having passed their stockaded town, and got opposite the east side of the Great Pagoda, our main object. Major Turton informed me, that he had a favourable position to place in battery his heavy guns; but it took some time to bring them up, a service in which the navy brigade of about 120 men, under the command of Lieutenant Dorville, of Her Majesty's frigate Fox, assisted by the Artillery, rendered their invaluable aid, under a heavy fire of guns and wall pieces from the Great Pagoda and town, from which they suffered severely. Whilst this was going on, the enemy's artillery had got the range of our crowded position, and their skirmishers had somewhat closed upon us, and it took 500 men to keep down their fire. The practice of the heavy battery under Major Back was very effective. My intention was to have stormed the Pagoda at noon, but at a little after 11, Captain Latter, of the Bengal Army, my interpreter, assured me he felt confident, from what he could see of the east entrance of the Pagoda, on which our battery was playing, that the entrance was clear, and that he was prepared to show the way. As our people were dropping fast where we stood, I determined on an immediate assault. The storming party was formed of the wing of Her Majesty's 80th Regiment, under Major Lockhart, two companies of the Royal Irish under Lieutenant Hewitt, and of two companies of the 40th Bengal Native Infantry, under Lieutenant White, the whole commanded by Licutenant-Colonel Coote, of the 18th Royal Irish, Captain Latter accompanying the party to show the road. The advance to the east entrance of the Pagoda was of about 800 yards which the troops crossed in a most steady manner, under the fire of the walls crowded with the enemy, the remainder of the force following closely. When the storming party reached the steps a tremendous rush was made to the upper terrace, and a deafening cheer told that the Pagoda no longer belonged to the Burmese. The enemy ran in confusion from the southern and western gates, where they were met by the fire of the steamers. All the country around has fallen with the Pagoda; and I understand, the once strong post of Kemmendine, has been abandoned and destroyed.

In this united service there has been not only a cordial cooperation between the army and navy, but so much good-heartedness, that their joint efforts have tended to secure the rapid success of this expedition. I cannot presume to say of Rear-Admiral Austen, C. B. commanding the Navy, more than to express my admiration and respect for his qualities, and to thank him for his able and never-failing assistance. Commodore Lambert, whose spirit never is at rest whilst any thing is to be done, and whose heart is ever ready to accomplish what he undertakes, has my cordial thanks and warmest gratitude. I particularly wish to draw the attention of his Lordship in Council to Commander Fishbourne, of H. M's. steamer Hermes, who from the first fitting out of the expedition in Calcutta, to the close of these operations has been indefatigable in assisting in the embarkation of stores and troops, and in removing difficulties, and finding resources, which alone enabled the expedition to sail at the time appointed; and nothing will give me such satisfaction as his aid, were a forward movement to be made hereafter.

My most difficult task now commences, that of recommending to the protection of the Governor-General in Council a number of brave men who have had opportunities of distinguishing themselves in a service where the utmost emulation and gallant devotion were shown by all.

I beg the Governor-General's consideration of the services of Brigadier Elliot, who was conspicuous in every place where he could be useful; of Lieutenant-Colonel Reignolds, who commands the Bengal Brigade, in consequence of Brigadier Warren's prostration by the sun, and who has borne a very large share in these operations, including Martaban; of Lieutenant-Colonel Coote, of the 18th Royal Irish, who commanded the storming party when he was severely wounded; of Lieutenant-Colonel Thomson, commanding the 40th Bengal Native Infantry in the assault; of Major Lockhart, commanding the wing of H. M's. 80th, on the same occasion; of Major Fraser, Commanding Engineer of the Force, who not only distinguished himself most gallantly at the White House Stockade, but whose indefatigable exertions have never for a moment ceased; of Major Turton, who commanded the Artillery after Lieutenant-Colonel Foord's retirement, from illness, and whose labours in his department have been the cause of his suffering, I regret to say, under severe indisposition at the present moment; of Majors Reid, of the Bengal, and Montgomery, of the Madras Artillery; of Captain Rundall, commanding the Sappers and Miners; to all of whom I am deeply indebted.

The Assistant Adjutant-General of the Force, Captain Mayhew, was everywhere present during these three days' operations, and the assistance he has rendered me on all occasions has been very valuable. Major Allan, the Assistant Quarter-master-General, was severely wounded at the White House Stockade; since when, Major Boulderson, my Deputy Judge Advocate-General, has been performing his duties, and has rendered essential assistance since the operations commenced. I beg to bring all three to the notice of Government.

The officers commanding brigades have recommended to my notice the valuable aid they have received from their respective Brigade Majors, Captain Call, of the 18th Royal Irish, and Captain Smith, of the 13th Madras Native Infantry; and Major Turton has brought to my attention the indefatigable exertions of Lieutenant Robertson, the Deputy Commissary of Ordnance, in landing his guns and stores.

I beg leave to bring to his lordship's notice the assistance I have received from my aides-de-camp Lieutenant Chads, of Her Majesty's 64th Regiment, who was wounded at the White House Stockade, but did not leave me during the operations, and Lieutenant Lambert, of the 56th Bengal Native Infantry, who, after great exertion, was one of the victims to the sun on that day, which obliges him to return to Calcutta, and who will convey these despatches.

In conclusion, I regret that the order of the landing of the troops did not afford me an opportunity of availing myself of the services of the 9th Madras Native Infantry, and 35th Madras Native Infantry, in the front, but they tended greatly to give freedom to my leading column, and will from their soldierly bearing doubtless do honour to the distinguished service to which they belong, when they are brought more closely under fire.

I have, &c.

WE beg to forward a copy of a letter from Captain H. B. Lynch, of the Indian Navy, Commanding the Indian Naval Squadron in the Bay of Bengal, to the address of Sir Henry Leeke, containing particulars of the capture of Rangoon by the British Naval and Military Forces, on the afternoon of the 14th ultimo.

Captain H. B. Lynch, Commanding the Squadron of the Indian Navy in the Bay of Bengal, to Commodore Sir Henry Leeke, Commander-in-Chief of the Indian Navy.

SIR,

IN continuation of my last letter of the 10th instant, I have the honour to inform you, that Rear-Admiral Austen, and the whole of the squadron having joined us below the Hastings Sand, on the evening of Saturday the 10th, the squadron under my command, each vessel having two transports in tow, on the morning of the 11th (with the exception of the Zenobia, which vessel unfortunately grounded on the De Silva Shoal, and was not in company), crossed the Hastings Sand, and anchored a little below the stockades, having cast off the transports when clear over the Hastings Shoal. Almost immediately on our anchoring at 9·30 A.M. the enemy opened fire, which was returned by the Ferooze, Sesostris, and Moozuffer, the Berenice and Medusa having anchored some distance below. At 9·40 A.M. the magazine of the principal stockade, at the King's Wharf, was blown up by a shell from the squadron; at 10 A.M. Her Majesty's ship Fox passed up in tow and opened fire; the enemy's fire was soon silenced; at 10·15 A.M. ceased firing, and at 30 minutes past noon, a party from the Fox landed, took and burnt the Dalla Stockade on the right hand of the river. At 5 P.M. weighed and stood up the river, anchoring ahead of Her Majesty's ship Fox, abreast of the King's Wharf, the Admiral having previously taken and burnt the stockades on the right or Dalla bank of the river. At 5·15 P.M. two stockades, just above us, having opened fire, were quickly silenced by our fire, and the magazine of the stockade, on the upper wharf, blown up, when the enemy's fire ceased for the night. At 4 A.M. next morning (12th April), landed Her Majesty's 51st Regiment from the Ferooze and Sesostris, and the 9th and 35th M.N.I. from the Moozuffer and Zenobia; the Zenobia having joined during the night. Having landed the troops, and obtained the Admiral's permission, proceeded up the river and anchored abreast the upper stockade, with the Sesostris, Moozuffer, and Zenobia, and landed parties from the vessels of the squadron under the command of Captain Campbell, and burnt the stockades without opposition, the enemy having evacuated them previously to the landing of the party. Being now abreast the Great Pagoda, and the line of the principal stockade at the upper end of an open plain, commenced shelling, and found we could do so with effect, the shells bursting over the pagoda. Ceased firing by signal from the Admiral.

Commodore Lambert came on board and desired me to proceed to Kemmendine, where Her Majesty's brig Serpent, and Phlegethon steamer had attacked the stockade ; weighed and stood up, Moozuffer in company, and anchored at dark, ahead of the Serpent, about three-quarters of a mile below the Kemmendine stockade.

The next morning (13th April), flood tide having made (the river being too narrow to allow the ship to swing at anchor off the stockade), dropped up in company with the Serpent, Moozuffer, and Phlegethon, abreast the stockade, which not returning our fire, landed a party from the vessels, as previously arranged, under command of the 1st Lieutenant of the Serpent, and burnt the stockade, the enemy having evacuated it on the approach of the steamers. I then returned, Moozuffer in company, and rejoined the Admiral off Rangoon, anchoring in the same position as yesterday, abreast the Great Pagoda, and the squadron shelled the Pagoda during the night, by order of the Admiral; at 2 A.M. ceased firing, to allow the troops then near the stockade to advance, and I am happy to inform you that Rangoon was taken by our troops this afternoon.

I send this off too hurriedly to be able to forward any other papers from the squadron, which I am happy to state is all in good order and health.

It is probable the Moozuffer will be detached for the protection of Martaban, the Zenobia and Berenice for troops to Vizagapatam, and Sesostris to Calcutta, with despatches.

I have, &c.,
H. B. LYNCH.

Downing-Street, May 31, 1852.

THE Right Honourable Sir John Pakington has this day received two Dispatches and their Enclosures, of which the following are Copies, addressed to the Right Honourable Earl Grey by Lieutenant-General Sir Henry G. W. Smith, Bart., K.G.C.B.

No. 56.—Military.

King William's Town,
7th April, 1852.

MY LORD,

MY Dispatch to your Lordship, No. 47, of the 17th ultimo, will have described the operations and movements of the troops under my command up to that date.

2. Shortly after its transmission, Lieutenant-Colonel Perceval reported that in continuance of his operations he had completely cleared the Fish River Bush of the enemy, spoiling him of 350 head of cattle and many goats and horses, capturing also several stand of arms, and slaying many of his men. I cannot too highly commend the very able, judicious, and soldier-like conduct of Lieutenant-Colonel Perceval in the performance of a very arduous and difficult duty, which he effected by a succession of movements so well combined that the service was carried out with the loss of only one man killed and one wounded. The Lieutenant-Colonel speaks in terms of great praise of the conduct of Major Armstrong of the Cape Mounted Rifles, and of the troops and burghers employed, the latter numbering about thirty-five from the district of Albany.

3. The facility with which, comparatively speaking, the Fish River Bush has been cleared on this occasion, may induce your Lordship to regard former operations as ill planned. I pray you therefore to bear in mind that the Kafir fought in this dense bush in a very different spirit, and that the numerous Hottentots, formerly in this stronghold, had dispersed before the late operations. I regard Lieutenant-Colonel Perceval as an officer of the highest promise.

4. The troops under Major-General Somerset, after the enemy had been dislodged from the Water Kloof and Fuller's Hoek, pursued him through the Kat River, having sent cavalry patrols into the passes of the Water Kloof. The latter slew several of the fugitives, and captured thirty-eight horses.

5. The columns of Lieutenant-Colonel Michel and Lieutenant-Colonel Eyre having joined me at the Blinkwater on the 16th ultimo, I marched on the 18th for the valley of the Chumie, on the line of the enemy's retreat into the Amatolas. From that point, on the 21st ultimo, Lieutenant-Colonels Michel and Eyre were ordered to penetrate the Inner Amatolas; while Lieutenant-Colonel Perceval, having been directed to march upon Fort Cox on the completion of his operations in the Fish River Bush, entered the mountains on that side. The instructions to these officers are annexed.

6. Colonels Michel and Eyre carried on four days' most active operations, being joined on the third by Colonel Pereeval; destroying the enemy's villages, especially those of Hottentot rebels, in his most formidable holds; Colonel Eyre acting on the are of the circle of which the operations of Colonel Michel and Colonel Pereeval were the chord. They captured all the cattle they saw—about fifty head—and each officer in his report regards the flight of the enemy, and his abandonment of the Amatolas, as most complete. They could see them and their families at a distance, moving in great numbers towards the Kei. Colonel Michel thus expresses himself:—"From my own observation I am enabled decidedly to say that the Gaika tribes generally have migrated from these their strongholds. With crops utterly destroyed, and with a spirit so broken that now two companies may traverse with safety where heretofore a large column was required, I deem the war in this quarter virtually concluded, although the faithlessness of seeming allies, and bands of marauding Hottentots, may yet for a time prevent the conclusion of a peace."—The following occurs in the report of Colonel Eyre:—"We advanced through the Bomah Pass to the Quilli Quilli (Proper), thence through the Gulu Valley, ascending the heights, and back again through the Bomah Pass. The result satisfied me that this part of the mountains was entirely abandoned. With the exception of three Kafirs whom I could see through my teleseope, all trêking towards the Kabousie Neck, two or three women in the bush, too old to trêk, and two Kafirs, near the Bomah Pass, there was not a living soul to be seen, while all the spoor indicated that the cattle had trêked towards the Kabousie during the rains that fell as we entered the mountains. In the afternoon I marched with the whole force through the Lenga, and bivouacked on the Keiskamma. On the following day, the 24th, I marched to Fort Cox."

7. I enclose the copy of a report from the Gaika Commissioner, corroborative of those of the officers in command of patrols.

8. These operations having been thus most effectually and energetically carried out, I moved my head-quarters, on the 25th ultimo, to Fort Cox, where I had assembled the troops under Colonels Michel, Eyre, and Perceval, on issuing the general instructions annexed.

9. Having established Colonel Michel with his column at Fort Cox, occupying Mount Macdonald, I, on the following day, the 26th ultimo, returned to head quarters at King William's Town, moving at the same time the commands of Colonels Eyre and Perceval for the purpose of posting the former in the Keiskamma Hoek, and the latter on the range of the Quilli Quilli. Previously, however, to their taking up these positions, I directed Colonel Eyre, with Colonel Perceval, thoroughly to penetrate and clear the great forest of Perie, the Buffalo Poorts, and Murray's Krantz, all great resorts of the enemy. This service, after two days' energetic and determined operations, was most effectually performed; upwards of 100 head of cattle and several horses having been captured, great numbers of villages burned in the very forest, and large fields of cultivation destroyed on the verge of the woods. Scarcely any resistance was offered by the enemy. Colonel Eyre describes these forests as more dense and difficult to penetrate than even those of Fuller's Hoek and the Blinkwater. While these operations were in progress, I detached Captain Moody of the Royal Engineers with a strong detachment from King William's Town to post himself between Murray's Krantz and the Isele Berg, to intercept fugitives driven before Colonel Eyre.

10. The 12th Lancers had previously marched to occupy the Kabousie Neck. Major Tottenham, commanding the regiment during the temporary illness of Lieutenant-Colonel Pole, reports, that on his march thither he captured 78 head of cattle, and a number of goats, all being driven towards the Kei ; and that he observed large herds in the distance rapidly moving in the same direction ; indicating a general trêk.

11. On the evening of the 28th ultimo, I received information, corroborative of the above, on which I could rely, that large herds of Gaika cattle, fleeing from the Amatolas, had been collected at the junction of the Doorn and Thomas Rivers with the Kei, a country well adapted for concealment and defence. I, therefore, immediately sent orders to Colonel Eyre not to occupy, as originally intended, the Keiskamma Hoek, but to detach Colonel Perceval for that purpose ; and, moving his own column to the Kabousie Neck, to take with him the 12th Lancers, and make a rapid movement to seize these Gaika cattle, a service for which his enterprising character well adapts him. I at the same time detached from King William's Town Captain Robertson, of the Royal Engineers, in command of a patrol of 250 men, to complete the work of devastation throughout the Isele Berg, a thickly wooded ridge, trending from Murray's Krantz eastward to Hangman's Bush, and lying between King William's Town and the Kabousie.

12. Captain Robertson returned on the 2nd instant, having completely traversed the country pointed out in my instructions. He reports it to be completely abandoned by the enemy. A few huts and some fields of ripe corn were destroyed, no one having been near to gather it; and no spoor of cattle was discovered. Colonel Eyre's report reached me on the 5th instant. Having, according to my directions, gained the Kabousie Neck, and been joined by the 12th Lancers, he made a rapid night march on the indicated position on the Kei, which he reached at daybreak on the 31st ultimo. The enemy was completely taken by surprise, and Colonel Eyre, coming on the fresh spoor, or track of cattle, at once pursued it down the bed of the Kei. By another vigorous night march, he came up on the morning of the 1st instant with the flying herds, driven upon an insulated mountain. A most judicious movement of the troops in detached parties, so ably disposed as to prevent escape, was immediately made, and, after some opposition, 1220 head of Gaika cattle, 15 horses, and hundreds of goats, were captured. Colonel Eyre had previously detached Major Armstrong with 100 cavalry to his left, to take possession of a difficult pass, strongly occupied by the enemy, mounted and on foot. After completing this service, that officer, by a dexterous manœuvre, in which he appeared to fly before the enemy, lured him into some comparatively open ground, then, suddenly turning, drove him back, with considerable loss in killed, charging himself directly to the front with the detachment of Cape Corps, and Armstrong's Horse, while Captain Digby's troop of the 12th Lancers fell upon the right rear of the enemy. Major Armstrong subsequently captured 100 head of cattle; the total number taken during the grand operations amounting to 1391. Colonel Eyre speaks in high terms of praise of Lieutenant-Colonel Skipwith, of the 43rd Light Infantry, Major Pinckney, of the 73rd Regiment, Captain the Honourable P. E. Herbert, of the 43rd, and several other officers; and most especially of Major Armstrong and his corps, and Captain Cureton, of the 12th Lancers. He describes the latter officer, who commanded the advance, as having been more than once warmly engaged with the enemy, and on one occasion having "dashed fearlessly across the Kei," in face of a sharp fire kept up from the opposite bank. Colonel Eyre, having thus, with such enterprise and perseverance, effected this large capture, so important on the approaching termination of the war, commenced his march to re-occupy his position in the Amatolas or Keiskamma Hoek; having, in the short space of six days, achieved the most able foray of the many he has conducted during this war.

13. Meanwhile, the troops and burghers, under Major-General Somerset, have been pursuing the enemy in every direction on the northern side of the Amatolas. The Major-General reports from the Windvogelberg, on the 27th ultimo, that he had been on the track of numerous fugitives and cattle, all in full retreat towards the Kei; but, that "the Kafirs are so completely broken and divided that it is impossible to get up with them, except in very straggling parties; all seeming anxious to get over the Kei and escape from the forces as quickly as possible." So vigorous, however, was the pursuit, that it appears by a subsequent report from General Somerset, dated the 1st instant, that some of the enemy endeavoured to turn and make their way back to the Amatolas, with their cattle. The Major-General's mounted force came upon a part of these, and on the 28th ultimo captured 1500 head of cattle.

14. On the evening of the 29th ultimo, I received a report from Colonel Michel, that the rebel Hottentots, and a body of Kafirs, had collected in the Amatolas, and interrupted detachments of our troops in the Wolf Valley or Den, and neighbourhood of Mount Macdonald, and that it was his intention to move his whole force upon them. I regard this movement of the enemy as caused by the temporary absence of Colonels Eyre and Perceval. Their distance from this nest of rebels, although not great, was still sufficient to enable the latter to rally and assail detachments according to their usual custom. Although all the officers in command reported their conviction that the Kafirs generally had fled from the Amatolas, I was always of opinion that many of their warriors and of the rebel Hottentots would hang about the mountains, so long as they could possibly there maintain themselves. Mr. Brownlee, the Gaika Commissioner, entertained the same impression, as appears by the latter part of his letter of the 26th ultimo (Enclosure No. 2). I have, through a Government notice, warned the colonists to continue most vigilant, for they may rest assured the country will be infested by numerous bands of robbers for months to come. Subsequent reports from Colonel Michel, one of them written from the abandoned Hottentot encampment in the Amatolas, are of the most satisfactory kind; his continued operations have been perfectly successful; and Lieutenant-Colonel Perceval has also vigorously pursued the enemy in every direction in which he was to be found.

15. On my arrival at King William's Town, I learned that the Chief Stock had applied to Pato to use his intercession in his favour. Enclosed is a copy of the T'Slambie Commissioner's report on the subject.

16. Having also received information that many Gaikas had sought refuge in Umhala's country, I despatched Messrs. Fynn and Conway to convey the annexed message to that chief. He has paid 910 of the 1000 head of cattle imposed upon him as a fine, and the remaining 90, paid on the 10th April, are reported to be on their way to King William's Town.

17. The fickle nature of the Kafir delights in change, which he ever believes will turn, in some way, to his own advantage. Peace having been made by me on my arrival in Kaffraria in 1847, Sandili is fully impressed with the idea that a similar course will be pursued on the arrival of my successor. The Kafir feeling on this point is well set forth in the letter of Mr. Brownlee, the Gaika Commissioner, under date the 4th ultimo, a copy of which, marked No. 8, is enclosed.

18. I cannot avoid once more to express my deep mortification that the burghers, as a body, upon whose aid I so much calculated in the early part of the war, and again on issuing my proclamation of the 7th February 1852, should have so signally failed in their duty to their Queen, to the colony, and to their families. As your Lordship, in your despatch of the 14th January last, appears to impute to me, with reference to them, a want of a proper conciliatory disposition, and draws a comparison between me and that able public officer, Mr. Pine, I transcribe a portion of a letter addressed to me by the Licutenant-Governor on the 20th ultimo. "Your Excellency has been pleased to express your approbation of the policy I have pursued with regard to the Boers of this district. I feel it, however, now my duty to say that that policy was emphatically your own; and if I have been able to carry out that policy more effectually than you could do, it has been simply owing to my having been on the spot, whereas you were compelled to carry it out by means of agents who either did not or would not comprehend its spirit. The Boers, however, perfectly appreciate your views regarding them; and it is a source of the greatest pride to me to think that my name is, and perhaps will hereafter be, gratefully mentioned along with your own in the homesteads of these honest-hearted men." Your Lordship will observe that Mr. Pine, with that candour which is his guide, attributes his success to my example; and I may fairly say that, if an honest and straightforward course, desiring to promote the interests and welfare of a people fails in its object, I have nothing with which to reproach myself.

19. I have now reported to your Lordship the progress of events up to the date on which I relinquish the government of the colony of the Cape and the command of the Army. My position has been as arduous, and one of as great difficulty, as ever man was placed in. The origin of this war involves a most intricate and truly complicated question, requiring a general view to be taken of antecedent subjects. It is an incontrovertible fact that the Kafir people were most contented with the rule established in British Kaffraria; while shortly previous to the outbreak a restlessness on the part of some of the chiefs became apparent. At this period the treachery of the fickle and ungrateful Hottentot was at work. Many of them, possessing just sufficient education to make them mischievous and capable of observing what occurred at public meetings held within the colony to resist and oppose every measure of Government which the colonists regarded as the exercise of constitutional rights, though, in point of fact, such proceedings approached the brink of anarchy and confusion, could not discriminate between national remonstrance and open resistance. Filled with the belief that they were an "oppressed and ill-used race," they proceeded covertly to concoct with the Kafirs those hostile schemes which were fast approaching maturity, when my presence on the frontier, and the measures I took, most fortunately precipitated the war ere the conspiring parties were prepared and their means collected. Had it been otherwise, the outbreak would have been far more formidable even than it has been. I tried every expedient to avoid war short of that concession which would have lowered the dignity of Her Majesty's authority; yet a most peculiar feature of this outbreak was, that no specific reason was ever assigned, nor any redress sought, by the Kafir Chiefs, though frequently called upon to state their cause of restlessness, if such actually existed; while the Gaika people professed attachment to the existing order of things, and were apparently most contented with a rule which protected them from tyranny. All Mission Stations were flourishing and more than usually attended. During this time the Hottentots were passive—some doubted their loyalty—this roused them—and from several places, even from the Kat River, I received public assurances of their fidelity and devotion. When the war broke out, it was regarded by me and every other functionary, as a most unpopular revolt of the Gaikas to support Sandili in error; the other Chiefs openly expressing themselves to that effect. The torch of tumult, however, was soon blazing; and my means were for months most inadequate, amounting to only 1700 British troops, the greater part of whom occupied twelve unavoidable garrisons, leaving 800 available to control 4,000 Hottentot auxiliaries of doubtful loyalty, and to meet these hordes of well-armed, athletic, and intrepid barbarians in the field. Operations had to be carried on over an extent of country larger than Great Britain and Ireland, of the greatest natural difficulty, intersected as it is by mountains and rivers, and filled with woods and rocky fastnesses. My scanty force enabled me alone to maintain, with unflinching determination, every position. I relied, most fallaciously, on the inhabitants rallying round Her Majesty's troops; and they have themselves to blame for many of the horrors and miseries they have suffered at the hands of the enemy; all which I predicted in my Proclamation of the 3rd February 1851, must inevitably happen, unless they should turn out en masse to resist the torrent. I encountered a revolt—as I have already shown most unexpected—of nearly the whole of the eastern Hottentot population, formerly so useful against the Kafirs; as also an extensive defection in a corps of that class, previously most loyal and of the highest utility in Kafir warfare. The Hottentots had been taught or had imbibed the marked impression to which I have before alluded, that they were an "oppressed and ill-used race;" and that Holy Writ, which they are very fond of quoting, taught them they were justified in fighting to regain the country of which they regarded themselves as deprived. Surrounded as I and Major-General Somerset were by these people drawn from the eastern and western districts, one false step or untimely exercise of power and martial law would have plunged the whole into a chaos of revolution; Her Majesty's troops must have abandoned their advanced positions, and fallen back on Graham's Town; and the T'Slambie tribes would have risen as well as every curly-headed black from Cape Town to Natal.

20. During the prosecution of this war, 6,000 warriors, according to the Kafirs' own statement, have fallen, including 80 chief men, all of them of some distinction; 80,975 head of cattle, and innumerable goats, have been taken from the Gaikas, Tambookies, and from Kreili, the latter having suffered an additional loss by the removal of 7,000 of the enslaved Fingoe race, bringing with them 15,000 head of cattle; many arms and nearly 900 horses have been captured; the enemy has been driven, with great loss, from the strongholds which he so determinedly held; and, throughout the whole of their locations, the crops of the Gaikas have been utterly destroyed.

21. Thus have these most formidable barbarians been visited with the punishment their murders and robberies merit, the result of that horrid war which they so wantonly commenced, fraternizing with the ungrateful Hottentot race; and which the military measures now in effectual course of operation for their expulsion from the fastnesses of the Amatolas, will complete. The effect must be, as far as human foresight can predict, to establish permanently that peace and tranquillity which the colonists hope for, and to relieve the Imperial Treasury from a recurrence of an expenditure which has been indeed enormous, notwithstanding my utmost exertions, by every practicable and energetic restriction, to control it.

22. I am accused in your Lordship's despatch of having "failed in shewing that foresight, energy, and judgment, which my very difficult position required;" and censured for not having sooner brought this war to a termination; although in your Lordship's despatch, No. 592, of the 8th March 1851, the following remark appears:— "It is a great satisfaction to me in the anxiety in which I am placed by the intelligence which has reached me, to know that I may rely with the utmost confidence, not only upon your vigour and judgment in your military operations, but also upon your enlightened humanity." This has, however, been a war unavoidably of gradual progression, to ensure the result I anticipated and have attained, and one which could not have been conducted differently. I speak with some experience in war on a large scale as well as of a desultory character. When regular armies are opposed to each other, a signal victory may decide the fate of a nation. In a war with barbarians, who fight only when it so pleases them, avoiding concentration, but who are still determined to resist, the contest is necessarily of long duration. I may therefore proudly derive satisfaction from the reflection which has led me to record these facts, that this war will have been brought to the required conclusion with that expedition which all the peculiar circumstances permit; while during its progress neither soldier nor troop-horse has ever wanted his daily ration. Every fort and post is well supplied with provisions and ammunition; large depôts of the munitions of war are at head-quarters and at Graham's Town; and I have thus been recently enabled to make considerable reduction in the transport—a very expensive branch. I have been well supported by the Commissariat and the Civil Department of the Ordnance, and I enclose a copy of my General Order as a record of their respective merits.

23. I transfer the Civil Government without a single particle of business in arrear, and with a treasury without a debt; while all the civil officers have worked under me with energy and zeal. The war impending over the Orange River Territory, with all its evils and horrors, has been averted; while, had its prosecution become imperative, I had collected an ample depôt of Commissariat supplies at Bloem Fontein. Amicable relationship has been established with the Trans Vaal Emigrant Boers,—the refractory native chiefs are restoring their plunder, and submitting to the conditions imposed on them,—the turbulent Boers within the Sovereignty, when convicted of overt acts of disloyalty, have had heavy pecuniary fines inflicted on them, many of which, to the amount of £1,075, have already been promptly paid, which I have caused to be placed in the imperial chest, and to its credit,—property rises considerably in value,—and the revenue of the Sovereignty exceeds its expenditure. The flourishing condition of Natal is deeply indebted to the able and judicious government of Mr. Pine, who, in a letter to me of the 20th March, thus expresses himself: "The only service I have really rendered your Excellency was the sending the contingent into the Sovereignty, and the greater part of any merit there may be attached to that service belongs partly to you. It is an easy thing for a subordinate officer to do his duty when he feels that he has a chief above him who, provided he acts honestly and straightforwardly, will support him whether he succeeds or fails. Such a chief I have had in your Excellency."

24. I relinquish the command of the troops as expressed in the General Order annexed, at a period when, according to the reports I have received from officers in command and other sources, the mass of the Gaikas have been expelled from the Amatolas; when the Kafirs, cis as well as trans Keian, have repeatedly sued for peace, and when the war is virtually terminated; its continuance having been prosecuted to visit these turbulent savages with that retribution which justice demands, and according to the injunctions in your Lordship's despatch of the 13th May 1851, conveyed in the following terms: "Your first care, before any permanent arrangement can be thought of, must be to put an end to the war; but desirable as it is that this should be accomplished as speedily as possible, I cannot too strongly express my opinion that you ought on no account to accept from the rebel tribes any imperfect submission, and that you should not allow hostilities to be concluded by anything but their complete subjection and unconditional surrender. It is thus only that a real peace, and not a short and hollow truce, can be obtained."

I have, &c.
H. G. SMITH.

P.S.—8th April, 1852.

Since closing this despatch, while waiting to receive the Governor and Commander-in-Chief, I have received the accompanying communication from the Chief Sandili, through Lieutenant-Colonel Perceval, commanding one of the columns in the Amatolas. The Governor and Commander-in-Chief, whose Proclamation and General Order announcing his assumption of the government and command of the Army, by which I am removed from authority, have been promulgated, is expected every hour. I have therefore given it as my opinion to Colonel Mackinnon, the Chief Commissioner, that he should reply to the effect that Sandili is aware he ought to make application to the Gaika Commissioner, placed by me at Fort Cox, for the express purpose of receiving such messages, and I have also given Colonel Cloete, the Quartermaster-General, my opinion that he should direct the officers in command of columns in the meantime to continue hostilities.

Lieutenant-Colonel Perceval reports of his operations.—"On the 5th instant I moved up the Gulu River, and searched the kloofs between the Gulu and Doorn Mountains. Under the krantz, and in one of the kloofs, we succeeded in capturing 219 head of cattle, killing two Kafirs, without any casualty on our part. At three o'clock, A.M. on the 6th instant, I marched along the ridge between the Gulu and Keiskamma Rivers, to a krautz under the Doorn Mountains, where we succeeded in falling in with the enemy's cattle, killing two Kafirs, whose assagais were secured, and wounding some others, and one Hottentot. After searching the various kloofs, we captured 296 head of cattle, together with some horses. We returned to camp at $4\frac{1}{2}$ o'clock P.M., after two days' very fatiguing work."

Colonel Perceval's exertions are most meritorious.

Major-General Somerset has just reported that Lieutenant-Colonel Napier, in command of a patrol, captured on the 7th instant (yesterday) in very difficult ground, near the Thomas River, 3120 head of cattle, 70 horses, and 1500 goats; killing upwards of 50 of the enemy. This makes a total of 4500 head of cattle captured by the troops under the Major-General in his pursuit of the enemy from Balfour.

Captain Tylden, Royal Engineers, whose force from Whittlesea was attached to Major-General Somerset, thus reports:—"The party who ascended on the left flank and first turned the cattle, were led by Commandant J. Holden Bowker and Lieutenants Mason and Warner, and that on the right by Captain Austen and Lieutenant Arnold, North Victoria Native Levy; and I have on this occasion brought the names of these officers to your notice, on account of the gallant and deliberate manner in which 950 head of cattle and 50 horses were wrested from the enemy in the face of a powerful resistance, the enemy attacking our rear and both flanks in order to recapture their cattle. Being, however, in strong ground, favourable for taking the cattle out of the ravines, we succeeded in bringing them up to the open heights, although the enemy followed on our rear until repeatedly repulsed."

A very gallant affair occurred as a serjeant of the Cape Mounted Rifles, with 17 men of his corps, was conveying these reports from the Major-General. He fell in at night on the Golonci, a rivulet 35 miles hence, with a party of Kafirs and cattle. This Hottentot serjeant immediately attacked them, killed several of the enemy, took arms and assagais, and brought off 5 horses and 198 head of cattle.

It gratifies me much to be thus able in my last despatch to report so favourably of the Cape Corps.

The position of affairs in British Kaffraria is now clearly developed, and the contents of the above despatch corroborated.

Head Quarters, Chumie Mission Station.
20th March, 1852.

THE troops at head-quarters will penetrate the Lower Amatolas to-morrow the 21st instant, in two columns; the right column under Lieutenant-Colonel Michel, reinforced by thirty cavalry and double spans of oxen to the four guns,* will move by the direct road into the Amatola Basin, possessing itself of Mount Macdonald to prevent the egress of the enemy's cattle. This will probably occupy one day's operations.

On the following day Colonel Michel will ascend the Amatola Basin, and will work towards Colonel Eyre, who will descend the Wolf Valley if circumstances do not prevent him.

Lieutenant-Colonel Eyre's column will reinforce by 150 cavalry,† cross the Hog's Back, and so move as to ensure the capture of the cattle driven from before Colonel Michel, and then descend the Wolf Valley. The two guns now attached to Colonel Eyre's column, will accompany that of Colonel Michel.

Four days' biscuit and slaughter-cattle to be taken.

* Viz. Colonel Eyre's two guns added to Colonel Michel's.

The troops to be completed with ammunition.

It is possible Colonel Perceval's column may arrive at Fort Cox to participate in these movements. Orders will await his arrival there directing him to join Colonel Michel's column if possible; the copy of which is enclosed.

Their operations completed, the troops will return by the most convenient route to the spur of the Amatolas, immediately above the Yellow Woods, where head-quarters will be established to-morrow, Sunday the 21st instant. Circumstances may demand that Colonel Eyre's column should return to Fort Cox and not to head-quarters at the spur of the Amatolas. Colonel Eyre is authorized to use his judgment on this point.

Major-General Somerset's division and Burghers is moving from between Eland's post and Shiloh, to intercept fugitives and cattle attempting to gain the Windvogelberg.

Commander-in-Chief.

Head Quarters, Chumie Mission Station, March 20th, 1852.

THE columns of Colonels Michel and Eyre are ordered to penetrate the Inner Amatolas, according to the instructions inclosed. It is possible Colonel Perceval may arrive at Fort Cox to participate in these operations; if so, he will place himself under the orders of Colonel Michel. It is scarcely possible Colonel Perceval can communicate with Colonel Michel, except with his whole column, he should, therefore, be guided by the firing he may hear, (Mount Macdonald is the most probable point at which he will be required,) and Mr. M'Diarmid, the Missionary, who is well acquainted with this country, and now at Fort Cox, would give much information as to the locality, and should furnish Colonel Perceval with a guide or two: without guides Colonel Perceval must not attempt to penetrate the Amatolas.

Upon the result of these operations the future movements depend; but it is my intention to move towards Fort Cox hence. Unless Colonel Michel, from circumstances, may require the aid of Colonel Perceval, his column should return to Fort Cox. In the event of Colonel Michel bringing Colonel Perceval's column to head-quarters, he will leave all stores and impediments at Fort Cox.

(Signed) H. G. SMITH,
Commander-in-Chief.

Since writing these instructions I find Mr. M'Diarmid is at Fort Hare: there is, known at Fort Cox, named a very intelligent fellow, a messenger of Mr. Brownlee, who should accompany Colonel Perceval as a guide; Corporal Golding, also, of the Cape Corps, and one or two of the privates, who well know the country.

(Signed) H. G. SMITH.

March 22nd, 1852.

IF Colonel Perceval will march as soon after the receipt of this order as may be practicable, the whole of his effective force, with four days' provisions, carried by the men, (driving slaughter-cattle,) blankets, &c. to Mount Macdonald, and there put himself in communication with Colonel Michel, and receive his orders. The guns cannot go, but rockets are to be taken. Send back receipts by bearer.

One company of Queen's to accompany Colonel Perceval if he requires it.

(Signed) H. G. SMITH.

The Kaffir already named, will be the best guide, and Corporal Golding, C.M.R., to accompany Colonel Perceval, who must take especial care not to entangle himself in the mountains in the dark.

No. 2.

SIR, Fort Cox, March 26, 1852.

I HAVE the honour to report for the information of His Excellency Her Majesty's High Commissioner, that one of my messengers, dispatched by me to the Amatola and Wolf River, to obtain information for me, returned this morning, stating that all his relations had left the Wolf River, and that few Kaffirs were there and in the Amatola. My informant saw no cattle, and only three fires, and he states that the Kaffirs have moved towards the Gwilligwlli Mountains and the Buffalo Poorts, being unable to remain in this neighbourhood during the operations of the last few days.

While many of the Gaikas have actually crossed the Kei, and not a few have dispersed themselves among the friendly tribes, there are yet many who will, with the Chiefs, continue to conceal themselves in the mountains, awaiting the arrival of His Excellency Sir H. Smith's successor, when it is probable that they will adopt some decided course in order to obtain peace.

I have, &c.

Head Quarters, Camp 7, Kloof Point, Amatolas, March 24, 1852.

Memorandum of Movements.

THE columns under Colonels Michel, Eyre, and Perceval, will have this day completed the movements previously ordered in the Inner Amatolas for the expulsion of the rebel Gaikas, and will thus continue to prosecute this service.

1. Colonel Michel will establish the base of his operations at Fort Cox.

2. Colonel Eyre will march viâ Fort White, for the purpose of taking with him fifteen days' provisions, and establish himself near his old camp in the Keiskama Hoek, as the base of his operations.

3. Colonel Perceval will march viâ Fort White, taking with him fifteen days' provisions, and as the base of his operations, establish himself on the Quilli-Quilli Range, taking his gun with him.

4. Colonel Pole will march viâ Fort White and King William's Town, and with a corps of cavalry levies, and Fingoes, which will be given to him, establish himself on the Kabousie Neck, with fifteen days' provisions and forage.

5. These corps will daily despatch strong patrols in every direction from their respective bases, so as to render the Amatolas too hot for the rebels to remain in them.

6. The garrison of Fort Peddie will frequently patrol the Fish River Bush; the garrison of Fort Brown the Ecca Bush; and the garrisons of Fort Hare, Blinkwater Post, Post Retief, Eland's Post, and Whittlesea, will patrol their respective neighbourhoods with vigour and activity.

7. Meanwhile, Major-General Somerset, with his field-force of regular soldiers, levies, and burghers, will act upon the north side of the Amatolas, penetrating these mountains daily, and communicating with the Cradock Burghers under Commandant Gilfillan, and with the cavalry under Colonel Pole, on the Kabousie Neck.

8. Head Quarters will be at Fort Cox on the 25th instant, at King William's Town on the 26th, where all reports will be forwarded.

GOVERNMENT NOTICE.

King William's Town,
2nd of April, 1852.

THE troops moved from Fort Cox, according to the "Memorandum of movements" of the 24th ultimo, already published.

Lieutenant-Colonels Eyre and Perceval, before taking up their positions in the Keiskamma Hoek and on the Quilli-Quilli, moved, by his Excellency's instructions, to clear the forest of Perie, the Buffalo Poorts, and Murray's Krantz, a service which was very effectually performed with but slight opposition; upwards of 100 head of cattle and seven horses being captured.

The 12th Lancers moved on the 28th ultimo from King William's Town to Kabousie Neck, and on their march captured 78 head of cattle and a number of goats, trekking towards the Kei, with pack oxen.

Information having reached his Excellency, during Colonel Eyre's operations at the Buffalo Poorts, that numbers of Gaika cattle were collected at the Doorn and Thomas Rivers, orders were sent to him to march immediately to the Kabousie, take with him the 12th Lancers, and endeavour to effect a capture. Colonel Perceval was at the same time directed to move into the Keiskamma Hoek. Colonel Eyre's rapid movement is attended with every prospect of success.

In the Wolf Valley and Heights above it several shots have been exchanged with the 60th Rifles and 45th Regiment, under Lieutenant-Colonel Nesbitt and Major Kyle; and five soldiers of the 60th Rifles slightly wounded, apparently from trees.

Colonel Michel had got his guns, with incredible exertion, upon Mount MacDonald, and is there established; while Colonel Percival is in a position to co-operate with him from the Keiskamma Hoek.

Reports have been this day received from Major-General Somerset up to the 1st instant. His operations have been carried on in the direction of the Windvogelberg and Thomas River, and his rapid pursuit of the enemy has caused 1500 head of cattle to fall into his hands. General Somerset reports the Kaffirs as being completely broken and divided.

On the 30th ultimo a patrol of 250 men moved from King William's Town under Captain Robertson, Royal Engineers, for the purpose of completing the devastation of the country stretching from Murray's Krantz along the Isele Berg to Hangman's Bush. A few patches of ripe corn were found and destroyed, but everything indicated the total abandonment of that part of the country, as the crops were not gathered. Captain Robertson returned this morning to head-quarters.

The Chief Umhala has paid very nearly the whole of his fine of 1000 head of cattle, 80 head only remaining to be brought in.

All officers commanding patrols corroborate the reports of the rest, that the Kaffirs are trekking out of the Amatolas; but the colonists may rely that the Frontier Districts will long be infested by numerous banditti, and that they must not slacken in their vigilance for some months to come.

By His Excellency's command,
(Signed) JOHN GARVOCK, Lt.-Col.,
Private Secretary.

GENERAL ORDER.

Head-Quarters, King William's Town,
No. 256. April 6, 1852.

1. THE exertions of the troops in following up the enemy after his expulsion from the Waterkloof and Blinkwater fastnesses, through the Amatolas across the Kei, have been marked with such success, and are of such a character, that the Commander-in-Chief congratulates the army on the prospects of a speedy termination of the war, which must result from them, and give permanent peace to the country.

2. Amongst the most remarkable achievements of the forces employed in these operations since the General Order of the 16th March, are—

1st. Lieutenant-Colonel Perceval's affair near the Sab Indada on the 31st of March.

2nd. Lieutenant-Colonel Michel's operations on the Amatola, Wolf River, and Lenga Valleys, extending from the 26th of March to the 3rd of April.

3rd. Lieutenant-Colonel Eyre's clearing the Perie Bush on the 31st of March.

4th. Major-General Somerset's movement upon and capture of 1,500 head of Gaika cattle on the Thomas River.

5th. Lieutenant-Colonel Eyre's pursuit of the enemy with his herds across the Kei, capturing 1,386 head of Gaika cattle, and 15 horses, on the 3rd instant, by one of the most enterprising and successful forays of the campaign, in which Major Armstrong, Cape Mounted Rifles, Captains Cureton and Oakes, 12th Lancers, greatly distinguished themselves.

3. During these several operations many of the enemy were killed; he is dispersed and flying in scattered parties, and offered such feeble resistance, that no casualty has occurred amongst the troops.

4. The troops occupy every stronghold in the Amatolas, and it is impossible the enemy can retain even a footing, so is he pursued in every direction.

5. The Commander-in-Chief is very sensible of the services of the burghers who have turned out and aided in these operations, especially those under Commandants Gilfillan, Bowker, Delport, Bouwer, and Plessi.

SIR, Fort Murray, March 20, 1852.

I HAVE the honour to acquaint you that Ujika Umgagama and Qobana, Counsellors of the Rebel Chief Stock, arrived at this station on the 18th instant, with a request from Stock that Pato might intercede with his Excellency the Governor on behalf of the Amambalu tribe, as Stock was prepared to make peace on any terms dictated by his Excellency.

I annex a report of Stock's message, and Pato's reply, which I communicated to Pato, on the terms of his Excellency's memorandum of 27th November last; and Pato added, that if Stock desired to prove his submission, he ought to cross the Kei.

I beg to state that Pato has requested me to acquaint you, for the information of his Excellency, that any terms granted to the Gaikas on this side of the Kye will be treated by them as a drawn battle; and that they will boast that the English made peace, as they could not drive them out of the country.

I have, &c.

(Signed) JOHN MACLEAN,
T'Slambie Commissioner.

To Colonel Mackinnon,
Chief Commandant of Kaffraria.

Fort Murray, March 20, 1852.

STOCK wishes Pato to speak to the Governor to make peace with him, and the Amambalu tribe only. Stock joined in the war, because the Gaikas were fighting; but he was not one of the first that did so.

Should the Governor listen to Stock's word, he will make peace on any terms which may be demanded by the Governor.

The Chief Pato communicated Stock's message to the T'Slambie Commissioner, who declined seeing Stock's counsellors; and Pato gave the following reply to Stock's counsellors, as directed by the T'Slambie Commissioner.

The Gaikas coalesced and made war. They must coalesce in one general submission on the terms the Governor will dictate when their submission is tendered.

The Chief Pato added, "Tell Stock to cross the Kie; it will be quite time to talk of peace, when he proves his submission by leaving the war party and crossing the Kie."

CHIEF UMHALA. 27th March, 1852.

I RETURNED here yesterday from destroying Macomo, and driving Sandili through the Amatolas, thousands of his people out of them. My troops hold Mount Macdonald, and every other strong place. The horse march to-morrow to the Kabousie Neck. I find you have paid 170 more cattle; I desire the whole immediately, or I will send troops for them. I also hear that many Gaikas who have fled from the Amatolas have been received into your country, among others Umcozana, one of Sandili's great men, has moved by your permission to the Qcmore River, at Fyatu's old Kraal, also Qconxa, Chief of several kraals of Gaikas, has moved to the Mchloemyska River. Also that Umpandisis' people have returned, all of which is contrary to my orders: viz. Take Neuku, Mayanda, and Ungita, all on the Twmae. Now, Chief Umhala, clearly understand, my word is, that you eat up all Umpandisis' people, and that you drive every Gaika out of your country, their cattle being seized and sent to me. Mark well what I order, or you will repent it.

I have received the message you sent me through Maclean. I have never been your enemy when you acted so as to enable me to be your friend.

Fort Cox,

SIR, 4th March, 1852.

IN reference to my private letter to you, wherein I mentioned that Sandili had called a meeting of the Gaika Chiefs, in order to take into consideration his proposal of the surrender of firearms as a means of obtaining peace, I have the honour to report to you, for the information of His Excellency Her Majesty's High Commissioner, that in consequence of His Excellency's recall, the meeting did not take place, all the Gaika Chiefs deeming it wiser to continue without making any concession until the arrival of His Excellency's successor in this country, when the Kafirs hope to obtain peace on their own terms.

From the time that the Kafirs began to sue for peace until they heard of the change which is about to take place, messengers were frequently sent to me from the chiefs, and during the time that the crops were being destroyed, my messengers travelled unmolested with letters to and from King William's Town; but when the Kafirs heard of the recall they at once changed their course of action, my messengers were fired on and wounded, without any previous warning to them or to me; Bambe and the other councillors who were employed by the Chiefs to endeavour to obtain terms from Government, were informed that they might go to their homes, their service for the present not being required, and the Chiefs altogether have assumed as hostile an attitude as possible, though no longer able to induce their people to assemble in numbers to oppose the troops.

The reason for the course now adopted by the Chiefs is, that they imagine they will obtain easier terms by a bold bearing and a professed indifference to peace, than by admitting themselves to be in a position in which terms may be dictated to them; and on the whole it is evident that a change of Government in the present position of our affairs, will have the effect of prolonging the struggle in which we are now engaged.

GENERAL ORDER.

Head-Quarters, King William's Town,
No. 254. April 2, 1852.

THE Commander-in-Chief desires to record his marked approbation of the able manner in which all Commissariat arrangements have been conducted, under the auspices of Commissary-General Miller, in the early stage of the war, and during the greater part of it; and again by his successor, Commissary-General Maclean.

By their able arrangements, every post and patrol have been well supplied; not a soldier or a troop-horse has wanted his day's ration; while His Excellency is fully satisfied that every economy has been rigidly exercised throughout this long and arduous conflict, embracing services of a most extended and peculiar nature, attaching not only to the royal troops, but to the burghers and levies throughout the colony; thus reflecting that honour and credit towards one of the most important branches in the service, which demand the record of His Excellency's marked approbation and approval.

The zealous exertions and ability of Deputy Commissary-General Green, Assistant Commissaries-General Inglis and de Smidt, and Deputy Assistant Commissary-General Potgieter, have been continually under the marked approbation of the Commander-in-Chief.

His Excellency also desires to record equal approbation of the conduct of the officers of the civil branch of the Ordnance Department, whose labours have been incessant and continuous, reflecting great credit upon the zeal and activity of Mr. Cooper and Mr. Saunders, Ordnance Storekeeper, and of Mr. Hudson, Ordnance Clerk, in charge of the very considerable stores of ammunition and clothing at head-quarters, whose rectitude in all issues has been remarkable.

GENERAL ORDER.

Head-Quarters, King William's Town.
April 7th, 1852.

HIS Excellency Lieut.-General the Hon. George Cathcart having been appointed by the Queen to relieve me, I this day relinquish the command.

Brother officers and soldiers, nothing is more painful than to bid farewell to old and faithful friends. I have served my Queen and country many years; and attached as I have ever been to gallant soldiers, none were ever more endeared to me than those serving in the arduous campaign of 1851-52, in South Africa. The unceasing labours, the night marches, the burning sun, the torrents of rain, have been encountered with a cheerfulness as conspicuous as the intrepidity with which you have met the enemy in so many enterprising fights and skirmishes in his own mountain fastnesses and strongholds, and from which you have ever driven him victoriously.

I leave you, my comrades, in the fervent hope of laying before your Queen, your country, and

His Grace the Duke of Wellington, these services as they deserve, which reflect so much honour upon you.

Farewell, my comrades! Your honour and interests will be ever far more dear to me than my own.

GENERAL ORDER.

King William's Town,
No. 258. April 9th, 1852.

1. THE General Order of the 6th instant noticed the operations of the several columns, disposed by the Commander-in-Chief's predecessor in the field, with their successful results.

In connection with them, Major-General Somerset's report of the 8th instant has just been received, of the capture, on the previous day, of 3,120 head of cattle, 70 horses, 1,500 goats, and 100 of the enemy killed by a patrol under Lieutenant-Colonel Napier, C.M.R., in which the exertions of Captain Tylden, R.E., and the burghers, are reported to have been most conspicuous.

The date of these operations being antecedent to the relinquishment of the command by Sir Harry Smith, he thus directs their promulgation.

2. Serjeant Apollis Louw, C.M.R., and the latter party, consisting of 16 men of that corps, bringing Major-General Somerset's reports, above referred to, signalised himself and detachment by one of the most enterprising acts of the many of this war, by attacking, on his way, a kraal of the enemy, killing several of them, and carrying off 26 head of cattle and 1 horse. He subsequently fell in with an armed party of mounted Kafirs driving a herd of cattle, which he attacked, and took from them 172 head of cattle and 4 horses, all of which he brought safe to King William's Town. This deserves, as it receives, every encomium.

H. M. Ship "Gladiator," Table Bay,
My Lord, 17*th April*, 1852.

I HAVE this morning received, having embarked on board Her Majesty's ship "Gladiator," a report of Lieutenant-Colonel Eyre, dated Kabousie Neck, 8th instant, of which the inclosed is a copy.

The affair which it describes having occurred at a period when I was in command, I have the honour to draw your Lordship's marked attention to it, as having led to one of the most important of the many brilliant results which have recently attended Her Majesty's arms.

The Chief "Auta" is one of the most formidable, and certainly the most hostile, of all the Gaika Kaffirs. I therefore confidently hope this summary infliction of punishment will tend to facilitate the operations of my successor, who has been kind enough to issue a General Order, Paragraph 2 of which I inclose, to show the value he attaches to it.

This last success of Lieutenant-Colonel Eyre and his officers and troops under my command, is as gratifying to me to record as it is honourable to his enterprising self.

These 800 head of cattle and 15 horses, a considerable number in the present reduced state of the Gaikas, must be added to the general total of their losscs.

Your Lordship will observe that Colonel Eyre speaks in especial terms of praise of Major Pinckney of the 73rd, and Major Armstrong of the Cape Mounted Rifles. I deeply regret the loss of Captain Gore of the 43rd Light Infantry. He was one of the most distinguished captains under my command; as intrepid as judicious; beloved by both officers and men.

I have, &c.

H. G. SMITH.

The Rt. Hon. Earl Grey.

P.S. I cannot close this report of the last of the many daring enterprises and signal successes which have been achieved by Her Majesty's troops under my command, without requesting to draw your Lordship's marked attention to its character. You will perceive that while the troops were moving on to storm one of the strongest positions in the Amatolas, one formed of mountain and wooded fastness, the enemy were sufficiently bold and daring to make a vigorous onslaught on our rear, for the purpose of course of anticipating the attack on their cattle. For this Colonel Eyre most judiciously provided, while he moved onward to the assault; the result of which he himself so ably describes. I mention this to your Lordship with reference to your despatch to me of the 15th December last, in which you remark, with reference to operations in the Water Kloof, that "it was the rear and not the van of the British force which was engaged with the enemy, and that the latter must therefore have been the assailants." In my despatch of the 5th February last, I endeavoured to remove this impression, observing that "those who have witnessed military operations, and are well acquainted with their varying character, success attending them in one part of the field, while in others partial bodies may be held in check, will not consider the affair of a rear-guard as the criterion by which to judge of their general result." In all warfare, but more especially in that of a desultory character, these contradistinctions of attack and defence occur; and no more striking instance has been offered during the war under my conduct than the one now in question, showing at once the daring of the enemy and that in the operations of a day, the affair of a rear-guard does not constitute success or the reverse.

April 8th, 1852.

SIR,

I HAVE the honour to report, for the information of his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, that having rested my men on the 6th instant, I proceeded at daylight on the 7th instant with the force as per margin,* to cross the Kabousie Neck,

* 43rd Light Infantry 243
73rd Regiment 159
Cape Mounted Rifles 36
Armstrong's Horse 38

en route to resume my former position in the Keiskammer Hoek. On reaching the summit of the pass I observed cattle in the distance, and immediately hastened on the cavalry in pursuit of it, under Major Armstrong. As we descended into the Hoek the enemy, hitherto concealed, came forward with unwonted boldness, and attacked our rear-guard, following us into the open in skirmishing order. It was plain that the object of the enemy was to draw us towards him, and so divert our attention from his cattle in front. I, therefore, pushed on and surrounded the Kloof into which the cattle had been driven. With astonishing exertion the infantry climbed up to the highest summits of the mountains between Mount Doorn and Mount Thomas, and prevented the egress of the cattle, while the Cape Mounted Rifles and Armstrong's Horse dismounted, and the Levies under Lieutenant Nicholls, the whole under Major Armstrong, entered the bush, and in spite of the resistance of the enemy, captured 210 head of cattle and 15 horses. Above 30 more, evidently choice cows, were found killed by the enemy, with assagais. Two of Armstrong's Horse were wounded on this occasion. Hearing also cattle in "Auta's Hole," I ordered a company of the 73rd to penetrate the bush and search for "spoor." This company failed in finding spoor, and returned from the bush, having one man wounded. To support this company, I had ordered one company of the 43rd Light Infantry. under Captain Gore, to enter the bush in another direction. I afterwards reinforced it with another company of the 43rd, under Captain Green, and a company of the 73rd under Captain Burne. These three companies, under Major Pinckney, penetrated the bush, and with admirable perseverance, in spite of the presence of the enemy, who were in considerable numbers, captured between 500 and 600 head of beautiful cattle, supposed to belong to Auta, and succeeded in driving them up the precipitous side of Mount Thomas. A considerable number of these cattle, however, could not reach the summit, and were obliged to be destroyed; but we have 630 remaining, and 15 horses.

I beg particularly to bring to the notice of his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, the conduct of Major Pinckney, and that of the three companies under his command on this occasion. The intrepidity and perseverance with which they pursued through that dense bush a large herd of cattle, driving them without the aid of Fingoe or Hottentot, and finally captured them, despite the opposition of the enemy, in one of the most formidable positions in the Amatolas, excited the admiration of every one in the field. We have not succeeded in this instance without incurring some casualties; and I have to lament in common with every officer of the division, the loss that Her Majesty's service has sustained in the death of Captain Gore, 43rd Light Infantry. This excellent officer, in advancing to the bush, was shot dead, apparently by some one in the trees. He was as usual in front of his men, leading them on with the utmost gallantry. His place, however, was instantly supplied by Lieutenant Graham, who efficiently commanded the company and brought it out of the bush. Our total casualties were:—1 officer killed; 2 rank and file, 43rd Light Infantry, wounded; and 2 of the 73rd wounded; and 2 of Armstrong's Horse wounded.

I beg particularly to express my thanks to the following officers, though the exertions of all were very conspicuous—viz.: Lieutenant-Colonel Skipwith, commanding 43rd Light Infantry, Major Pinckney, commanding 73rd, Major Armstrong, commanding the cavalry, Lieutenant Nichols, commanding the levies, Lieutenant Gawler, 73rd, Deputy Assistant Quartermaster-General, and Lieutenant Reeve, 73rd, Field Adjutant.

(Signed) WM. EYRE, Lieutenant-Colonel 73rd Regiment, Commanding Patrol.

Extract of General Order by His Excellency Lieut.-General the Hon. George Cathcart.

Head-Quarters, King William's Town, 11th April, 1852.

2. THE Commander-in-Chief desires to record, as part of the operations in progress under the disposition of His Excellency's predecessor, Sir Harry Smith, the energetic exertions of the column under Lieut.-Colonel Eyre, in the Keiskamma Hoek, on the 7th instant, when about 800 head of cattle and 15 horses, belonging to Anta, were captured in one of the most formidable positions of the Amatolas, in spite of every opposition of the enemy. In this affair our casualties were:—1 officer (Captain Gore, 43rd Regiment) killed at the head of his company, leading them on with the utmost gallantry; and 6 men wounded.

(Signed) A. J. CLOETE, Quartermaster-General.

Foreign-Office, June 1, 1852.

The Earl of Malmesbury, Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, thinks it expedient to renew the Notification which appeared in the London Gazette of the 21st of February 1851, of the Regulations in force at the Foreign Office relating to the granting of Passports.

His Lordship further thinks that it will be useful to Her Majesty's subjects, travelling on the continent of Europe, to be made acquainted with the annexed Instructions, issued to all Her Majesty's Ministers abroad, for the purpose of securing every reasonable facility to travellers, in procuring, without difficulty or delay, at the different British Embassies and Missions abroad, the requisite attention in matters connected with Passports and other official formalities.

Regulations Respecting Passports.

1. Applications for Foreign Office Passports must be made in writing; and addressed to Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, with the word "Passport," written upon the cover.

2. The fee on the issue of a Passport is 7s. 6d.

3. Foreign Office Passports are granted only to British subjects, including in that description foreigners who have been naturalized by Act of Parliament, or by Certificates of Naturalization granted before the 24th day of August 1850: in this latter case, the party is described in the Passport as a "Naturalized British subject."

4. Passports are granted between the hours of twelve and four, on the day following that on which the application for the Passport has been received at the Foreign Office.

5. Passports are granted to persons who are either known to the Secretary of State or recommended to him by some person who is known to him; or upon the written application of any Banking Firm established in London, or in any other part of the United Kingdom.

6. Passports cannot be sent by the Foreign Office to persons already abroad. Such persons should apply to the nearest British Mission or Consulate.

7. Foreign Office Passports must be countersigned at the Mission, or at some Consulate in England, of the Government of the country which the bearer of the Passport intends to visit.

8. A Foreign Office Passport granted for one journey may be used for any subsequent journey if countersigned afresh by the Ministers or Consuls of the countries which the bearer intends to visit.

Foreign Office,
February 20, 1851.

Circular Despatch from the Earl of Malmesbury to Her Majesty's Ministers abroad, dated Foreign Office, March 26, 1852.

I have been informed that at some of Her Majesty's Missions abroad, the head of the Mission having for his own convenience fixed his temporary residence in the country, at a distance more or less great from the capital, does not keep in the capital an office to which those English or other persons who may have necessary business to transact with the Mission can resort; I therefore think it advisable to state generally to all Her Majesty's Diplomatic Servants, that in the event of their establishing their residence beyond the precincts of the capital, they are bound to maintain in the capital an office which shall be regularly open every day, except Sunday, for at least three fixed and known hours, between ten o'clock in the forenoon and four o'clock in the afternoon. An Attaché or other proper person duly authorized must be constantly in attendance at that office during those hours, for the purpose of countersigning Passports and performing such other duties as British subjects abroad are entitled to expect at the hands of their Minister.

And as it is necessary that with regard to the legalization of documents of certain descriptions, the parties should appear before the Chief of the Mission or the Secretary of Legation, the office in question must be visited at certain known and appointed times by one of the persons competent to sign such documents; and a public notification should be made to that effect.

With regard to documents which require the signature of the Minister himself, without the personal attendance of the party desiring such signature, the Minister, while living out of town, must make arrangements for such documents being forwarded to him at least once in twenty-four hours, and free of expense to the party sending, from the British office in the capital; and he must send the papers back to the office at the latest on the day succeeding his receiving them in such manner as shall insure the punctual reception of them in sealed covers by the parties interested.

I am, &c.

The following Addresses of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland having been transmitted by William David, Earl of Mansfield, Her Majesty's Commissioner, to the Right Honourable Spencer Horatio Walpole, one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, have been by him presented to the Queen ; which Addresses Her Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously:

To the QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects the Ministers and Elders of the Church of Scotland, met in this General Assembly, beg leave to give utterance to our grateful sense of the warm satisfaction with which your Majesty has condescended to contemplate the approach of our present Meeting, and to express your assurance that our consultations will be guided by a due regard to the important interests committed to our charge, and to the maintenance and promotion of the peace and happiness of the Church of Scotland and the people at large.

Remembering also with heartfelt gratitude the many occasions on which former Assemblies have been assured of your Majesty's determination to maintain the Church of Scotland in the full possession of all its rights and privileges, we cannot fail to be encouraged by the unreserved confidence with which your Majesty has resolved to entrust the interests of this Church to our care, and to rely on the prudence and moderation which in your Majesty's estimation has long distinguished the deliberations of our predecessors, and we cherish the hope that your Majesty's favourable expectation may be fulfilled, that through the grace of the Almighty God we shall be guided into all the truth, so that our counsels and acts may be dictated by sound wisdom and discretion.

In the appointment of the Right Honourable the Earl of Mansfield as your Majesty's High Commissioner and Representative, we recognize an unequivocal proof of your Majesty's good will to this National Church, the Ministers and Elders of which are fully aware of the eminent talents, the ardent loyalty, and enlightened patriotism, and the numerous excellencies of character which have determined your Majesty's choice.

The Royal Warrant for two thousand pounds to be applied to the reformation of the Highlands and Islands, has been received by us with the deepest gratitude, and it is our anxious desire, with all diligence and good fidelity, to administer the fund thus placed at our disposal so as to promote effectually the sacred and momentous objects to which it has been destined.

That the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom kings reign and princes decree justice, may in his abundant grace pour down upon your Majesty, your Royal Consort, and all the Royal Family, the choicest blessings both spiritual and temporal, that you may long reign in peace and felicity over a pious, loyal, free, and prosperous people, and that finally you may dwell for ever in the House of the Lord Most High, the King of Glory and the King of Saints, is the earnest prayer of, may it please your Majesty, your Majesty's most loyal and most faithful subjects,

The Ministers and Elders of the Church of Scotland.

Signed in our name, in our presence, and at our appointment, by Lewis W. Forbes, Moderator.

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE the Ministers and Elders of the Church of Scotland, convened in this General Assembly, approach the throne with the expressions of our fervent congratulations on the recurrence of your Majesty's natal day.

We have cause for unfeigned and constant thanksgiving to Almighty God, that we enjoy the inestimable advantage of living under the sway of a Sovereign, who maintains with consummate dignity her high position, and exhibits to her subjects of every rank, a bright example of domestic virtue combined with universal performance of public duty.

It is with the most cordial satisfaction that we assure your Majesty of the universal loyalty and devoted attachment of the population of that portion of the United Kingdom to which our ministrations extend, and we have ample opportunities of knowing that these loyal and affectionate feelings have been animated to the highest degree of intensity by your Majesty's annual visits to Scotland, during which all ranks, from the highest to the lowest, have witnessed with delight the countenance and support given by your Majesty to the administration of divine ordinances, and to every wisely concerted measure for advancing the improvement and happiness of the people.

That the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ may long preserve your Majesty, enriching you and your Royal Consort, and your Royal Offspring, with the abundant communications of his grace upon earth, and make you meet at last for the inheritance of a heavenly crown, are the humble and fervent prayers of, may it please your Majesty, your Majesty's most faithful, loyal, and obedient subjects,

Office of Ordnance, June 5, 1852.

The following Regulations are directed by the Master-General of Her Majesty's Board of Ordnance to be observed in relation to the mode of storing, safe keeping, and receiving and delivering gunpowder to and from the vessels to be moored at the places appointed under the provisions of an Act of the 14 and 15 Queen Victoria, chapter 67, section 6, intituled "An Act to repeal so much of an Act of the 12th year of King George the 3rd, relating to the making and carriage of gunpowder, as exempts therefrom certain gunpowder magazines and stores near Liverpool, and to make certain temporary provisions with regard to the said magazines and stores."

Any person failing to observe these Regulations will be guilty of a misdemeanour, and punished accordingly.

1. Sir William Snow Harris's lightning conductors are to be fixed under his, or his agent's, directions.
2. A red flag is at all times to be displayed at the mast-head of every floating magazine.
3. Each magazine is to be amply provided with tanned hides, and with wooden blocks and brass sheaves, where necessary, and all workmen are to be supplied with caps, frocks, and trousers of canvas, and shoes or slippers of leather, which are to be used in the magazine work only. A force-pump is also to be provided, for the purpose of throwing water in all directions.
4. A shifting or examining room is to be provided for each magazine, which is to be situated on the deck, with strengthened flooring below it; and it is to be used for no other purpose than for shifting powder, and heading-up or unheading the barrels.
5. The owners of each magazine are to appoint a storekeeper, in whose charge the magazine is to be placed, and who is to be bound, together with two competent sureties, to such owners in the sum of £1000, for the proper execution of his duty, to the satisfaction of the Master-General; and he is to be responsible for any assistant storekeeper or storekeepers he (the storekeeper) may appoint. He is also to appoint all workmen and boatmen required for this service, who are to be examined before they begin their work, and strict surveillance is to be exercised over them during the performance of their duty, to see that they are perfectly sober and well conducted.

6. Not any lights (except the signal one, and a second for the watch, which is to have water under it, and a temporary light, in an approved hand-lantern, to be brought from the shore for the purpose of lighting the signal and light for the watch, and then to be extinguished), also not any fires or smoking are to be allowed; and, under no pretence whatsoever, is any lucifer match to be permitted on board; and, to guard against the infringement of this order, the clothes with pockets in them are to be taken off in the changing room, or examined before beginning the work.
7. The storekeeper or other person in charge is not to allow more than one powder-vessel on each side of the magazine at the same time, and he is to provide good and suitable boats for conveying the powder to and from the magazine.
8. Not any barrel containing gunpowder is to be received or placed in these magazines, unless it be free from grit and well coopered. No defective barrel is to be taken into the magazine; and not any barrel is to be received having any other hoops than those of wood or copper, or having any other metal in or about it.
9. Great care is to be taken in sweeping up the loose gunpowder, and, on the appearance of an approaching thunder-storm, or of lightning, all the ports and doors are to be closed.
10. All powder-vessels bringing gunpowder are, before entering the Mersey, to hoist a red flag, which is to be kept up until the whole of the powder is discharged, and, before approaching the magazines, all fires are to be completely extinguished, and they are not to be re-lighted until the vessel is moved a quarter of a mile off; and the respective owners of each magazine are to be responsible for their respective vessels bringing powder from their works being provided with the red flag, and for its being hoisted at all times when their vessels have powder on board on the Mersey. All vessels coming to receive powder from the magazines are to extinguish their fires and lights before they arrive within a distance of a quarter of a mile from the magazines, and are to keep them extinguished while within that distance.

11. The owners of each magazine, storekeeper, and assistant storekeepers, are to be responsible for the due examination of the vessels before they are warped alongside, either by themselves or by a competent person of the powder establishment.

12. Not any boats but those belonging to the storekeeper, excepting boats of ships bringing powder, part of ships' stores to be deposited, or the boat conveying the Ordnance Officer, are to be allowed to go alongside the powder-vessels, nor is any boat to be allowed to communicate with any vessel or vessels which are receiving or discharging powder alongside the powder-vessel.

13. A bright light is to be placed in each of the magazines every night, in such a position as is customary for signal lights, and two men are to be placed in each magazine for further security as a watch.

14. Not any powder is to be received or issued at the magazines, unless the storekeeper or assistant storekeepers be present.

15. All persons, of whatsoever degree of rank, employed in the receipt, issue, or custody of powder at the magazines, are to point out to all concerned any proceeding which may have a tendency to cause danger.

16. The superintendent, appointed by the Master-General, is empowered to enforce these regulations, and is at all times to have access to the magazines.

17. The storekeeper or assistant storekeepers are to report to the inspecting officer any deviation from these rules and regulations which may occur, as well as any other circumstances affecting the security, especially as regards the due efficiency of the mooring chains and tackle.

18. An account of the receipts and issues is to be kept, either on board the magazines, respectively by the storekeeper or assistant storekeeper, or at the storekeeper's office in Liverpool, in a day journal, which journal is to be open to the inspection of the Ordnance Officer at any time, and such officer is empowered to make such extracts as he may think proper.

Printed copies of these regulations are to be placed in such places in the powder-vessels as the Ordnance Officer may direct, these printed copies are to be renewed so often as it may be necessary to insure their being always perfectly legible, and such number of copies are to be sent to the Board of Ordnance, from time to time, as may be required for posting in such places as the Master-General may think proper.

By order of the Master-General,

W. Cotton, Secretary.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JUNE 15, 1852.

By the QUEEN.

A PROCLAMATION.

VICTORIA R.

WHEREAS by the Act of Parliament, passed in the tenth year of the reign of His late Majesty King George the Fourth, for the relief of His Majesty's Roman Catholic subjects, it is enacted, that no Roman Catholic ecclesiastic, nor any member of any of the religious orders, communities, or societies of the Church of Rome, bound by monastic or religious vows, should exercise any of the rites or ceremonies of the Roman Catholic Religion, or wear the habits of his order, save within the usual places of Worship of the Roman Catholic Religion, or in private houses;

And whereas it has been represented to Us, that Roman Catholic ecclesiastics, wearing the habits of their orders, have exercised the rites and ceremonies of the Roman Catholic Religion in highways and places of public resort, with many persons in ceremonial dresses, bearing banners and objects, or symbols, of their Worship, in procession, to the great scandal and annoyance of large numbers of Our people, and to the manifest danger of the public peace; And whereas it has been represented to Us that such violation of the law has been committed near places of public Worship during the time of Divine Service, and in such a manner as to disturb the congregations assembled therein; We have, therefore, thought it Our bounden duty, by and with the advice of Our Privy Council, to issue this Our Royal Proclamation, solemnly warning all those whom it may concern, that, whilst We are resolved to protect Our Roman Catholic subjects in the undisturbed enjoyment of their legal rights and religious freedom, We are determined to prevent and repress the commission of all such offences as aforesaid, whereby the offenders may draw upon themselves the punishments attending the violation of the laws, and the peace and security of Our dominions may be endangered.

Given at Our Court, at Buckingham-Palace, this fifteenth day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two, and in the fifteenth year of Our reign.

GOD save the QUEEN.

India House, June 14, 1852.

THE following Dispatches have been this day received at the East India House:

(Extract.) Fort William, May 3, 1852.

WE have the honour to transmit to you a copy of the further papers regarding Rangoon affairs.

In these documents, our sentiments are expressed in warm, but not exaggerated, terms; for, in truth, no language could be employed too strong to convey the praise which is justly due to the gallantry, the fortitude, the patience, temper and discipline which have been exhibited, during the several operations on the coast, by all branches of the combined force, and by those who have led them so well.

We beg most respectfully and most earnestly to commend the services of these brave men, according to their several ranks and recorded merit, to the gracious consideration of Her Majesty the Queen, and to the approbation and favour of the Court of Directors.

We have, &c.

DALHOUSIE.

NOTIFICATION.

Fort William, April 28, 1852.

THE Governor-General of India in Council, having failed to obtain redress from the Court of Ava for injuries which had been inflicted on British subjects, in gross violation of existing Treaties, was compelled to declare that reparation should be exacted by force of arms.

To that end an expedition was immediately prepared and despatched to the coast, in the hope that a blow promptly struck against the Burmese Power might possibly lead to a concession of the just and moderate demands advanced by the Government of India, and might thus avert the necessity for engaging in extended and costly war.

The Governor-General in Council has had the satisfaction of publishing, for general information, dispatches which announce the success of the expedition, in the capture of Martaban, in the destruction of the formidable defences constructed along the river, and in the assault and occupation of the fortifications of Rangoon.

The Governor-General in Council cannot employ terms too strong in expressing his unqualified approbation of the brilliant service which has thus been performed, and his gratitude to those by whose joint exertions it has been achieved.

His admiration is due equally to the perfect cordiality and concert with which Navy and Army have acted together; to the gallantry which has been conspicuous in the field; and to the fortitude and patience with which all have endured, without a murmur, a fierceness of climate, whose deadly influence is unhappily too well attested by the number of those who have fallen victims to its effects.

The Governor-General in Council especially desires to offer to the Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's Naval Forces in these seas his warm acknowledgments of the ready co-operation and of the very effective aid which his Excellency has afforded to the Government of India by the powerful squadron under his command, whose operations he has so ably directed, and in whose services he has borne so distinguished a part.

To Lieutenant-General Godwin, commanding the Forces in Ava, the Governor-General in Council begs leave to tender his most full and cordial thanks for the manner in which, by his intrepidity, his energy, and ability, he has brought the military operations of the force to their present successful issue; and to congratulate him upon having thus won fresh and higher honours upon the same scene on which he formerly gained so much distinction.

The Governor-General in Council has great satisfaction in publicly rendering to Commodore Lambert his sincere acknowledgments of the promptitude with which he gave his assistance to the Government of India, of his constant exertion on its behalf during a trying service, and especially of the prominent share he has now borne in the destruction of the river defences; thus materially facilitating the movements of the squadron, and the ultimate success of the attack.

The best thanks of the Governor-General in Council are due to Brigadier Elliot, commanding the Madras Brigade, and to Lieutenant-Colonel Reignolds, who, after having taken a part in every operation of the troops, has assumed the command of the Bengal Brigade, from which illness, which the Governor-General in Council regrets, has removed Brigadier Warren.

The Governor-General in Council is happy to record his appreciation of the essential service rendered by Captain Lynch, the senior officer of the Indian Navy, to whose ability, judgment, and discretion his Excellency the Rear-Admiral has borne his testimony on this occasion.

And his Lordship in Council, at the same time, desires to mark his sense of the services of Commander Mellersh, of Commander Fishbourne, by whose aid the Government has largely profited, of Commander Tarleton, Commander Luard, Lieutenant Rice, R.N. Captain Neblett, of H. C. Steamer Phlegethon, and of Surgeon Minter, whose personal exertions have been severally commended by his Excellency.

The Governor-General in Council has to add his marked acknowledgments of the valuable assistance afforded during the attack on the land defences of Rangoon by Lieutenant Dorville, R.N. and the naval brigade under his orders.

The Governor-General in Council has further remarked with gratification the distinguished conduct of Captain Brooking, of H. C. Steamer Proserpine. His Lordship in Council wishes to express his warm approbation of conduct which has elicited the applause, both of the Admiral and of the General who witnessed it.

The conspicuous gallantry of Major Fraser, commanding the Engineers, and his indefatigable exertions since the expedition was resolved upon, more especially in the field, command the highest praise, and the best thanks of the Supreme Government.

To Lieutenant-Colonel Foord, commanding the Artillery; to Major Turton and Major Reid, of the Bengal Artillery; to Major Montgomery, of the Madras Artillery; to Lieutenant-Colonel Coote, of Her Majesty's 18th, who has been severely wounded; to Lieutenant-Colonel Thomson, of the 40th Native Infantry; to Lieutenant-Colonel Johnson, of 26th Madras Native Infantry; and to Major Lockhart, of Her Majesty's 80th Regiment; to Captain Mayhew, Deputy Adjutant-General, whose value is specially remarked; to Captain Allan, Deputy Quartermaster-General; to Captain Call and Captain Smith, Brigade Majors; to Lieutenant Robertson, Deputy Commissary of Ordnance; to Captain Gillespie, who led the assault at Martaban; and Captain Campbell, of Her Majesty's 18th; to Captain Rundall, commanding Madras Sappers and Miners; to Captain Chads and Lieutenant Lambert, Aides-de-Camp to the Lieutenant-General; the services of all of whom have been noticed with approbation by General Godwin, the Governor-General in Council begs to offer his earnest thanks.

The Governor-General in Council has to offer his thanks to Lieutenant-Colonel Bogle, Commissioner of the Tenasserim Provinces, for the valuable aid he rendered to General Godwin in connexion with the attack upon Martaban; and his Lordship in Council particularly desires to record his approbation of the energetic and successful exertions of the Commissioner in giving effect to the preparations of the Government for ensuring, as far as possible, the health and comfort of the troops to be employed upon the expedition.

Captain Latter, who has discharged his functions hitherto to the entire satisfaction of the Government, has added to his claims by the duty which he well performed in the assault on the Pagoda at Rangoon.

Not only to the officers he has thus specially named, but to all the officers, to the non-commissioned officers, of whatever designation, and to the soldiers and sailors of the force, the Governor-General in Council desires to convey his true and hearty thanks for the alacrity, the endurance, the bravery and good conduct they have displayed during the several operations in which they have been engaged.

The Governor-General in Council deeply laments to know that our success has not been achieved without the sacrifice of valued lives.

He deplores the loss of Major Oakes, and of Brevet Major Griffith, of the Madras Army; of Lieutenant Armstrong, of Her Majesty's 51st Regiment; of Lieutenant Donaldson, of Bengal Engineers; of Lieutenant Doran, of Her Majesty's 18th, who nobly perished in the front of the assault; and of the Reverend Mr. Baker, Chaplain of Her Majesty's ship Fox, and other brave men, who died in the performance of their several duties in the service of their country.

It shall be the first care of the Most Noble the Governor-General in Council to bring the conduct and services of the naval and military forces on the coast of Burmah under the most favourable notice of Her Majesty's Government, and of the Honourable East India Company.

By order of the Most Noble the Governor-General in Council,

C. ALLEN,
Officiating Secretary to the Government of India.

Lieutenant-General H. Godwin, C.B. Commanding the Forces in Ava, Arracan, and Tenasserim Provinces, to C. Allen, Esq. Secretary to the Government of India.

SIR, Rangoon, April 22, 1852.

I HAVE the honour to advise you, for the information of the Governor-General of India in Council, that everything remains quiet in this neighbourhood. There are various accounts of the defeated Burmese army, under the late Governor of Rangoon, and they tend to the conclusion that he may be retreating up the country with a very small force.

The inhabitants of the villages around visit Rangoon, and bring in various articles for sale. The old inhabitants are partially settling themselves in the vicinity of the Old Town; and great numbers of Burmese are in our employ as coolies.

It has been reported to me that a detachment of the 26th Madras Native Infantry, in garrison at Martaban, had marched against a post occupied by the enemy, which it most spiritedly routed on the 11th inst. without loss; and that, on the 14th, the pickets at Martaban were attacked, and the enemy beaten off with great spirit by the same corps, commanded by Captain Welch, at a very trifling loss. All this will, I have no doubt, subside on the fall of Rangoon becoming known.

I sincerely regret having omitted to bring to the notice of the Governor-General in Council, in my dispatch of the 18th inst. how much I am indebted to Mr. Crisp, junior, for his able assistance in conducting the army through very difficult ground, on its progress to the Great Pagoda, which he performed, under the fire of the enemy, with great coolness and courage.

I rejoice greatly to say the wounded are doing very well. The skill, the labour, the attention, and the humanity of Superintending-Surgeon Montgomerie, and of the Medical Department generally under him, call for the warmest approbation of the Government.

Major Fraser, Commanding Engineer, has been indefatigable in his exertions in his own department, and indeed everywhere, to get this place into some order and cleanliness.

He has requested me to bring to the notice of the Governor-General in Council the gallant conduct of Second Lieutenant W. S. Trevor, Assistant Field Engineer, who was the first on the ladder, and there wounded, at the White House Stockade, on the 12th, as also of Lieutenants Craster (Bengal) and Mayne (Madras) Engineers, who were very forward on the same occasion.

My greatest pleasure, however, is to bring before His Lordship in Council the admirable conduct and temper of this force:—its discipline and regularity of demeanour are unexceptionable.

I have, &c.

H. GODWIN, Lieutenant-General Commanding the Forces in Ava, Arracan, and Tenasserim Provinces.

NOTIFICATION.

Fort William, May 1, 1852.

THE Most Noble the Governor-General in Council directs that the following Extract of a further Dispatch received from Lieutenant-General Godwin, C. B., commanding the Forces in Ava, Arracan, and Tenasserim Provinces, dated the 22nd ultimo, be published for general information:

"I sincerely regret having omitted to bring to the notice of the Governor-General in Council, in my Dispatch of the 18th instant, how much I am indebted to Mr. Crisp, junior, for his able assistance in conducting the army through very difficult ground, on its progress to the Great Pagoda, which he performed, under the fire of the enemy, with great coolness and courage.

"I rejoice greatly to say the wounded are doing very well. The skill, the labour, the attention, and the humanity of Superintending-Surgeon Montgomerie, and of the Medical Department generally under him, call for the warmest approbation of the Government.

"Major Fraser, Commanding Engineer, has been indefatigable in his exertions in his own department, and indeed everywhere, to get this place into some order and cleanliness.

"He has requested me to bring to the notice of the Governor-General in Council the gallant conduct of 2nd Lieutenant W. S. Trevor, Assistant Field Engineer, who was the first on the ladder, and there wounded, at the White House Stockade on the 12th, as also of Lieutenants Craster, (Bengal) and Mayne (Madras) Engineers, who were very forward on the same occasion.

"My greatest pleasure, however, is to bring before His Lordship in Council the admirable conduct and temper of this force:—its discipline and regularity of demeanour are unexceptionable."

The Governor-General in Council has great satisfaction in acknowledging the skill and attention exhibited by Superintending-Surgeon Montgomerie; and he rejoices to learn that by the exertions of the Medical Department the wounded men are doing well.

The Governor-General in Council begs to offer his thanks to the officers now brought under his notice; to Lieutenant Trevor and to Lieutenant Craster, Bengal Engineers; to Lieutenant Mayne, Madras Engineers; as well as to Mr. Crisp, junior, whose service has been noticed by the Lieutenant-General.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JULY 2, 1852.

Buckingham-Palace, July 1, 1852.

THIS day Her Majesty, accompanied by His Royal Highness Prince Albert, proceeded in state from Buckingham-Palace to the House of Peers, where she arrived soon after two o'clock; and was received on alighting from her state coach, by the Lord Chancellor, the Lord President of the Council, the Lord Privy Seal, Sir Augustus Clifford, Bart. C.B. Deputy Great Chamberlain, (in the absence of the Lord Willoughby de Eresby), the Lord Steward of the Household, the Duke of Wellington, Garter King of Arms, and the Yeoman Usher of the Black Rod, and proceeded to the robing-room in the customary manner.

Her Majesty was there robed, and the procession moved into the House in the usual order;—the sword of state was borne by the Duke of Wellington, the cap of maintenance by the Marquess of Winchester, and the crown by the Earl of Derby.

An Act to make better provision respecting the supply of water to the metropolis.

An Act to remove doubts as to the constitution of the bishopric of Christchurch in New Zealand, and to enable Her Majesty to constitute such An Act to amend the practice and course of proceeding in the High Court of Chancery.

An Act for amending the law for granting patents for inventions.

An Act for the relief of the suitors of the High Court of Chancery.

An Act to consolidate into one Act and to amend the provisions of the several Acts relating to the Birkenhead, Lancashire, and Cheshire Junction Railway Company.

An Act to authorize traffic arrangements between the Great Western, the Shrewsbury and Birmingham, the Shrewsbury and Chester, the Shrewsbury and Hereford, and the Hereford, Ross, and Gloucester Railway Companies.

An Act to authorize the use by the Shrewsbury and Birmingham Railway Company of the Navigation-street Station, in Birmingham, and for other purposes.

An Act for making a railway or tramroad from the Aberllefenny Slate Quarries, in the parish of Talyllyn, in the county of Merioneth, to the river Dovey, in the parish of Towyn, in the same county, with branches therefrom, and for other purposes.

After which Her Majesty was pleased to deliver the following most gracious Speech to both Houses of Parliament.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

I AM induced, by considerations of public policy, to release you at an earlier period than usual from your legislative duties.

The zeal and diligence, however, with which you have applied yourselves to your Parliamentary labours have enabled me, in this comparatively short session, to give my assent to many measures of high importance, and, I trust, of great permanent advantage.

I receive from all Foreign Powers assurances that they are animated by the most friendly dispositions towards this Country; and I entertain a confident hope that the amicable relations happily subsisting between the principal European States may be so firmly established as, under Divine Providence, to secure to the world a long continuance of the blessings of Peace. To this great end, my attention will be unremittingly directed.

I rejoice that the final settlement of the affairs of Holstein and Schleswig, by the general concurrence of the Powers chiefly interested, has removed one cause of recent difference and of future anxiety.

The amicable termination of the discussions which have taken place between the Sublime Porte and the Pacha of Egypt afford a guarantee for the tranquillity of the east, and an encouragement to the extension of commercial enterprise.

The refusal on the part of the King of Ava of redress justly demanded for insults and injuries offered to my subjects at Rangoon has necessarily led to an interruption of friendly relations with that Sovereign. The promptitude and vigour with which the Governor-General of India has taken the measures thus rendered unavoidable have merited my entire approbation; and I am confident that you will participate in the satisfaction with which I have observed the conduct of all the Naval and Military forces, European and Indian, by whose valour and discipline the important captures of Rangoon and Martaban have been accomplished, and in the hope which I entertain that these signal successes may lead to an early and honourable peace.

Treaties have been concluded by my Naval Commanders with the King of Dahomey and all the African Chiefs whose rule extends along the Bight of Benin, for the total abolition of the Slave Trade, which is at present wholly suppressed upon that coast.

I have had great satisfaction in giving my assent to the measure which you have wisely adopted for the better organization of the Militia; a constitutional force, which, being limited to purposes of internal defence, can afford no just ground of jealousy to neighbouring Powers, but which, in the event of any sudden and unforeseen disturbance of my foreign relations, would at all times contribute essentially to the protection and security of my dominions.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I thank you for the liberal provision which you have made for the exigencies of the public service. The expenditure which you have authorized shall be applied with a due regard to economy and efficiency.

The recent discoveries of extensive gold fields have produced in the Australian colonies a temporary disturbance of society requiring prompt attention; I have taken such steps as appeared to me most urgently necessary for the mitigation of this serious evil. I shall continue anxiously to watch the important results which must follow from these discoveries. I have willingly concurred with you in an Act which, by rendering available to the service of those colonies the portion arising within them of the hereditary revenue placed at the disposal of Parliament on my accession to the Throne, may enable them to meet their necessarily increased expenditure.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

I have gladly assented to the important Bills which you have passed for effecting reforms, long and anxiously desired, in the practice and proceedings of the superior courts of law and equity, and generally for improving the administration of justice. Every measure which simplifies the forms and diminishes the delay and expense of legal proceedings, without introducing uncertainty of decision, impairing the authority of the courts, or lowering the high standard of the judicial bench, is a valuable boon conferred on the community at large.

I hope that the measures which you have adopted for promoting extramural interment of the dead, and for improving the supply of water may be found effectual for the remedy of evils, the existence of which has long been a reproach to this great metropolis, and may conduce to the health and comfort of its inhabitants.

The extension of popular rights and legislative powers to my subjects resident in the colonies is always to me an object of deep interest; and I trust that the representative institutions which, in concert with you, I have sanctioned for New Zealand may promote the welfare and contentment of the population of that distant, but most interesting colony, and confirm their loyalty and attachment to my crown.

It is my intention, without delay, to dissolve this present Parliament; and it is my earnest prayer that in the exercise of the high functions which, according to our free constitution, will devolve upon the several constituencies, they may be directed by an all-wise Providence to the selection of representatives whose wisdom and patriotism may aid me in my unceasing endeavours to sustain the honour and dignity of my crown, to uphold the Protestant institutions of the country, and the civil and religious liberty which is their natural result, to extend and improve the National Education, to develope and encourage industry, art, and science, and to elevate the moral and social condition, and thereby promote the welfare and happiness of my people.

Then the Lord Chancellor, by Her Majesty's command, said,

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

It is Her Majesty's royal will and pleasure, that this Parliament be prorogued to Friday the twentieth day of August next, to be then here holden; and this Parliament is accordingly prorogued to Friday the twentieth day of August next.

Lieutenant-General H. Godwin, C.B., commanding the Forces in Ava, Arracan, and Tenasserim Provinces, to C. Allen, Esq., Secretary to the Government of India.

SIR, Rangoon, Head-Quarters, May 24, 1852.

THE Governor-General having expressed some anxiety about the south part of Arracan, as being in the neighbourhood of Bassein, I resolved, as soon as I could conveniently leave Rangoon, to take a detachment, and personally visit the place. On expressing this intention to Commodore Lambert, he, to my very great pleasure, said he would accompany me. I fixed on Monday, the 17th May, and had a detachment warned to be ready to embark on that morning, consisting of 400 of the 51st King's Own Light Infantry, 300 of the 9th Madras Native Infantry, 67 Madras Sappers, and a serjeant and 6 gunners of the Bengal Artillery. The whole party was placed under the command of Major Errington, of the 51st Light Infantry.

The Commodore appointed three fine vessels to carry the troops, the East India Company's steam frigates Sesostris and Mozuffer and the Tenasserim, with a smaller steamer, the Pluto, carrying the naval brigade and Marines of Her Majesty's frigate Fox.

We cleared the Rangoon river on the afternoon of Monday, the 17th, and on the next evening anchored off Negrais Island, leading into the Bassein river. At day-break the next morning, the flotilla weighed, and we ascended that most beautiful stream for sixty miles, which, at four o'clock, brought us in view of the defences, of about a mile long, of the city of Bassein: we had passed some new stockades, one at, and the other south of, Naputa, a few miles below the town, which were not armed; but these consisted of one extensive stockade, with several hundred men in it, fully armed, and with cannon.

The enemy looked at us, but did not show any disposition to molest us. The flotilla arrived at the left of their position, a strong well-built mud fort, armed with cannon and men. This we passed within two hundred yards, and so in succession all their defences for nearly a mile, till the Tenasserim, with the Commodore and myself on board, anchored opposite a golden pagoda, centrally situated within the defences. The steamers anchored in succession, without bringing down the fire of a single musket.

The admirable position taken up by the steamers induced me to order the immediate landing of the troops. The enemy appeared so completely surprised and paralyzed by our approach, that I gave orders not to fire unless fired on, and to take possession of the pagoda. Nearly all the men of Her Majesty's 51st Foot got on shore under the pagoda before a shot was fired. Captain Latter, my interpreter, accompanied Captain Darroch with a company of the 51st on shore, and landed on the extreme right of the works, opposite a traverse covering a gateway; and there a parley was held between Captain Latter and some Burmese on the walls, which brought on the first discharge of musketry, killing a serjeant and wounding two men.

This fire was taken up, ran down the works, but soon ceased.

At this time Major Errington made his advance on the pagoda and carried it in most gallant style, the 51st Light Infantry maintaining nobly the character they had ever commanded by their courage and distinguished conduct in the field.

The contest that stamped the operations of this remarkable day with a brilliant conclusion was the attack on the mud fort, most scientifically built and of great extent, which could only have been constructed under a disposition that commanded the labour of its subjects in the short time they had been about it. It was not entirely completed in its details within. The storming party under Major Errington proceeding to the left of the Burmese works, accompanied by Lieutenant Rice, of Her Majesty's frigate Fox, and Lieutenant Ford, of the Madras Sappers, came upon this mud fort fully garrisoned and well armed. The attack was most determined, as was the defence obstinate. It was bravely stormed, but with the consequence of Major Errington, and several officers and men being severely wounded. Lieutenant Ansley, with a small detachment of the 9th Madras Native Infantry, shared in this contest; he was severely wounded, and the corps proved itself to be as good as it looks, and it is one of the nicest corps I have ever seen; its gallantry and devotion on this occasion claiming the admiration of all who witnessed it. The whole affair was over a little after six o'clock.

While these operations had been going on, the Commodore had claimed the services of Captain Campbell, of the Sesostris, and his men, in destroying a large stockade on the opposite bank of the river; they drove off the Burmese, fired the stockade, and took six guns.

I am informed from several sources that the enemy suffered very severely in the contest in the mud fort.

In having the honour, as well as the gratification, of reporting to the Governor-General in Council the possession of this important station, I will observe that, from every indication of preparation going on, the Government of this country intended to make it a most powerful place, and to repair the loss of Rangoon, by establishing Bassein as their mart of communication with this country, as well as a powerful position to keep in subjection the Pegu population, so decidedly and ever our friends, and also to maintain a threatening attitude towards the south of Arracan.

By leaving Bassein to itself, I should have been giving it back to the soldiery just driven out, as the defences had been built and put into the improved state I have described by five thousand men from the upper country, commanded by a man of reputation. To secure it, I have left a garrison of two companies (160 men) of the 51st Light Infantry, and three hundred men of the 9th Madras Native Infantry. These will be reinforced by an officer of Artillery and half a company, with two 9-pounder guns; the garrison now possessing two 12-inch howitzers. These, with two months' rations, will leave this on, or about, the 26th instant. Major Roberts, of the 9th Madras Native Infantry, will proceed in the same vessel to take command of Bassein: he is an experienced and excellent officer.

I consider that in a few weeks the Burmese soldiery of the upper country will have returned to their homes, meeting with no sympathy from the Pegu population, and the Pegu soldiers themselves are already with their families; so that the garrison I have left could, in a military point of view, be withdrawn in six weeks, and it will then remain with the Government of India to decide whether it hold during the war this very important place. If so, further arrangements will be very necessary. Major Fraser, the commanding engineer, should visit it: a very little expense will make it a secure position. The barrack houses the soldiery are now in are excellent, and well built of wood. Fresh meat can be had, as the population of the place are coming under our protection in great numbers.

I may here remark, that that most admirable officer and clear-seeing man, my most respected late commander, Sir A. Campbell, attached great importance to the holding of Bassein.

After passing two clear days in arranging for the stability of the detachment to be left there, on the morning of the 22nd, the flotilla, with the exception of the Sesostris, which remains, weighed at daybreak, and reached Rangoon on the 23rd May, after an absence of only seven days.

To Commodore Lambert, and to this combined expedition, the Governor-General in Council owes all that professional ability and unremitting exertion could accomplish towards success, to which they so largely contributed. The East India Company's steamer Proserpine, Commander Brooking, arrived twenty-four hours after the place was taken; but even so, his activity was not lost, for he and his vessel went off the morning before we weighed, and destroyed the stockade that I mentioned to have passed on the way up the river.

Major Errington, of Her Majesty's 51st Light Infantry, who commanded the detachment of Troops embarked for Bassein, who principally directed this detachment, and who fought this detachment, deserves the particular thanks of the Governor-General in Council. I have great pleasure in forwarding his report of the operations for the perusal of his Lordship in Council.

I beg the best consideration of Government for Captain Rice and Lieutenant Carter, of the 51st Light Infantry, and for Lieutenant Ansley of the 9th Madras Native Infantry, all three severely wounded at the assault of the fort, and also for Lieutenant Ford of the Sappers and Miners, on the same occasion, for Lieutenant Rice, of Her Majesty's frigate Fox, who commanded the naval brigade, and who was severely wounded whilst particularly distinguishing himself in the attack of the fort.

It has been brought to my notice that Mr. Duncan, the second officer of the East India Company's ship Tenasserim, at the head of a party of men of his ship, behaved most gallantly upon the same occasion.

To Captain Darroch, of the 51st Light Infantry, and to Captain Latter, my Interpreter, thanks are due for their gallantry in forcing the traverse, and entering at the gate on the right of the enemy's position. Lieutenant Craster, of the Bengal Engineers, also merits thanks, and the plan of Bassein, which I enclose for the Governor-General's inspection, will prove his professional competency. To Lieutenants Elliott and Nightingale, with the Marines of Her Majesty's frigate Fox, and to Captain Campbell, of the East India Company's frigate Sesostris, I beg your Lordship in Council's kind consideration. To Doctor M'Cosh, and the officers of the medical department, thanks are particularly due.

The naval part of the expedition, both sailors and marines, supported the character that has ever been theirs, of undaunted courage.

I have been considered wanting some times in not more particularly naming corps or individuals, but in this peculiar warfare of constant assaults on well-armed and strong positions, often well defended, it has been the noble emulation of all to be first into the enemy's works. It was in such an effort of ambition that that fine and gallant young officer, Lieutenant Doran, of the 18th Royal Irish, fell, pierced with four balls, far in advance of his proper post: indeed I might fill my report with names, were all to be individualized.

I now beg particularly to bring to the notice of the Governor-General in Council Major Boulderson, of the Madras Army, the Deputy Judge-Advocate-General of the force, who on this occasion accompanied me, and filled the two posts of Assistant Adjutant and Assistant Quarter Master General to the expedition, as I could not move from their important duties at Rangoon Adjutant General Mayhew nor Quarter Master General Allan.

The Major has been of much essential service to me in various ways, and the judicious manner in which he posted the pickets after the capture of Bassein, in that wilderness of houses and jungle, tended to the perfect security of the force. Captain Chads, my Aide-de-Camp, never leaves me, and always makes himself particularly useful.

Since my last report, nothing worthy of note has occurred at Rangoon. The town is increasing in importance by the crowds of natives who daily come in, with their families and goods, as is the case throughout the neighbourhood, but especially at Kemmendine, which is as large a place as Rangoon.

The conduct of the troops is excellent, and their health is improving daily since the rain has set in.

H. GODWIN.

P.S.—When recalling the omissions I have been unaware of in my dispatches Nos. 1 and 2, it has occurred to me that I have not done justice to Captain J. J. Wood, of the 18th Royal Irish, who on the 14th of April commanded his corps, during the storm, into the Great Pagoda, Lieutenant-Colonel Coote holding at the time a separate command, that of the storming party. I shall feel greatly obliged by the notice of the Governor-General in Council of this deserving officer, who is of long standing.

Major A. C. Errington, Her Majesty's 51st Regiment, to Lieutenant-General Godwin, C.B.

SIR, Off Bassein, May 22nd, 1852.

THE operations being concluded, I have the honour now to lay before you a report of the assault and capture of the strong stockades erected by the enemy at Bassein, by the troops under my command, on the 19th instant.

The East India Company's steamers having anchored in succession at about half-past four, P.M., in front of Bassein, a signal was made for the troops to land. This was effected in a very short time, and the ground occupied was an open space running along the river in front of the stockade. The work was full of armed men, and several guns were in position. I formed the troops in line.

The whole force had not landed when a fire from the enemy was opened upon us. This was a signal for the troops to advance, which was done in the most gallant style; the stockade was surmounted, the Chief Pagoda gained, and the enemy were driven in every direction. Considering the sharp fire that was opened upon us in this gallant attack, our loss of killed and wounded was small.

Having formed the troops in the Pagoda, companies were sent out by your orders in different directions to disperse the enemy.

A most important duty still remained to be performed. The enemy's stronghold, a fortified position to the south of the town, was still unmolested.

A company of Her Majesty's 51st, under Captain Rice, and two of the Madras Native Infantry, under Captain Borthwick, were selected to assault this position. I accompanied this detachment myself, in order to be an eye-witness of what I knew would be a most dashing operation. I halted the party for a few minutes on the road, as Captain Borthwick had not come up, where it was joined by a few seamen and marines, under Lieutenant Rice, Royal Navy, by a party of Madras sappers, with ladders, under Lieutenant Ford, and by a subdivision of the 9th Native Infantry, under Lieutenant Ansley. As it was getting late, I decided upon not waiting for the remainder of the 9th.

Taking a circuitous route, we came out in rear of the stockade, in an open space which afforded us a distinct view of this formidable position. I here detached Lieutenant Ansley, with his party, to the right, to attack in reverse the north-east side.

Our further progress was impeded by water and low thick jungle, obliging us to take another direction, which brought the party out upon a brick road leading straight up to the north-east angle of the work. Upon opening the position, and when within fifteen yards of it, a severe fire of musketry, guns, and jingalls, was opened upon us by the enemy. I was struck in the groin, which disabled me at once. Lieutenant Rice, Royal Navy, whilst bravely leading on his men, was shot through the hand. Captain Rice, Her Majesty's 51st Light Infantry, whilst gallantly leading his company up to the assault, was shot through the lower part of the neck; his place was gallantly taken by his subaltern Lieutenant Carter, who, followed by his men, was the first on the parapet. He was struck down by a musket-ball, and rolled over the exterior slope, but still insisted upon being carried into the work. Lieutenant Ansley, of the Madras 9th Native Infantry, and Lieutenant Ford, Madras Sappers, mounted the parapet in the most gallant manner, the former receiving a wound through the right hand. The enemy now gave way in every direction, followed by the victorious troops under the command of Lieutenant Ford.

Thus, in forty minutes from the time the troops landed, the whole of the enemy's works were in possession.

In conclusion, I beg to bring to your notice the noble conduct of the officers, non-commissioned officers, and soldiers of all arms, who took place in the assault, and the cheerfulness and alacrity with which every individual appeared anxious to perform his duty.

I beg to enclose a list of the killed and wounded.

Commodore George R. Lambert, R.N. to C. Allen, Esq. Secretary to the Government of India.

Her Majesty's Ship Fox's Boat, at Bassein, May 20, 1852.

Sir,

I REQUEST you may be pleased to inform the Governor-General of India in Council, that the Lieutenant-General commanding the Forces having communicated his wish to make an attack on the city of Bassein, I placed a squadron of four steamers at his disposal for this service.

On the morning of the 17th instant, Lieutenant-General Godwin, C.B. the Commander of the Forces, embarked in the squadron with 400 of Her Majesty's 51st Regiment, 300 of the 9th Regiment Madras Native Infantry, 60 Sappers and Miners, the Royal Marines, and a detachment of seamen with a field gun from Her Majesty's ship Fox.

I left the naval force at Rangoon, in charge of Commander Tarleton, with the Fox, and went with my boat to the Tenasserim, in which steamer I hoisted my broad pendant, and put to sea at two o'clock in the afternoon with the steamers named in the inclosure marked A.

The Lieutenant-General accompanied me in the Tenasserim.

On the evening of the 28th, we anchored off the island of Negrais, at the entrance of the Bassein River, where the Pluto joined us. I had sent her on from Rangoon a day previously, as her small power could not have enabled her to keep up with the steam frigates.

At daylight on the 19th, the squadron weighed and proceeded up the river, the Pluto, from her light draught, being a-head, showing the soundings. The Tenasserim led, followed by the Sesostris and Mozuffer, at half a cable's length distant.

At a few minutes after four o'clock in the afternoon, the fortifications of Bassein appeared in sight, consisting of a very extensive mud fort, and a long line of stockade on the left bank, on which the city stands, and a strong stockade round the pagoda, with a brick parapet fronting the river. Then, in an admirable position on the right bank, stood a very large stockade, mounting several cannon.

The enemy permitted the squadron to approach unmolested.

At half-past four, when abreast the stockade, I made the signal to anchor; immediately afterwards, Lieutenant-General Godwin expressed his wish to land the troops, which was effected in perfect order in a very short period. They had scarcely formed, under the Lieutenant-General's direction, when a heavy fire was opened both with cannon and musketry from the various stockades, which was instantly answered by a cheer from the party landed, who stormed and carried the pagoda.

As soon as the enemy commenced firing, the ships opened their fire on the different batteries.

Observing the stockade opposite the town had been silenced, I directed Commander Campbell, of the Sesostris, to land with the boats of his own ship and the Mozuffer's, and to storm it, which he effected in gallant style, driving the Burmese from their guns with considerable loss to them in killed and wounded.

Commander Campbell has called my special attention to the zeal and activity displayed on this occasion by Lieutenants Robinson and Lewis, of the Indian Navy.

At half-past five, I had the satisfaction of hearing that the last and most formidable of the stockades had been carried, but not without considerable loss on our part, from the great resistance shown by the enemy.

Amongst those I have to enumerate as sufferers on this occasion, I have to name Lieutenant George W. Rice, of Her Majesty's ship Fox, who received a severe and painful wound through the right hand whilst gallantly leading his party of seamen into the stockade.

I feel it my duty also to mention the steady conduct of the Royal Marines, under the command of First Lieutenant John Elliott, and I cannot conclude without expressing my best thanks to Commanders Campbell and Hewett, of the Indian Navy, for the skill and ability with which they brought their ships up a river, which had hitherto been but imperfectly surveyed, for a distance of more than sixty miles; nor can I refrain from expressing how much I am indebted to Commanders Dicey and Burbank, of the Bengal Marine, for the assistance I received from them, and I attribute our being able to perform this service without accident, to the careful and judicious manner with which the commander of the Pluto went in advance, and communicated the soundings.

I cannot forbear bringing to his Lordship's notice, Mr. Francis Duncan, second officer of the Tenasserim; he was by the side of Lieutenant Rice when he was wounded; and in storming the stockade his conduct was most gallant.

My thanks are general to the officers and men who served under my orders on this occasion for the steady, gallant, and cheerful conduct with which they performed the duty; neither can I omit remarking that the most perfect unanimity prevailed between the two services.

Since my last visit to Negrais the old governor of Bassein has been removed, and the government entrusted to another officer who arrived here from Ava with 4000 regular troops, which increased the strength of the garrison to 6000 men.

I have the honour to forward herewith a list of killed and wounded in the squadron: the casualties among the troops I understand amounted to about twenty-five more: and I also inclose a return of the number of cannon captured from the enemy.

I have, &c.

GEORGE R. LAMBERT, Commodore.

Commodore G. R. Lambert to the Secretary to the Government of India.

H. M. S. Fox, Rangoon,
May 24, 1852.

SIR,

REFERRING to my dispatch of the 20th inst, I request you will inform his Lordship in Council, that after we had obtained possession of the city of Bassein, I sent the Pluto a short distance up the river, to endeavour to intercept the retreating army.

She returned next morning, and Commander Burbank acquainted me that he proceeded up the river above Bassein about forty miles, that he communicated with the village of Mamoon, from which the inhabitants came off, and informed him that one of the party then on board was a person of high command at Bassein, during the attack; that he then arrested this person, and he has delivered him over to me, together with another officer of high rank.

Commander Burbank having been informed that a party of the retreating force, in two boats, had that night left the village, he proceeded in chase, succeeded in capturing one of the boats, in which he found a quantity of arms and ammunition, which he destroyed; the troops landed and fled into the jungle.

The Pluto afterwards fell in with another portion of the defeated Burmese, encamped, but who fled on being observed, leaving their arms, all which have been destroyed, as well as their barracks.

A party of seamen from the Fox embarked in the Pluto, to assist in the operations, under Mr. Lisboa, midshipman (Brazilian Navy).

The Proserpine steam vessel, having joined me from Moulmein, I despatched her, with the Fox's marines, to destroy some unoccupied stockades in the neighbourhood of the village of Naputa, which was accomplished without any opposition, assisted by the villagers.

I also request you will inform his Lordship, that the squadron under my command, detached to Basscin, returned to Rangoon on the 23rd, with the exception of the Sesostris, which I left to co-operate with the troops in garrisoning that place, and of the Pluto, which I have sent to Penang, agreeably to orders I had received from Rear-Admiral Austen.

In continuation of my letter of the 11th May, I request that his lordship may be informed that the Phlegethon returned here to-day, having made a most successful expedition, in conjunction with the barge of this ship, in charge of Acting Lieutenant Lawrence, which I had despatched to rejoin that vessel.

While Commander Neblett was waiting for sufficient water to get into the Rangoon River, I directed him to reconnoitre Donabew; he accordingly proceeded to that place, and found that the Governor of Dallah had fled, and that this once famous stronghold was unoccupied and defenceless. The inhabitants seemed desirous of affording every assistance, and informed him that a considerable force was collected further up the river, to which spot he also proceeded, and at about ten miles above Donabew, near the town of Sagadjee, he fell in with them.

The Phlegethon opened fire upon this force, consisting of about five thousand men, which retreated and fell back upon Sarawah, a town 30 miles higher up the river, he afterwards ascertained that a portion of them crossed over to Henzadd at the junction of the Bassein River.

Commander Neblett informs me that, wherever the Phlegethon made her appearance, he was received by the natives with every demonstration of friendship, and an anxiety for him to afford them protection from the marauders and Burmese troops.

I have, &c.
G. R. LAMBERT.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JULY 20, 1852.

India Board, July 19, 1852.

THE following Dispatches have been received at the East India House :

Fort William, June 2, 1852.
(Extract.) No. 23.

WE beg to transmit herewith a copy of further correspondence connected with Rangoon affairs.

Lieutenant-General H. Godwin, C.B. commanding the Forces in Ava, Arracan, and Tenasserim Provinces, to C. Allen, Esq. Secretary to the Government of India.

Head Quarters, Rangoon,
(Extract.) May 14, 1852.

"IN my report of the 18th of April, I had the honour to recommend to the favourable consideration of the Governor-General in Council the valuable service I had received during the operations of the 12th, 13th, and 14th, from Brevet Major Boulderson, the Deputy Judge Advocate General of the Force, who had requested to follow me in the Field; and who, when Captain Allan, the Deputy Assistant Quartermaster-General, was wounded at the White House Stockade, was appointed to officiate for him. He has been of the greatest assistance to me in both departments by his ability and zeal, and I therefore venture to bring to notice the omission of his name in the General Orders of the 28th of April, which I entirely attribute to oversight, and earnestly request may be rectified.

"A few omissions and errors, inseparable from the recent formation of the Forces I command, have occurred in the preparation of my Dispatch of the 18th of April, which I solicit the favour of being allowed to correct, should his Lordship in Council see fit to extend his grace.

"Brigadier Warren, whose absence from the Army I greatly regret, has reported to me the services of the companies of the 18th Royal Irish, which under his immediate command assisted in the "Tenasserim" at the destruction of the three stockades at the entrance of the Rangoon river on the 5th of April. The Brigadier was with the same companies under the heavy fire of the stockades on the Dalla and Rangoon sides of the river, on the 11th of April. He also was in command of his brigade during the greater part of the 12th of April.

" Major Fraser has brought to my notice the very gallant conduct of his Adjutant, Lieutenant Williams, of the Engineers, at the White House Stockade, where he was very prominent. The Major has also pointed out that Lieutenant Ford was the officer who commanded the detachment of Madras Sappers and Miners at Martaban, and who should have received the thanks of Government instead of Captain Rundall, who had not joined the force, and who very honourably disclaims the praise.

" Captain Christie, of Her Majesty's 80th Regiment, has been brought to my notice as the officer who commanded the portion of the storming party from that corps at Martaban ; he partook in the subsequent operations on that day.

" The Commandant of Artillery has also pointed out the omission, on my part, of the services of Brevet Major Back, in command of the Madras Artillery contingent, who directed the heavy battery in the action of the 14th of April, which I commended as having been served with precision and effect.

" The services of Brevet Captain Scott, of the Madras Brigade of the Artillery, have also escaped my notice ; he has been mentioned in very complimentary terms by the officers commanding the Bengal and Madras contingents of Artillery."

NOTIFICATION.

Fort William, May 27, 1852.

THE Governor-General in Council having learnt by a despatch from Lieutenant-General

Godwin, C.B. Commanding the Forces in Ava, Arracan, and the Tenasserim Provinces, that the name of Brevet Major Boulderson, Deputy Judge Advocate General of the Force, who had also acted as Deputy Assistant Quarter Master General, and was commended by the Lieutenant-General, was omitted in the Governor-General's Order, dated April the 28th, and having further been informed that Captain Rundall had been erroneously mentioned in the despatch as commanding the Madras Sappers and Miners, instead of Lieutenant Ford, His Lordship in Council desires to correct the omission and the error, and to offer to Major Boulderson and to Lieutenant Ford the thanks which are their due.

TREASURY WARRANT.

Whereas by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," power is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, from time to time, by warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of British postage or inland postage payable by law on the transmission by the post of foreign or colonial letters or newspapers, or of any other printed papers, and to subject the same to rates of postage according to the weight thereof, and a scale of weight to be contained in such warrant, and from time to time, by warrant as aforesaid, to alter or repeal any such altered rates, and make and establish any new or other rates in lieu thereof, and from time to time, by warrant as aforesaid, to appoint at what time the rates which may be payable are to be paid; and it is provided that the power thereby given should extend to any increase or reduction or remission of postage:

And whereas in consequence of a communication opened with the Post-office of Prussia, it is considered expedient to alter the rates of postage payable on letters conveyed between the German Postal Union and the United Kingdom, viâ Belgium.

Now we, the undersigned, being two of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, do, in exercise of the power or authority in us for such purpose vested in and by the said recited Act, and of all other powers and authorities enabling us in that behalf, direct that on every letter, not exceeding half an ounce in weight, posted in or addressed to any part of the German Postal Union, and transmitted between any part of the United Kingdom and any place in the German Postal Union, and on every letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight, transmitted between any foreign country through any part of the German Postal Union and any place in the United Kingdom (the said respective letters being conveyed between the United Kingdom and Belgium by packet boat), there shall be charged and taken in lieu of any rates of British postage now payable by law on such letters, an uniform rate of British postage of three pence halfpenny.

And we direct that on every letter, not exceeding half an ounce in weight, posted in or addressed to any part of the German Postal Union, transmitted by the Post between any part of the German Postal Union and any of Her Majesty's Colonies, or any Foreign Country, through the United Kingdom, and on every letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight, transmitted between any Foreign Country through any part of the German Postal Union and any of Her Majesty's Colonies, or any Foreign Country, through the United Kingdom (the said respective letters being conveyed between the United Kingdom and Belgium by packet-boat), there shall be charged and taken in lieu of any rates of British postage now payable by law on such letters, an uniform rate of British postage of three pence half-penny for the conveyance of every such letter between Belgium and any part of the United Kingdom, and also such a further or additional rate of British postage for the conveyance of every such letter between the Port in the United Kingdom of the departure or arrival of the packet or ship conveying the same, and the Colony or Foreign Country to or from which the same shall be forwarded, as shall from time to time be charged and payable for British postage on letters not exceeding half an ounce in weight, posted or delivered at the Port in the United Kingdom of the departure or arrival of the packet or ship conveying the same, and transmitted direct between such Port, and such Colony, or Foreign Country.

And we further direct, that on every letter transmitted as is mentioned in this warrant exceeding half an ounce in weight, there shall be charged and taken progressive and additional rates of postage, according to the scale of weight and number of rates following (that is to say):

On every such letter exceeding half an ounce in weight, and not exceeding one ounce in weight, two rates of postage.

On every such letter exceeding one ounce, and not exceeding two ounces in weight, four rates of postage.

On every such letter exceeding two ounces, and not exceeding three ounces in weight, six rates of postage.

And on every such letter exceeding three ounces, and not exceeding four ounces in weight, eight rates of postage.

And for every ounce in weight above the weight of four ounces, there shall be charged and taken two additional rates of postage, and every fraction of an ounce above the weight of four ounces, shall be charged as one additional ounce; and each progressive and additional rate, chargeable under this clause, shall be estimated and charged at the sum which any such letter would be charged with under this warrant, if not exceeding half an ounce in weight.

And we further direct, that nothing herein contained shall be deemed or construed to extend to any letters passing by the post between the United Kingdom and any part of the German Postal Union viâ France or the Netherlands, or Hamburgh, nor to any letters passing by the post between the United Kingdom and any part of the German Postal Union, viâ Belgium, sent otherwise than in the Prussian closed mails, which respective letters are to be charged with the same rates of postage as if this present warrant had not been signed.

And we further direct, that nothing herein contained shall be deemed or construed to annul, prejudice, or affect any of the exemptions and privileges granted by the said recited Act, or by an Act made and passed in the first year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the management of the Post-office;" and that all such exemptions and privileges shall remain in full force.

And we further direct that the term "German Postal Union," used in this warrant, shall include the kingdoms, states, and countries of Austria, Baden, Bavaria, Bremen, Brunswick, Hamburgh, Hanover, Lubeck, Luxemburgh, Mecklenburgh

Schwerin, Mecklenburgh Strelitz, Oldenburgh, Prussia, Saxony, Wurtenburgh, and the countries included in the postal district of the principality of Tour and Taxis (Lippe excepted), and that the other terms and expressions used in this warrant shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects as they would have had if inserted in the said Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty.

And we further direct, that this warrant shall come into operation on the first day of August one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two.

Provided lastly, and we hereby declare and direct, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any two of them, by warrant under their hands, at any time hereafter to alter or repeal any of the rates hereby altered, or the regulations hereby made, and to make and establish any new or other rates or regulations in lieu thereof, and from time to time to appoint at what time the rates that may be payable are to be paid.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of AUGUST 10, 1852.

Admiralty, August 6, 1852.

DESPATCHES have been received at this Office, from Commodore Lambert, of Her Majesty's ship Fox, of which the following are copies:

OPERATIONS IN BURMAH.

No. 27.

SIR, Fox, at Rangoon, May 11, 1852.

I HAVE the honour to request you may be pleased to inform the Lords of the Admiralty that, on the 2nd instant, I despatched the Honourable East India Company's steamer Phlegethon, commanded by Mr. G. T. Niblett, and the barge of Her Majesty's ship Fox, in charge of Acting Lieutenant John R. Lawrence, to the great entrance of the Irrawaddy, to try and effect a passage through the Panlang branch.

2. On the morning of the 11th, the barge returned; and Mr. Lawrence reported that they ha advanced as far as Yangernsiah, where the wate shoaled so considerably that the Phlegethon could not cross into the Panlang branch; the barge, however, was enabled to do so, and proceeded down into the Rangoon river, in order that I might be acquainted with the result, and the cause of the steamer's long absence.

It is with much satisfaction I learn that the object of the expedition has been accomplished.

3. I have further to request you may be pleased to inform their Lordships that, on the Phlegethon and the Fox's barge arriving off Yangernsiah, they discovered the Governor at Dalla, retreating with eight armed boats; chase was immediately given, and, on coming up with them, the enemy ran on shore, leaving their boats, in one of which was the Governor's wife, with her attendants; they also abandoned a quantity of treasure, and most of their arms.

The treasure captured amounted to eleven thousand rupees; the arms, which consisted of muskets and swords, were destroyed; and the boats, with the women, were allowed to proceed.

I have, &c.

(Signed) GEORGE LAMBERT.

A. Stafford, Esq. M.P.

No. 28. Her Majesty's Ship Fox's Boat, at Bassein, 20th May 1852.

SIR,

I REQUEST you may be pleased to inform the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty that the Lieutenant-General commanding the forces in Burmah, having communicated his wish to make an attack on the city of Bassein, I placed a squadron of four steamers at his disposal for the service.

2. On the morning of the 17th instant, Lieutenant-General Godwin, C.B. the Commander of the Forces, embarked in a squadron, with four hundred of Her Majesty's 51st Regiment, three hundred of the 9th Regiment Madras Native Infantry, sixty Sappers and Miners, the Royal Marines, and a detachment of seamen, with a field gun from Her Majesty's ship Fox.

3. I left the naval force at Rangoon in charge of Commander Tarleton, with the Fox, and went with my boat to the Tenasserim, in which steamer I hoisted my broad pendant, and put to sea at two o'clock in the afternoon with the steamers named in the enclosure marked A. The Lieutenant-General accompanied me in the Tenasserim.

4. On the evening of the 18th, we anchored off the island of Negrais, at the entrance of the Bassein River, where the Pluto joined us. I had sent her on from Rangoon a day previously, as her small power could not have enabled her to keep up with the steam frigates.

5. At daylight on the 19th, the squadron weighed, and proceeded up the river; the Pluto, from her light draught, being ahead, showing the soundings. The Tenasserim led, followed by the Sesostris and Mozuffer at half a cable's length distant.

6. At a few minutes after four o'clock in the afternoon, the fortifications of Bassein appeared in sight, consisting of a very extensive mud fort and a long line of stockade, on the left bank, on which the city stands, and a strong stockade round the pagoda, with a brick parapet fronting the river. Then, in an admirable position on the right bank, stood a very large stockade, mounting several cannon.

The enemy permitted the squadron to approach unmolested.

7. At half past four, when abreast the stockades, I made the signal to anchor; immediately afterwards Lieutenant-General Godwin expressed his wish to land the troops, which was effected in perfect order in a very short period. They had scarcely formed under the Lieutenant-General's directions, when a heavy fire was opened both with cannon and musketry from the various stockades, which was instantly answered by a cheer from the party landed, who stormed and carried the Pagoda.

As soon as the enemy commenced firing, the ships opened their fire on the different batteries.

Observing the stockade opposite the town had been silenced, I directed Commander Campbell, of the Sesostris, to land with the boats of his own ship, and the Mozuffer's, and to storm it, which he effected in gallant style, driving the Burmese from their guns, with considerable loss to them in killed and wounded.

Commander Campbell has called my special attention to the zeal and activity displayed on this occasion by Lieutenants Robinson and Lewis, of the Indian Navy.

At half past five I had the satisfaction of hearing that the last and most formidable of the stockades had been carried; but not without considerable loss on our part from the great resistance shewn by the enemy. Amongst those I have to enumerate as sufferers on this occasion, I have to name Lieutenant George W. Rice, of Her Majesty's ship Fox, who received a severe and painful wound through the right hand, whilst gallantly leading his party of seamen into the stockade; and as this officer has been specially named by the Commander-in-Chief at the taking of Rangoon, I beg to recommend him most strongly to their Lordships' consideration for promotion.

I feel it my duty, also, to mention the steady conduct of the Royal Marines under the command of First Lieutenant John Elliott; and I cannot conclude without expressing my best thanks to Commanders Campbell and Hewett, of the Indian Navy, for the skill and ability with which they brought their ships up a river, which has hitherto been but imperfectly surveyed for a distance of more than sixty miles. Nor can I refrain from expressing how much I am indebted to Commanders Dicey and Burbank, of the Bengal Marine, for the assistance I received from them; and I attribute our being able to perform this service without accident, to the careful and judicious manner with which the commander of the Pluto went in advance and communicated the soundings.

My thanks are general to the officers and men who served under my orders on this occasion for the steady, gallant, and cheerful conduct with which they performed the duty, neither can I omit remarking that the most perfect unanimity prevailed between the two services.

8. Since my last visit to Negrais, the old Governor of Bassein has been removed, and the Government intrusted to another officer, who arrived here from Ava, with four thousand regular troops, which increased the strength of the garrison to six thousand men.

9. I have the honour to forward herewith a list of killed and wounded in the squadron. The casualties among the troops amounted to three men killed and five officers, and seventeen men wounded.

I also enclose a return of the number of cannon captured from the enemy.

10. And I beg permission to bring to their Lordships' notice, Mr. Frederick Morgan, Assistant-Surgeon of Her Majesty's ship Fox, who attended with the storming party, and whose kindness to the wounded on this occasion, as well as his un remitting attention to the numerous sick, during the protracted stay of the Fox in the Rangoon River, is deserving of every praise.

I have, &c.,

No. 29. Her Majesty's Ship Fox's Boat, Bassein, 21st May 1852.

SIR,

REFERRING to my despatch, No. 28, of yesterday's date, I request you will inform their lordships that after we had obtained possession of Bassein, I sent the Pluto a short distance up the river to endeavour to intercept the retreating army. She returned this morning, and Com. Burbank acquaints me that he proceeded up the river above Bassein, about 40 miles, that he communicated with the village of Mammoon, from which the inhabitants came off, and who informed him that one of the party then on board was a person in high command at Bassein during the attack, that he then arrested this person, and he has delivered him over to me, together with another officer of high rank.

Commander Burbank having been informed that a party of the retreating force, in two boats, had that night left the village, he proceeded in chase, and succeeded in capturing one of the boats, in which he found a quantity of arms and ammunition, which he destroyed; the troops landed, and fled into the jungle.

The Pluto afterwards fell in with another portion of the defeated Burmese, encamped, but who fled on being observed, leaving their arms, all which have been destroyed, as well as their barracks. The party of seamen from the Fox embarked in the Pluto to assist in these operations, under Mr. Lisboa, Midshipman.

The Proserpine steam-vessel having joined me from Moulmein, I dispatched her with the Fox's marines to destroy some unoccupied stockades in the neighbourhood of the village of Naputa, which was accomplished without any opposition, assisted by the villagers.

The Lieutenant-General intends leaving two hundred men of Her Majesty's 51st, and three hundred of the 9th Regiment of Madras Native Infantry, to garrison Bassein, to which I have added the Sesostris steam-frigate. The remainder of the troops embarked to-day, and to-morrow the squadron will return to Rangoon.

I have, &c.

OPERATIONS IN THE IRRAWADY.

No. 31.

SIR, Fox, at Rangoon, May 24, 1852.

IN continuance of my letter, No. 27, I have the honour to request you will inform their lordships that the Phlegethon returned here to-day, having made a most successful expedition in conjunction with the barge of this ship, in charge of Acting Lieutenant Lawrence, which I had despatched to rejoin him on the 11th instant.

While Commodore Niblett was waiting for sufficient water to get into Rangoon River, I directed him to reconnoitre Donabew; he accordingly proceeded to that place and found that the Governor of Dallah had fled, and that this once famous stronghold was unoccupied and defenceless. The inhabitants seemed desirous of affording every assistance, and informed him that a considerable force was collected further up the river, to which spot he also proceeded; and, at about ten miles above Donabew, near the tower of Sagadjee, he fell in with them.

The Phlegethon opened fire upon this force, consisting of about 5000 men, which retreated and fell back upon Sarawah, a town thirty miles higher up the river. He afterwards ascertained that a portion of them crossed over to Hewsada, at the junction of the Bassein river.

Commander Niblett informs me that, wherever the Phlegethon made her appearance, he was received by the natives with every demonstration of friendship; and an anxiety for him to remain and afford them protection from the marauders and Burmese troops.

I have, &c.

(Signed) GEO. LAMBERT.

India Board, August 20, 1852.

THE following Dispatches have been received at the East India House.

Lieutenant-General H. Godwin, C.B. commanding the Forces in Ava, Arracan, and Tenasserim Provinces to C. H. Allen, Esq. Secretary to the Government of India.

Head-Quarters, Rangoon,
(Extract.) June 9, 1852.

I HAVE the honour to report, for the information of Government, that, on the morning of the 26th of May, Martaban was attacked by a Burmese force of 1000 or 1200 men, which was gallantly beaten back by the 49th Madras Native Infantry in garrison there, under the command of Major Hall. The operations are reported to me as follows:

At about half past six A.M. of the 26th of May, the pickets at Martaban were fired on in a desultory manner by the enemy for upwards of an hour, when a strong skirmishing party led by Captain Stewart sufficed to dislodge them. Our loss has been very trifling; 1 private killed, and 1 subadar, 1 naick, and 11 privates wounded.

During the day a party was sent out by the officer commanding to scour the country around, but they met with no opposition, and the place had been unmolested up to the time of the last report. On the opening of the fire of our guns, the steam-frigate Feroze, which had 200 men of the 51st Light Infantry on board, landed part of them at Martaban, to aid in the defence of the place, and the remainder proceeded in boats up the river, and took the enemy in reverse and caused them considerable loss.

The troops appear to have behaved very well, and the exertions of Major Hall, who commanded the post; of Captains Rickards and Stewart, of the 49th Madras Native Infantry, who commanded the party that went to scour the country; and of Lieutenant Purvis, who commanded the Artillery, were very meritorious. Captain Lynch and the troops on board the Feroze, under Captain Anderson, were as usual prompt, and the good judgment displayed by the former officer tended to the complete confusion of the enemy.

I have had excellent accounts from Bassein, of the 31st of May, from Captain Darroch, whom I left in command of the place, till the arrival of Major Roberts, of the 9th Madras Native Infantry. These are highly creditable to that officer, and to Lieutenant Craster, of the Bengal Engineers, and show what a few days' well-directed exertions may do in placing a post in a state of excellent defence.

Captain Darroch further reports that everything is quiet around Bassein; the enemy had left the neighbourhood, and the inhabitants were coming in, in numbers, to seek protection under our rule.

The head-men of twenty-six villages had come to tender services, and to bring provisions of all sorts for the troops.

I have also the honour to report, for the information of the Governor-General in Council, the operations of a small expedition which I detached against Pegu on the 3rd instant, under the command of Major Cotton, of the 67th Regiment Native Infantry, to cooperate with Captain Tarleton, of Her Majesty's frigate Fox, in driving out a strong force, either from Sitang or Baling, who had taken possession of that city, so lately filled with a friendly population, and where there was a large granary.

I enclose Major Cotton's own report of his operations, which show great promptitude, good judgment, and brave conduct, in himself and the troops he commanded.

The particulars, as to the conduct of the officers and men, and also the cheerful assistance given by Captain Tarleton, and his naval contingent, I feel assured the Governor-General in Council will appreciate most favourably.

In concluding my despatch, I have only to congratulate the Government on the continued good conduct of its troops, on their excellent health, and perfect state of discipline for any duty they may be called on to perform. I have, &c.

H. GODWIN, Lieutenant-General.

SIR, Rangoon, June 9, 1852.

AGREEABLY to instructions furnished me by Lieutenant-Colonel Sturt, commanding 67th Regiment Native Infantry, I embarked on board the East India Company's steamer Phlegethon, Captain Neblett, on the morning of the 3rd instant, in command of a detachment of the strength mentioned in the margin,* to co-operate with Captain * 100 men, Her Majesty's 80th Foot, under command of Captain Ormsby. 100 Rifles, 67th Regiment Native Infantry, under Captain Hicks. 30 Madras Sappers, under Lieutenant Mackintosh. Lieutenant Mayne, Madras Engineers, Field Engineer. Dr. M'Kellar, East India Company's service, in Medical charge.

Tarleton, Her Majesty's frigate Fox, in command of the naval portion of the expedition, in carrying out the instructions detailed in Lieutenant-Colonel's Sturt's letter, and I have the honour to make the following report for the information of Lieutenant-General Godwin, C.B. commanding the Burmah field force.

We reached the village Peinkeong the same evening, and anchored; the next morning, the troops were embarked in boats, and we proceeded up the Pegu river; when within a few miles, heavy firing was heard a-head, and from information obtained from the Peguers, I learnt that the enemy were in force on the right bank of the river opposite the town. I immediately landed my detachment at half-past nine o'clock, A.M. to attack them, and Captain Tarleton agreed to take the naval force, and cooperate on the right. I shall leave Captain Tarleton to detail to Commodore Lambert his part of the engagement. I proceeded in skirmishing order with the detachment along the right bank of the river, for nearly two miles through heavy swamp and jungle, and drove the enemy completely across the river, in the direction of the Great Pagoda; when, hearing heavy firing from the direction of the boats, I returned to render my aid to Captain Tarleton. I found, on crossing the river, he had had a smart engagement with the enemy, and repelled an attack made by them on the boats, and I was much gratified to hear from Captain Tarleton, of the admirable conduct of a section of the Rifle Company 67th Regiment Native Infantry present at it, under the command of Captain E. W. Hicks. The men were by this time (one o'clock) much fatigued, and I resolved to remain for a couple of hours, and then proceed to attack the Great Pagoda, whither the enemy had been seen to retreat, having arranged with Captain Latter, that he should guard the boats with a party of Peguers.

We had not, however, rested very long, when a report was brought from the picket that the Burmese were coming down upon us in great numbers from the pagoda. I went down and ascertained that such was the case, that they were coming down in skirmishing order, I should say at least 1000 men, and amongst them 30 or 40 were mounted upon ponies. I could plainly discern their leader from his dress and gold chattah. I immediately got my party under arms in extended order, Captains Tarleton and Neblett, the former with 30, and the latter with 20, seamen, joining. When the enemy had got well across the plain, in extent about three quarters of a mile, consisting of rice fields partially covered with water, I advanced with the whole detachment, and after a smart fire, drove them into the jungle which surrounds the pagoda. I then formed my detachment into column of sections, and, steadily advancing, stormed the south gate with the 80th and Sappers, while the Rifles under Captain Hicks extended to the left, and rushed in at the west gate. So sudden was the assault that the enemy had not time to fire their guns, which were found loaded, and covering the entrances to the gates. At the west gate were four guns, two brass and two iron, and at the south gate two guns and two gingals.

We drove the enemy through the pagoda, and succeeded in killing and wounding a number of them as they retreated down the gateway. It was impossible to pursue them, as the men were much knocked up, having been under arms since one o'clock in the morning, and all overcome by the excessive heat and fatigue encountered during the day.

I am happy to say that no soldier was killed, and only two sepoys and one dooley bearer wounded: this small loss is to be attributed to the fact that the enemy, for the most part, fired too high.

My detachment occupied the pagoda during our stay, and I employed the time in carrying out the wishes of the Lieutenant-General in destroying some parts of the fortifications surrounding the pagoda; this was done by Lieutenant Mayne, Field Engineer, whose report I beg leave to attach.

In the town, on the river side, there was a great quantity of rice, which I permitted the Peguers to carry away in boats.

Surrounding the pagoda there is also another town, in which much rice was found; this I caused to be burnt, after allowing the inhabitants to carry away as much as they could.

The cooperation of the naval force under Captain Tarleton, Her Majesty's ship Fox, and under Captain Neblett, East India Company's ship Phlegethon, was most active and efficient, and I would beg my most sincere thanks and congratulations for success should be conveyed to them, officers and men, through the proper channel. Before concluding this report, I hope I may be permitted to mention my admiration at the gallantry displayed by all comprising my detachment, including the naval parties, officers and men. The union, cordiality, and good feeling which existed are beyond all praise, and not a single complaint was made against any one during the whole time. I beg to notice, for the information of the Lieutenant-General, Captain Ormsby, commanding a company of Her Majesty's 80th, and Lieutenants Amiel and Fraser, of the same Regiment, and Dr. M'Kellar, East India Company's Service, in medical charge, who, in addition to his other duties, displayed great humanity in attending to the wounded Burmese; Lieutenant Mackintosh, 52nd Regiment M. Native Infantry, Second Lieutenant Mayne, Assistant Field Engineer, who entered the pagoda with the Sappers and 80th, and Captain Hicks, commanding Rifle Company, 67th Regiment Native Infantry, Lieutenant Clarke and Ensign Thompson, of the 67th Regiment, all of whom rendered me the greatest assistance, and with whose conduct I was much pleased. I left Pegu, at twelve o'clock A. M. on Saturday last, with my detachment in progress to Rangoon, and Commodore G. R. Lambert, R.N. Her Majesty's Ship Fox, to the Secretary to the Government of India.

SIR, Rangoon, June 8, 1852.

THE Lieutenant-General commanding having expressed his wish that a military and naval force should make an attack upon the city of Pegu, I therefore sent Commander Tarleton, with the boats of Her Majesty's ship Fox and the East India Company's steam vessel Phlegethon, to perform this service, in conjunction with two hundred and thirty troops, under the command of Major Cotton, and I have the honour to request you may be pleased to lay Commander Tarleton's report of proceedings before the Governor-General.

I enclose also a list of killed and wounded in the naval force.

Commander Tarleton, R.N. to Commodore G. R. Lambert, R. N. Commanding the Naval Forces at Rangoon.

Her Majesty's Ship Fox, Rangoon,
SIR, June 8, 1852.

I HAVE the honour to inform you that, in pursuance of your orders, I proceeded on the morning, 3rd instant, with the boats expressed in the margin,* to the East India Company's steamer Phlegethon, which vessel having embarked 98 men, Bengal Native Infantry Rifle Company, Major Cotton commanding detachment; 100 men, Her Majesty's 80th Regiment, Captain Ormsby; 30 men, Sappers and Miners of the Madras division, Lieutenant Mackintosh; Lieutenant Mayne, Assistant Engineer, Captain Latter, Interpreter to the Lieutenant-General Commanding the Forces, also accompanied us.

We proceeded up the Pegu River, as far as the village of Peinkeong, which we reached a little before 8 P.M. it being then high water. The stream becoming extremely narrow and shallow at this point, I did not deem it prudent to ascend it further, and therefore arranged with Major Cotton for proceeding with his detachment in the boats, on the next flood tide, which I looked for about two A.M. but the ebb ran for $9\frac{1}{2}$ hours, so that we could not leave the steamer before 5. 30 A.M. on the 4th. At Peinkeong, Captain Latter obtained information that a large number of Peguers had put themselves under the direction of one of their countrymen named Moungta ; that they had assembled on the right bank of the river, where the day previous they had been engaged with a body of men under Moungyawik, the Birman Governor of Pegu. By the villagers' account, the latter had been worsted, and had retired in the direction of Zangauain, situated on the river bank, immediately opposite Pegu. When within about five miles of this place, the chief, Moungta, came off to the boats, and confirmed the reports which had been previously received: his force, consisting of about 1500 men (imperfectly armed), lined the right bank of the river, and advanced with the boats. From his communication with Moungta, Captain Latter was satisfied that the enemy's chief strength lay on the right bank. Major Cotton therefore decided on landing his detachment on that side, while I proceeded with the boats (as soon as the men were disembarked), to cooperate on his right flank. The river at this point is not more than sixty yards wide; the present village of Pegu stands on the left bank, which is steep and muddy below high water mark. About a quarter of a mile, in the rear of the houses, there is a broad ditch, the bottom of which, at this season, is a swamp; it runs along the west face of the old wall of Pegu, for the distance of two or three miles; the wall has been originally built of brick, and the top (which may be twenty feet above the bottom of the ditch), is now covered with jungle. The village of Zangauain, as I before mentioned, stands immediately opposite; it possesses a small pagoda, and is surrounded by a low growth of jungle.

I had proceeded a short distance in the boats, when a sharp fire of musketry was opened upon us from the Pegu side. Feeling the disadvantage we laboured under by being underneath the enemy's fire, with no effectual means of returning it, I at once landed with the boat's crews of Her Majesty's ship Fox, and was shortly after joined by Captain Neblett and boat's crews of the Phlegethon (see margin),* in all about 50 men. The Burmese fired upon us as we advanced, but were driven from point to point until completely broken; one party retreating by the river's side to the northward, and the other within the old wall before mentioned. Our object being attained, I was retiring in close order to the boats, when a fire of gingals and musketry was opened upon us from the wall; deeming it unwise to permit the Burmese to suppose we had retreated from them, I instantly engaged a native guide to shew us the causeway through the ditch, and then advanced to the attack. We halted a few seconds to gain breath, under shelter of an old house; then rushed in over the causeway, and through a breach to the right of the gateway. On getting over the wall we found ourselves among some fine trees, free from underwood; behind these the enemy stood with great resolution, until they were (in many instances), driven out by the bayonet; the defect in their firing was here very observable, as their shot in most cases struck the branches above our heads. We pushed them through to the plain beyond, when they broke and fled, leaving many dead; their number engaged might probably have been 100 men, and they also had a reserve of about 200 more (commanded by officers on horseback), beyond the reach of musketry. The whole party retired within the Great Pagoda, about a mile and a-half to the eastward. I am glad to say that this service was performed with only one casualty on our side, one man having received a severe sword-cut in a personal encounter.

Information was now brought me that our boats had been attacked by another party of the enemy from the southward; I accordingly hastened down to their relief, and happily found them safe. Mr. Mc Murdo, Mate of Her Majesty's ship Fox, who had been left with a few men in charge, reported that a very heavy fire had been opened upon them, to which he had endeavoured to reply with the pinnace's gun and small arm party, but the water was too low to do this with effect, and, having one man killed and two wounded, he judiciously removed the remainder to the right bank, sending an application to Major Cotton for support. A party of rifles returning fortunately met the messenger, and, coming on with all speed, took up a position on the river side, from which they kept up so true and incessant a fire across the water that the enemy were compelled to abandon their attempt, and, on our approach, to retreat. Major Cotton, having overcome all opposition on the opposite side, now crossed over with his detachment.

On a consultation with him, it was determined to wait until 3 P.M. before we should advance to attack the Great Pagoda, the men being absolutely in need of repose after so much fatigue under a burning sun. The rifle company of the 67th was therefore bivouacked in the wood within the wall, Her Majesty's 80th Regiment on the river face; and the seamen returned to their boats; at 2 P.M. the alarm bugle was sounded, and, on my landing, I discovered that the Burmese had issued from the pagoda in considerable strength, with the evident intention of attacking us. The troops lost not a moment in getting under arms, and the seamen (see detail annexed),* came on shore.

The enemy fell back on our advance, a movement he appeared to have so little expected that many of his men were unable to regain their position in time to defend it, and those who did were so taken by surprise that their fire was ineffectual, and their four guns, which pointed down the steps leading up to the gateway, were found loaded by Her Majesty's 80th, who gallantly led the assault; and this naturally strong place was happily carried without a casualty on our side.

I returned with the seamen to the boats, as soon as the pagoda was in our possession; embarked the detachment at noon 30th; on the 6th reached the steamer, at Peinkeong, at 5 P.M.; she weighed on her return at 8 A.M; on the 7th, at noon, she took the ground, and, as the tide was ebbing, and there was no possibility of her moving for several hours, I ordered the Fox's boats to take the canoe with the camp followers in tow; I passed them in the gig, and arrived on board Her Majesty's ship Fox at 3 A.M. on the 8th.

I have the honour to enclose the following list of casualties:

Her Majesty's ship Fox.—3 seamen wounded.

East India Company's steamer Phlegethon.—1 seaman killed.

I beg leave to add that the conduct of both officers and men under my orders has been most exemplary, and to represent to you the valuable assistance and cooperation I received on all occasions from Captain Neblett, Commander of the East India Company's steamer Phlegethon.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of AUGUST 24, 1852.

India-Board, August 21, 1852.

THE Dispatch, of which the following is an extract, has been this day received at the East India-House:

The Governor-General of India in Council to the Secret Committee.

(Extract.) June 15, 1852.—No. 26.

WE beg to refer the Committee to the Notification of the 5th instant, in which we have publicly expressed our sense of the promptitude, skill, and gallantry, displayed by Lieutenant-General Godwin, Commodore Lambert, and all the officers and men engaged in the combined operations against Bassein.

NOTIFICATION.

Fort William, June 5, 1852.

THE Governor-General in Council has the gratification of announcing the capture of Bassein, and of publishing for general information the dispatches which report the combined operations of the naval and military force by which this service has been executed.

In ascending for sixty miles a river still very imperfectly known,—in effecting the landing of the troops and capturing the city, the fort, and the stockaded defences on both sides of the river, fully garrisoned and armed,—and in accomplishing all this with very unequal numbers, and within the limits of a single day,—the combined forces at Bassein performed a gallant and spirited service, which well deserves the approbation and applause of the Government of India.

To Major-General Godwin, C.B. and to Commodore Lambert, the Governor-General in Council has again the satisfaction of offering his cordial acknowledgments of the ability and good will with which they have united their exertions for ensuring success to the operations in which they were engaged.

The Governor-General in Council begs to repeat his thanks to Major Boulderson, Deputy Judge-Advocate-General, to Captain Latter, to Captain Chads, Aide-de-Camp, and to Lieutenant Ford, of the Madras Sappers, for their conduct in the field on this occasion.

His Lordship in Council desires especially to mark his sense of the services rendered by Major Errington, Her Majesty's 51st Light Infantry, commanding the detachment of troops at Bassein; and to Commander Campbell, of the Indian Navy, by whom the stockade upon the right bank of the river was stormed and taken.

To Captain Rice, Captain Darroch, and Lieutenant Carter, of Her Majesty's 51st Light Infantry; to Lieutenant Ansley, 9th Madras Native Infantry; to Lieutenant Craster, Bengal Engineers; and to Doctor M'Cosh, of the Medical Department; the Governor-General in Council begs leave to convey his best thanks.

Equal acknowledgments are due to Lieutenant Rice, Royal Navy; to Lieutenant Elliott, and Lieutenant Nightingale, Royal Marines; to Commander Hewett, to Lieutenant Robinson, and Lieutenant Lewis, Indian Navy; and to Captain Dicey, Captain Burbank, and Mr. F. Duncan, of the Bengal Marine, whose services have been commended.

The Governor-General in Council has particular satisfaction in adding the expression of his entire approbation of the gallantry and good conduct of the officers, non-commissioned officers, and men of Her Majesty's 51st Regiment, of the 9th Regiment Madras Native Infantry, of the Madras Sappers and Miners, and of the Seamen and Marines employed in the capture of the city of Bassein.

By order of the Most Noble the Governor-General of India in Council.

C. ALLEN, Officiating Secretary to the Government of India.

TREASURY WARRANT.

WHEREAS by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," the Postmaster-General is authorized to charge on all letters conveyed by packet-boats between one part of Her Majesty's dominions and another part of the same dominions, and between Her Majesty's dominions and foreign parts where post communications shall be established, such rates of postage as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by warrant under their hands, shall from time to time direct:

Now we, the undersigned, being two of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, do, in exercise of the power and authority in us for such purpose vested in and by the said Act, and of all other powers and authorities enabling us in this behalf, direct that on every letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight, transmitted by the post between any place in the United Kingdom and any port in Goree, Liberia, Lagos, Bonny, Old Calebar, Cameroons, and Fernando Po, on the coast of Africa, or between any ports in Goree, Liberia, Lagos, Bonny, Old Calebar, Cameroons, and Fernando Po, without passing through the United Kingdom (the sea conveyance of such respective letters being by packet-boat), there shall be charged and paid, in lieu of any rates of postage now payable thereon, a rate of postage of one shilling.

And we further direct that, on every letter transmitted as is mentioned in this warrant, exceeding half an ounce in weight, there shall be charged and paid progressive and additional rates of postage as follows; that is to say:

On every letter exceeding half an ounce in weight, and not exceeding one ounce in weight, two rates of postage.

On every letter exceeding one ounce, and not exceeding two ounces in weight, four rates of postage.

On every letter exceeding two ounces, and not exceeding three ounces in weight, six rates of postage.

And on every letter exceeding three ounces, and not exceeding four ounces in weight, eight rates of postage.

And for every ounce in weight above the weight of four ounces there shall be charged and taken two additional rates of postage; and every fraction of an ounce above the weight of four ounces shall be charged as one additional ounce, and each progressive and additional rate chargeable under this clause shall be estimated and charged at the sum of one shilling.

And we further direct, that such printed newspapers as are hereinafter mentioned, may be sent by the post (the sea conveyance being by packet-boat), according to the regulations and rates hereinafter set forth; that is to say:

British or colonial newspapers from or passing through the United Kingdom to Goree, Liberia, Lagos, Bonny, Old Calebar, Cameroons, or Fernando Po, two pence each. Foreign or colonial newspapers from Goree, Liberia, Lagos, Bonny, Old Calebar, Cameroons, or Fernando Po to the United Kingdom or to Her Majesty's Colonies, or any foreign country, through the United Kingdom, two pence each.

British, colonial, or foreign newspapers between Goree, Liberia, Lagos, Bonny, Old Calebar, Cameroons, and Fernando Po (without passing through the United Kingdom), two pence each.

And we direct, that every printed supplement or additional sheet to any such newspaper, shall, for the purpose of charging the postage under this warrant, be deemed a distinct newspaper, unless sent in the same cover, or together with the newspaper to which it is a supplement or addition.

And we direct, that no such printed newspaper shall be sent by the post at the rate aforesaid, unless the following conditions shall be observed:

First.—It shall be sent without a cover, or in a band or cover open at the sides or ends.

Second.—There shall be no word or communication printed on the newspaper after its publication, or upon the cover thereof, nor any writing or marks upon it, or upon the cover of it, except the name and address of the person to whom sent.

Third.—There shall be no paper or thing enclosed in or with any such newspaper.

And we direct that nothing herein contained shall be deemed or construed to annul, prejudice, or affect any of the exemptions and privileges granted by the said recited Act of the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, or by an Act, made and passed in the first year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the management of the Post-office," or by any Treasury Warrant issued under or by virtue of the said first-mentioned Act.

And we direct, that the several terms and expressions used in this warrant shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects as they would have had if inserted in the said Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty.

And we further direct, that this warrant shall come into operation on the tenth day of September one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two.

Provided lastly, and we do hereby declare and direct, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, for the time being, of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any two of them, by warrant under their hands, at any time hereafter to alter or repeal any of the rates hereby fixed or altered, or the regulations hereby made; and to make and establish any new or other rates or regulations in lieu thereof, and, from time to time, to appoint at what time the rates that may be payable are to be paid.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of SEPTEMBER 21, 1852.

India Board, September 18, 1852.

THE following Dispatches have been this day received at the East India House:

(Extract.) Fort William, August 7, 1852.

IT is in the highest degree satisfactory to us to be enabled to report that the health of the troops on service in Burmah continues good.

Supplies are superabundant. An immense population has collected round Rangoon and Kemmendine. They are quiet and manageable, and they exhibit the most perfect confidence in the troops of every description,—a testimony to the forbearance and good conduct of the force, which will be appreciated by you.

The advance of the steam flotilla on Prome, during which fifty-six pieces of artillery were captured from the enemy, is reported to you.

Commodore G. R. Lambert, R.N. to the Governor-General of India.

Her Majesty's ship Fox, at Rangoon,
(Extract.) July 14, 1852.

I HAVE the honour to forward to you a copy of a letter I have received from Commander Tarleton, of Her Majesty's ship Fox, detailing the services he has performed while in charge of the flotilla in the Irrawaddy.

It gives me great pleasure to state, that gallant and valuable as these services have been, they are strictly in accordance with what I considered were your Lordship's wishes, namely, to gain a correct knowledge of the river as far as Prome, which had hitherto been so imperfectly described, and to dislodge and harass the enemy wherever they appeared, if practicable. How this service has been performed I leave to your judgment to decide, after your perusal of Commander Tarleton's letter.

You will perceive, without particularizing any individual under his command, how fully he appreciates the aid he received from all who partook in this gallant enterprize.

Commander J. W. Tarleton, R. N. to Commodore Lambert.

(Extract.) Moniew, July 11, 1852.

I HAVE the honour to inform you that, in pursuance of the instructions contained in your letter, addressed to me on the 30th ultimo, I proceeded up the Irrawaddy as far as Yeagaim, where I anchored on the 7th instant, having been joined on the way by the East India Company's steamers Proserpine and Mahanuddy. This place is now deserted both by the enemy and its inhabitants; and we were thus compelled to procure our own fuel. While thus employed, the East India Company's steamer Phlegethon joined company; when, finding that she had coal sufficient to supply the other vessels, I immediately proceeded with the four steamers. At two P.M. when opposite to Konnonghee, a large number of armed men were observed collected on the bank. On a shell being fired amongst them, they immediately disappeared, either into the jungle, or some holes or trenches near the water's edge, whence they opened a most vigorous fire from five or six guns, and a vast number of muskets. I remained with the flotilla abreast their position for an hour, shelling the enemy to the best of our ability; but, protected as they were by the embankment, no decided impression could be made on them. I have no doubt that we could have carried the work, by running one of the small steamers along side, and throwing the small arm men on shore, but this service could not have been performed without certain loss; and, beyond spiking the guns, there was no object to be gained, the jungle covering the bank offering a secure retreat to the Burmese, from which they would have returned as soon as we had re-embarked. I considered, therefore, that I should be more fully carrying out your instructions, in making this a reconnoitring force, by pushing forwards, without further attempt to dislodge the enemy, reported by the neighbouring inhabitants to be 1500 strong. I have the honour to enclose a list of casualties on this occasion; they are confined to the Medusa, at which, as the leading vessel, the enemy's fire seems to have been principally directed.

At sunset the flotilla anchored off Meaoung; at daylight, on the 8th, it again weighed, and proceeded till within sight of an extensive fortification crowning the end of a ridge of hills about 300 feet high, terminating abruptly at the town of Akouk-toung (marked in the chart Pceinghee). Bandoola was reported to be here with 7000 men, and a number of guns, differently stated from fifteen to forty. Having ascertained from the pilot that a passage might probably be found at this season through a creek to the eastward of the island, opposite Akouk-toung, and thus completely out of range of the enemy's guns, I determined to attempt it, and happily succeeded in getting through, with not less than two fathoms water. Here we learnt that a small steamer belonging to the King of Ava had only left the day previous, and that the whole army of the country was centred at Akouk-toung, or its neighbourhood.

Foreseeing the panic which the presence of the steamers would create above the defensive force, I urged forwards with all speed, detaching the Proserpine, as the fastest vessel, to endeavour, by proceeding through the night, to overtake the Government vessel. Mr. Brooking, however, found this impracticable, and was compelled to anchor.

The Mahanuddy's fuel being now exhausted, I left the Phlegethon with her, to supply her wants, and, by dint of great attention on the part of Lieutenant Fraser, Indian Navy, and the officers of the Medusa, I succeeded in steaming through the night, and reached Prome at daylight on the 9th. At the south end of the town, near the water's edge, I observed four heavy guns, but no armed men near them. I accordingly anchored the vessel abreast the spot, landed, and made fast a hawser to them, and hove them off: the iron guns were disabled, and sunk in deep water; and the brass ones taken on board. At seven, the Proserpine joined, and, a few hours afterwards, the two other vessels, and, with the boats' crews of the Fox heartily entering on the work, every gun in Prome, twenty-three in number (see Return), were thus brought off. In the afternoon, I ascended ten miles higher up the river, as far as Zeegain, where I anchored for the night, leaving the other vessels at Prome to transfer fuel.

I had now, Sir, fully carried out the instructions contained in your letter of the 30th June. There was no prospect of overtaking the steamer, and I had seriously to consider the safety of the vessels under my orders. With an enterprising foe, I was aware that the creek near Akouk-toung might be made impassable; and even by the Burmese, when, by the large force in the neighbourhood, such means were at their command. I, therefore, decided on an immediate return, with the view to prevent their having time to complete their preparations. I rejoined the vessels off Prome, at daylight on the 10th, and commenced the descent of the river. The city had been in our possession for twenty-four hours, the Governor, Moungwine, having fled at our approach. At 10 A.M. we arrived at the entrance of Akouk-toung Creek; when about half way through, we observed several large boats, crowded with armed men: at first it was difficult to make out their intentions, whether these were to attack the vessels, supported by a fire from the shore, or were crossing. It proved to be the latter; and they succeeded, before our guns could be brought to bear upon them, in reaching the bank; from which a straggling fire of musketry was opened, but soon silenced by the great guns of the flotilla. Ten men, who had not time to escape from one of the boats, were made prisoners, and will be sent to Rangoon for interrogation. The steamers now turned round, and ascended the creek again, dispersing the enemy wherever he was to be seen, brought away five brass guns on field-piece carriages that were still in the boats, and burnt the general's state barge and a number of war boats, with a large quantity of arms and ammunition.

I am not quite certain as to the movements of the enemy; the reports of the natives not entirely agreeing. They stated that the force began to cross at 3 P.M. on the 9th, and continued to do so through the night, and until we reached them at 10 A.M. on the 10th, as above related. One party insisted that the whole army had crossed; but this was not true, as men could be seen still on the fortifications opposite. The other stated that a thousand men only had been sent over to defend the creek. I am inclined to believe that the principal part of the army, including the general, had crossed (as our informant told us) on their way to Prome, the road to which leads from here, leaving a small force only at Akouk-toung. The barge, with the two gilt umbrellas and flag, would certainly not have been on this side had Bandoola not crossed himself; and I do not think it probable he would have come over with a detachment. I now continued the descent of the river, being joined by the East India Company's steamer Pluto, at 3 P.M. The enemy had evacuated his trenches at Koun-oung, and gone upward. At sunset, the flotilla was anchored off this place, where it is employed provisioning, and getting into readiness for further service.

I trust that this expedition has, for the present, entirely freed the lower country of the presence of the enemy, and I do not apprehend that they will again venture so far from Prome. This will be an incalculable blessing to the inhabitants, who evince to us everywhere the most friendly disposition, and only require security to become contented and happy.

I should be doing great injustice to every officer and man in this little force (consisting of the Medusa, Phlegethon, Proserpine, Mahanuddy, with three boats of the Fox, and twenty marines, the officer commanding whom I regret to say is severely wounded) if I failed to represent to you the zeal and attention that has been shewn on this service by all; without it, I have no hesitation in saying that it could not have been brought to a successful issue.

J. W. TARLETON, Commander, R.N.

Commodore G. R. Lambert to the Governor-General of India.

Her Majesty's ship Fox, at Rangoon, July 21, 1852.

(Extract.)

IN continuation of my dispatch, dated the 14th instant, I have the honour to inform you that this morning I received a report* from Commander Tarleton, detailing further successful operations against the enemy in the neighbourhood of Prome, by a portion of the flotilla under his orders.

Mr. Burbank, the Commander of the Pluto, having been informed that the Burmese troops had evacuated the fortified post on the heights of

* Not received in England.

Akouk-toung, and had left their artillery there, he sent a force on shore to demolish the works, and to destroy or bring on board the guns.

This was accomplished on the 14th instant, without any opposition, after five hours' hard work under a burning sun; when all the enemy's guns on the heights of Akouk-toung, 28 in number, were either destroyed or brought off to the steamers. Their calibre was from 4 to 18 pounders.

Next day the steamers proceeded to Sahlaydan, where they captured six large boats laden with grain and arms, which were being conveyed upwards; and, on the 16th, arrived off Pendang-mew, where some Government boats were destroyed.

On the morning of the 17th, Mr. Burbank anchored off Prome. Some of the inhabitants immediately came off with the intelligence that 500 troops had been stationed on the hill at the back of the town, but decamped directly the steamers came in sight. He also learnt that General Bandoola, with the remnant of his army, consisting of only 2000 men, the rest having deserted, was encamped at Ethamew, a town without any defences, nine miles inland. The inhabitants of Prome, as well as of all the other towns, are most anxious that a steamer shall be permitted to remain off their city, to protect them from the lawless gangs of disbanded soldiers.

In bringing Mr. Burbank's zeal and activity to my notice, Commander Tarleton recapitulates the services performed by the small steam force under his orders, assisted by three boats and 60 seamen and marines from Her Majesty's ship Fox, during the last ten days.

The river has been ascended to Prome, 56 guns have been captured, 10 war boats, and several boats containing military stores and ammunition have been burnt; and an army of 7000 men, commanded by one of the highest officers in the Burman empire, dispersed, with the exception of 2000 who are collected in the neighbourhood of Prome, where, without artillery or defences, they are no longer formidable.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of OCTOBER 26, 1852.

AT the Court at Windsor, the 16th day of October 1852.

PRESENT,

The QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by an Act, passed in the session of Parliament held in the fifteenth and sixteenth years of the reign of Her Majesty, intituled the "Passengers Act, 1852," it is enacted, that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, by any Order in Council to be by her made, with the advice of the Privy Council, to prescribe such rules and regulations as to Her Majesty may seem fit for preserving order, for promoting health, and for securing cleanliness and ventilation, on board of passenger ships proceeding from the United Kingdom to any port or place in Her Majesty's possessions abroad, and the said rules and regulations from time to time in like manner to alter, amend, and revoke, as occasion may require:

And whereas it is expedient to revoke an Order in Council, made at a Court, held at Osborne House,

Isle of Wight, on the sixth day of October one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine, in virtue of the provisions of the "Passengers Act, 1849," (now repealed,) and to make a new Order in Council:

Now, therefore, Her Majesty doth, by and with the advice of her Privy Council, and in pursuance and exercise of the authority vested in her by the said "Passengers Act, 1852," order, and it is hereby ordered, that the said Order in Council of the sixth day of October one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine, be and the same is hereby revoked; and that the following shall henceforth be the rules for preserving order, for promoting health, and for securing cleanliness and ventilation, to be observed on board of every passenger ship proceeding from the United Kingdom to any port or place in Her Majesty's possessions abroad out of Europe, and not being within the Mediterranean Sea.

1. All passengers who shall not be prevented by sickness or other sufficient cause, to be determined by the surgeon, or in ships carrying no surgeon, by the master, shall rise not later than seven o'clock A.M. at which hour the fires shall be lighted.

2. It shall be the duty of the cook or cooks, appointed under the thirty-sixth section of the said "Passengers Act, 1852," to light the fires, and to take care that they be kept alight during the day; and also to take care that each passenger or family of passengers shall have the use of the fireplace at the proper hours, in an order to be fixed by the master.

3. When the passengers are dressed, their beds shall be rolled up.

4. The decks, including the space under the bottom of the berths, shall be swept before breakfast, and all dirt thrown overboard.

5. The breakfast hour shall be from eight to nine o'clock A.M. Before the commencement of breakfast, all the emigrants, except as hereinbefore excepted, are to be out of bed and dressed, and the beds rolled up, and the deck on which the emigrants live properly swept.

6. The deck shall further be swept after every meal, and after breakfast is concluded, shall be also dry holystoned or scraped. This duty, as well as that of cleaning the ladders, hospitals, and round houses shall be performed by a party who shall be taken in rotation from the adult males above fourteen, in the proportion of five to every one hundred emigrants, and shall be considered as sweepers for the day. But the single women shall perform this duty in their own compartment, where a separate compartment is allotted to them, and the occupant of each berth shall see that his own berth is well brushed out.

7. Dinner shall commence at one o'clock P.M. and supper at six P.M.

8. The fires shall be extinguished at seven P.M. unless otherwise directed by the master or required for the use of the sick ; and the emigrants shall be in their berths at ten o'clock P.M. except under the permission or authority of the surgeon, or if there be no surgeon, of the master.

9. Three safety lamps shall be lit at dusk, and kept burning till ten o'clock P.M. ; after which hour two of the lamps may be extinguished, one being nevertheless kept burning at the main hatchway all night.

10. No naked light shall be allowed at any time or on any account.

11. The scuttles and stern ports, if any, shall, weather permitting, be opened at seven o'clock A.M. and kept open till ten o'clock P.M. ; and the hatches shall be kept open whenever the weather permits.

12. The coppers and cooking utensils shall be cleaned every day.

13. The beds shall be well shaken and aired on deck at least twice a week.

14. The bottom boards of the berths, if not fixtures, shall be removed and dry-scrubbed, and taken on deck at least twice a week.

15. Two days in the week shall be appointed by the master as washing days; but no washing or drying of clothes shall on any account be permitted between decks.

16. On Sunday mornings the passengers shall be mustered at ten o'clock A.M. and will be expected to appear in clean and decent apparel. The Lord's Day shall be observed as religiously as circumstances will admit.

17. No spirits or gunpowder shall be taken on board by any passenger; and if either of those articles be discovered in the possession of a passenger, it shall be taken into the custody of the master during the voyage, and not returned to the passenger until he is on the point of disembarking.

18. No loose hay or straw shall be allowed below for any purpose.

19. No smoking shall be allowed between decks.

20. All gambling, fighting, riotous or quarrelsome behaviour, swearing, and violent language, shall be at once put a stop to. Fire arms, swords, and other offensive weapons shall, as soon as the passengers embark, be placed in the custody of the master.

21 No sailors shall be allowed to remain on the passenger deck among the passengers, except on duty.

22. No passenger shall go to the ships' cookhouse without special permission from the master, nor remain in the forecastle among the sailors on any account.

23. In vessels not expressly required by the said "Passengers Act, 1852," to have on board such ventilating apparatus as therein mentioned, such other provision shall be made for ventilation as shall be required by the Emigration Officer at the port of embarkation, or in his absence, by the officers of Customs.

24. And to prevent all doubts in the construction of this Order in Council, it is hereby further ordered that the terms "United Kingdom," "Passenger," "Passenger Ship," and "Master," shall herein have the same significations as are assigned to them respectively in the said "Passengers Act, 1852."

TREASURY WARRANT.

WHEREAS by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," power is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, from time to time, by warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of British postage, or inland postage, payable by law on the transmission by the post of foreign or colonial letters or newspapers, or of any other printed papers, and to subject the same to rates of postage according to the weight thereof, and a scale of weight to be contained in such warrant, and from time to time, by warrant as aforesaid, to alter or repeal any such altered rates, and make and establish any new or other rates in lieu thereof, and from time to time, by warrant as aforesaid, to appoint at what time the rates which may be payable are to be paid; and it is provided, that the power thereby given should extend to any increase, or reduction, or remission of postage:

And whereas it is considered expedient to alter the rates of postage payable on letters and newspapers conveyed between the United Kingdom and the republic of Peru:

Now, we, the undersigned, being two of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, do, in exercise of the power or authority in us for such purpose vested in and by the said recited Act, and of all other powers and authorities enabling us in that behalf, direct, that on every letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight, transmitted by the post between the countries and places next hereinafter mentioned, there shall be charged and paid, in lieu of any rates heretofore chargeable on such letters, the several rates of British postage hereinafter set forth; that is to say:

Between any part of the United Kingdom and any port in Peru, or any foreign country, through Peru, direct, or viâ Panama, if the sea conveyance be by British packet-boat, a rate of two shillings, and if by private ship, a rate of eightpence.

Between the British West Indies and any port in Peru, or between the islands of Martinique and Guadaloupe and any port in Peru, without passing through the United Kingdom, the conveyance being by British packet-boat, direct, or viâ Panama, a rate of one shilling and fourpence.

Between one port in Peru and another port in Peru, or between a port in Peru and any other port on the western coast of America, without passing through the United Kingdom, the conveyance being by British packet-boat, a rate of sixpence.

Between any port in Peru and any foreign port, (the islands of Martinique, Guadaloupe, ports on the western coast of New Granada, and ports in the republic of the Equator, Chile, and Bolivia only excepted), without passing through the United Kingdom, the sea conveyance being by British packet-boat, direct, or viâ Panama, a rate of two shillings.

And we direct, that on every letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight, posted in or addressed to any part of Peru, transmitted by the post between Peru and any of Her Majesty's colonies, or any foreign country, through the United Kingdom, and on every letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight, transmitted between any foreign country, through Peru, and any of Her Majesty's colonies, or any foreign country, through the United Kingdom (the said respective letters being conveyed between the United Kingdom and Peru direct, or viâ Panama), there shall be charged and taken, in lieu of any rates of British postage now payable by law on such letters, an uniform rate of British postage of two shillings, for the conveyance of every such letter between Peru and any part of the United Kingdom, the sea conveyance being by British packet-boat, and an uniform rate of British postage of eight pence, for the conveyance of every such letter between Peru and any part of the United Kingdom, if the sea conveyance be by private ship; and also such a further or additional rate of British postage for the conveyance of every such respective letter between the port in the United Kingdom of the departure or arrival of the packet or ship conveying the same and the colony or foreign country to or from which the same shall be forwarded, as shall from time to time be chargeable and payable for British postage on letters not exceeding half an ounce in weight, posted or delivered at the port in the United Kingdom, of the departure or arrival of the packet or ship conveying the same, and transmitted direct between such port and such colony or foreign country.

And we further direct, that on every letter transmitted as is mentioned in this warrant, exceeding half an ounce in weight, there shall be charged and paid progressive and additional rates of British postage, according to the scale of weight and number of rates following (that is to say):

On every such letter, exceeding half an ounce in weight, and not exceeding one ounce in weight, two rates of postage;

On every such letter, exceeding one ounce, and not exceeding two ounces in weight, four rates of postage;

On every such letter, exceeding two ounces, and not exceeding three ounces in weight, six rates of postage;

And on every such letter, exceeding three ounces, and not exceeding four ounces in weight, eight rates of postage;

ounces, shall be charged as one additional ounce.

And we further direct, that such printed newspapers as are hereinafter mentioned may be sent by the post, free of postage, or liable to postage, according to the regulations and rates hereinafter set forth; that is to say:

British newspapers and such British publications as are allowed to pass by the post as newspapers in the United Kingdom, may, if posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to Peru, be sent from the United Kingdom to Peru, direct, or viâ Panama, by packet-boat free, and by private ship at a rate of one penny each.

Newspapers published in the Spanish language, and posted in Peru, may be sent from thence to any part of the United Kingdom, direct, or viâ Panama, by packet-boat free, and by private ship at a rate of one penny each.

Newspapers published in the Spanish language, and posted in Peru, may be sent from thence to any British colony (without passing through the United Kingdom) by packet-boat, direct, or viâ Panama, free, and by private ship, at a rate of one penny each.

Newspapers published in the Spanish language may be sent by British packet-boat from one port in Peru to another port in Peru, (without passing through the United Kingdom) free.

Newspapers published and posted in any of Her Majesty's colonies may be sent from thence to any port in Peru (without passing through the United Kingdom) by packet-boat, direct, or viâ Panama, free, and by private ship, at a rate of one penny each.

Newspapers published in the Spanish language, and posted in Peru, may be sent from thence to any foreign port (without passing through the United Kingdom) by British packet-boat, direct, or viâ Panama, at a rate of two pence each.

And we further direct, that every printed supplement or additional sheet to any newspaper shall, for the purpose of charging the postage under this warrant, be deemed a distinct newspaper, unless sent in the same cover or together with the newspaper to which it is a supplement or addition.

And we further direct that the said newspapers shall be forwarded under and subject to the following conditions; that is to say:

Each must be sent without a cover, or in a cover or band open at the sides or ends, and there must be no word or communication printed on the paper after its publication, or upon the cover or band thereon, nor any writing, figures, or manual marks upon it, or upon the cover or band of it, except the name and address of the person to whom sent. There must be no paper or thing inclosed in or with any such newspaper. Any newspaper not forwarded in conformity with such conditions is to be chargeable with the full letter rates of postage.

And we further direct, that nothing herein contained shall be deemed or construed to annul, prejudice, or affect any of the exemptions and privileges granted by the said recited Act, or by an Act, made and passed in the first year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the management of the Post-office," and that all such exemptions and privileges shall remain in full force.

And we further direct, that the term "British West Indies," used in this warrant, shall include the Bermudas, the Bahamas, and other British islands, commonly called the West Indies, as also the colonies of British Guiana and Honduras, and their respective dependencies; and that the several other terms and expressions used in this warrant shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects as they would have had if inserted in the said Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty.

And we further direct, that this warrant shall come into operation on the first day of December, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two.

Provided lastly, and we hereby declare and direct, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any two of them, by warrant under their hands, at any time hereafter to alter or repeal any of the rates hereby altered, or the regulations hereby made, and to make and establish any new or other rates or regulations in lieu thereof, and, from time to time, to appoint at what time the rates that may be payable are to be paid.

FROM THE

Buckingham-Palace, November 11, 1852.

THIS day Her Majesty, accompanied by His Royal Highness Prince Albert, proceeded in state from Buckingham-Palace to the House of Peers, where she arrived soon after two o'clock; and was received, on alighting from her state coach, by the Lord Chancellor, the Lord President of the Council, the Lord Privy Seal, Sir Augustus Clifford, Bart. C.B. Deputy Great Chamberlain, (in the absence of the Lord Willoughby de Eresby), the Earl Marshal, and the Lord Steward of the Household, Garter King of Arms, and the Yeoman Usher of the Black Rod, and proceeded to the State Robing-room in the customary manner.

Her Majesty was there robed, and the proeession moved into the House in the usual order;—the sword of state was borne by the Earl of Derby, the cap of maintenance by the Marquess of Winchester, and the crown by the Duke of Northumberland.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

I CANNOT meet you for the first time after the dissolution of Parliament without expressing my deep sorrow, in which I am sure you will participate, that your deliberations can no longer be aided by the counsels of that illustrious man whose great achievements have exalted the name of England, and in whose loyalty and patriotism the interests of my throne and of my people ever found an unfailing support. I rely with confidenee on your desire to join with me in taking such steps as may mark your sense of the irreparable loss which the country has sustained by the death of Arthur Duke of Wellington.

I am happy to acknowledge the readiness with which my subjects in general have come forward, in pursuanee of the Act of last session, to join the ranks of the Militia; and I eonfidently trust that the force thus raised by voluntary enlistment will be calculated to give effective aid to my regular army for the protection and security of the country.

I continue to receive from all Foreign powers assurances of their anxious desire to maintain the friendly relations now happily subsisting with my government.

Frequent and well-founded complaints on the part of my North American colonies, of infractions, by citizens of the United States, of the fishery convention of 1818, induced me to despatch, for the protection of their interests, a class of vessels better adapted to the service than those which had been previously employed. This step has led to discussions with the government of the United States: and while the rights of my subjects have been firmly maintained, the friendly spirit in which the question has been treated induces me to hope that the ultimate result may be a mutually beneficial extension and improvement of our commercial intercourse with that great republic.

The special mission which, in concert with the Prince President of the French Republic, I deemed it right to send to the Argentine Confederation, has been received with the utmost cordiality; and the wise and enlightened policy of the Provisional Director has already opened to the commerce of the world the great rivers, hitherto closed, which afford an access to the interior of the vast continent of South America.

I have the satisfaction of announcing to you that the sincere and zealous efforts of the government of Brazil for the suppression of the slave trade, now nearly extinguished on that coast, have enabled me to suspend the stringent measures which I had been compelled reluctantly to adopt, a recurrence to which I anxiously hope may be proved to be unnecessary.

The government of Her Most Faithful Majesty have fully recognized the justice of the claim which my government have long urged for the abolition of the discriminating duties on the export of wine, and have passed a decree for giving complete effect to the stipulations of the treaty on this subject.

You will probably deem it advisable to resume the inquiries which were commenced by the late Parliament with a view to legislation on the subject of the future government of my East Indian possessions.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

The estimates for the ensuing year will in due time be laid before you.

The advancement of the fine arts and of practical science will be readily recognized by you as worthy of the attention of a great and enlightened nation. I have directed that a comprehensive scheme shall be laid before you, having in view the promotion of these objects, towards which I invite your aid and co-operation.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

It gives me pleasure to be enabled, by the blessing of Providence, to congratulate you on the generally improved condition of the country, and especially of the industrious classes. If you should be of opinion that recent legislation in contributing, with other causes, to this happy result, has at the same time inflicted unavoidable injury on certain important interests, I recommend you dispassionately to consider how far it may be practicable equitably to mitigate that injury, and to enable the industry of the country to meet successfully that unrestricted competition to which Parliament, in its wisdom, has decided that it should be subjected.

I trust that the general improvement, notwithstanding many obstacles, has extended to Ireland; and while I rely with confidence on your aid, should it be required, to restrain that unhappy spirit of insubordination and turbulence which produces many and aggravates all of the evils which afflict that portion of my dominions, I recommend to you the adoption of such a liberal and generous policy towards Ireland as may encourage and assist her to rally from the depression in which she has been sunk by the sufferings of late years.

Anxious to promote the efficiency of every branch of our national church, I have thought fit to issue a commission to inquire and report to me, how far, in their opinion, the capitular institutions of the country are capable of being made more effective for the great objects of religious worship, religious education, and ecclesiastical discipline.

I have directed that the reports of the commissioners for inquiring into the system of education pursued at Oxford and Cambridge should be communicated to the governing bodies of those universities, for their consideration; and I rely upon your readiness to remove any legal difficulties which may impede the desire of the universities at large, or of the several colleges, to introduce such amendments into their existing system as they may deem to be more in accordance with the requirements of the present time.

The system of secondary punishments has usefully occupied the labours of successive Parliaments; and I shall rejoice if you shall find it possible to devise means by which, without giving encouragement to crime, transportation to Van Diemen's Land may at no distant period be altogether discontinued.

The subject of legal reform continues to engage my anxious attention. The Acts passed in the last session of Parliament have been followed up by the orders necessary for putting them in operation. Inquiries are in progress, by my direction, with a view of bringing into harmony the testamentary jurisdiction of my several courts; and Bills will be submitted to you for effecting further improvements in the administration of the law.

To these, and other measures affecting the social condition of the country, I am persuaded that you will give your earnest and zealous attention, and I pray that by the blessing of Almighty God your deliberations may be guided to the well-being and happiness of my people.

At the Court at Buckingham-Palace, the 10th day of November 1852.

India Board, December 2nd, 1852.

A DESPATCH, from which the following is an extract, has been this day received at the East India House :—

From the Governor-General of India in Council to the Secret Committee of the East India Company, dated Fort William, October 25, 1852.

From the General Order, and the despatches published on the 23rd instant, you will learn with satisfaction of the capture of Prome, on the 9th and 10th idem, with but a trifling loss on our side.

GENERAL ORDERS BY THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF INDIA IN COUNCIL.

Fort William, Foreign Department, October 23rd, 1852.

THE Most Noble the Governor-General in Council has much gratification in publishing for general information, despatches received from Commodore Lambert and from Major-General Godwin, which report the capture and occupation of the city of Prome, after some resistance, and with comparatively trifling loss.

The steam squadron and the boats of Her Majesty's ships, conveying the troops upon the Irrawaddy, anchored off Prome on the 9th of October. A fire from the shore was silenced by the fire of the steamers and of the boats. The troops having been landed, drove the enemy, some three or four thousand strong, from the suburbs ; and on subsequently advancing to the great pagoda and to the heights beyond, they found the position wholly abandoned by the Burman force.

The Governor-General in Council desires to express in the strongest terms his obligations to Commodore Lambert, for the care, the energy and unwearied zeal which he has shown in directing the naval preparations for advance, and which have conduced so largely to the early and successful renewal of operations in the field.

His lordship in council begs to offer his thanks to Captain Loch, and to Commander Shadwell, for their conduct of the service on the river ; and to Commander Rice, for his direction of the body of seamen upon shore.

His thanks are also due to Commander Campbell, of the Indian navy, whose merit has been acknowledged by the Commodore.

The Governor-General in Council has viewed with high approbation the services of the officers and men, who, upon this occasion and for several months past, have been employed in boats upon the river, subjected to severe exposure, and engaged in harassing duties, which they have performed with the utmost alacrity and cheerfulness, and with conspicuous advantage to the public service.

To the officers, seamen, and marines of Her Majesty's ships, of the Indian navy, and of the Bengal marine, who have been serving upon the Irrawaddy, and to Commander Tarleton, who long commanded them, the Governor-General in Council is desirous of offering his hearty thanks.

The Governor-General in Council has in like manner to assure Major-General Godwin of the satisfaction with which he has viewed the skill and judgment by which the Major-General enabled the troops to obtain possession of an important post, without delay, and with but little loss.

To Major Mayhew, Deputy Adjutant-General; to Major Allan, Deputy Quarter-Master-General; to Captain Smith, Interpreter; to Captain Burne, Military Secretary; and Captain Chads, A. D. C. the Governor-General in Council tenders his thanks.

Especially to Captain Christie and to Captain Welsh, of Her Majesty's 80th Regiment, for the gallant manner in which they led their men to the attack, and to all the officers, non-commissioned officers, and soldiers of the force, the Governor-General in Council desires to give assurance of his cordial approbation.

While thus congratulating the naval and military forces on the first result of their advance, the Governor-General in Council feels it to be due to the memory of an old and gallant sailor, that he should add a public expression of the deep regret with which he has received intimation of the death of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's ships in the Indian Seas.

Although Admiral Austen did not survive to witness the successful conclusion of the operations in which he had shared, the Governor-General in Council desires to record his admiration of the staunch high spirit which, notwithstanding his age and previous suffering, had led the Rear-Admiral to take his part in the trying service which has closed his career.

His Excellency Rear-Admiral Austen has afforded to the Government of India at all times a cordial and constant aid.

The Governor-General in Council has been grateful for his services, and laments his death.

C. ALLEN,
Secretary to the Government of India.

Commodore Lambert, R.N., to Charles Allen, Esq.

H.M.S. Fox's Boat, on Board the Fire Queen, at Prome, October 11th, 1852.

SIR,

I REQUEST you may be pleased to inform the Governor-General in Council that, having embarked on board the East India Company's steam vessels under my orders H.M. 18th and 80th Regiments, the 35th Regiment Madras Native Infantry, a detachment of Sappers and Miners, and of the Bengal Artillery with their field guns, I despatched them as they were ready to rendezvous off Yangernsiah, a town situated at the upper end of the Panglang Creek, which joins the Irrawaddy to the Rangoon River.

2. The Commissariat, Ordnance, and Engineers' stores, and about 1000 followers attached to the regiments, were conveyed in the steamer, large Burmese cargo boats, five small schooners and a barque.

The cargo boats, manned by Burmese crews, advanced in three divisions under convoy of the barges and pinnaces of Her Majesty's ships, Fox, Winchester, and Hastings; the barque and schooners were towed by the steamers.

3. These arrangements being completed, I left Rangoon on the 24th ultimo, and Major-General Godwin joined me on the following day at Yangernsiah.

4. Having hoisted my broad pendant on board the Fire Queen, the steamer in which the Major-General embarked, I weighed from Yangernsiah on September 27th with the steam squadron specified in enclosure No. 1, and proceeded up the Irrawaddy to Prome, calling at Henzadah on my way.

5. On the morning of the 9th of October Prome was in sight, and on the squadron nearing the city, the enemy opened fire with a couple of guns and musketry, which was returned by the steamers as we proceeded into the bay, where I anchored in a convenient position abreast of the town for landing the troops.

6. The enemy continuing to keep up a fire after we had anchored, I sent the boats of the squadron, under the command of Captain Loch, C.B., of Her Majesty's ship Winchester, to throw in a few shells and canister shot amongst them, which had the effect of silencing it for a time, although they kept up a very spirited fire on the boats, which wounded two seamen.

7. They then brought a gun down abreast of the Fire Queen, but had only time to give us one shot before it was dismounted by the fire from the steamers, which effectually cleared a landing place.

8. Major-General Godwin now expressed his wish to land the 80th Regiment and a party of artillery with two guns, at half-past 4, which was effected without any opposition, and the lower town cleared of the enemy.

9. At daylight next morning the remainder of the troops were landed, and a brigade of 50 seamen being formed under Commander Rice, at the Major-General's request, to assist in working the guns, the pagoda and other parts of the city were taken possession of, the Burmese flying as the forces advanced.

10. Thus the important city of Prome was occupied by British troops with the trifling loss of one killed and three wounded on the part of the army, while in the squadron only four were wounded, who are named in enclosure No. 2.

11. My thanks are due to Captain Loch, C.B., for the assistance he rendered me throughout these operations, also to Commanders Shadwell and Rice, of Her Majesty's ships Sphinx and Hastings, the former for his unremitting attentions to the instructions I had sent him previously to my entering the Irrawaddy, and to the latter officer for the part he took when on shore with the brigade of seamen. Nor can I speak too highly of Commander Campbell, the officers and men of the Indian navy and Bengal marine.

The skill and perseverance displayed by the officers and men belonging to the boats appointed to convoy the cargo-boats from Rangoon to Prome, a distance of more than 200 miles, against a rapid stream, exposed occasionally to a fire from the enemy, is deserving of my highest praise.

I have, &c.,

GEORGE R. LAMBERT,
Commodore 1st Class, Commander-in-Chief.

GEORGE R. LAMBERT,

Major-General Godwin to C. Allen, Esq.

SIR, Prome, October 12, 1852.

THE Governor-General in Council was aware of my intention, at the proper season, when the monsoon here had in some measure subsided, to break up the Army at Rangoon, and remove its head-quarters to Prome.

I have now the honour to inform you that the first division of this force is in possession of that city.

After some weeks of preparation, the embarkation commenced on the 16th of September, and the 1st division, amounting to 2300 men, and consisting of one company of the Madras Foot Artillery, with two 24-pounder howitzers and four 9-pounder guns, H.M. 18th Royal Irish, H.M. 80th Regiment, the 35th Regiment Madras N.I., and 119 Sappers, were all on board by the 25th idem.

The flotilla arrived off Prome on the morning of the 9th of October; each ship was cannonaded from a projecting point on the hills, as it rounded to the city, with very little effect. This fire was returned with much spirit by the steamers.

The weather here is so intensely hot, that I disembarked the Artillery under Brigadier Foord; H.M. 80th Regiment, under Lieutenant-Colonel Hutchinson, with the Sappers under Lieutenant Allen, on the evening of the same day; and, by sunrise the next morning, the 18th Royal Irish, under Lieutenant-Colonel Coote, and the 35th Madras N.I. under Lieutenant-Colonel Apthorp.

The enemy, consisting of three or four thousand men, occupied a very fine position on a range of hills about a thousand yards east from the point where they first opened fire, commanding the town and the large pagoda, which they also occupied.

The troops were landed in the evening, in a suburb to the north of, and beyond, the town. I then ordered them to advance towards the position I had selected for the night, when, upon the head of the column approaching a dry nullah dividing the suburb from the town, a very smart fire of musketry and jingalls was simultaneously opened from some jungle and houses on our left, and a small pagoda in our front.

The grenadiers of H.M. 80th Regiment, under Captain Christie, immediately advanced at the double towards the pagoda, and a party, consisting of two companies of the same regiment, under Captain Welsh, and accompanied by Brigadier Reignolds, were detached to the left, and in a very short time most gallantly drove the enemy out of their position, with the loss of only one man killed and a few wounded, Captain Welsh's party bringing in a jingall.

The grenadiers of the 80th Regiment kept possession of the pagoda, which I made the right of my position, and the troops had excellent cover during the night, which was passed in perfect quietude.

The following morning, when the remainder of the troops were landed, I advanced through the town in a direction I had determined upon the day before, from plans of the place in my possession, covered by the flank companies of the 18th Royal Irish and H.M. 80th Regiments, and two 24-pounder howitzers, which were drawn by a party of sailors, under Commander Rice, of H.M.S. Hastings. Upon our advanced guard reaching the pagoda, it found that the enemy had abandoned that position, as well as the heights beyond it, leaving in our possession an entirely evacuated town, overrun with thick and rank vegetation, and, I regret to add, abounding in swamps.

It is evident that the enemy expected our force to land, and advance up the direct road to the pagoda, along which they had erected two or three small breast-works, as well as removed the planking of several wooden bridges leading to the pagoda and the heights beyond it; but landing at the point we did, not only gave us an excellent road, but at the same time completely turned their position, rendering it impossible for them to hold it.

I have been for a long time aware of the assemblage of a large force about ten miles east of Prome, and at which place they also had a very formidable force in the last war, which took Sir Archibald Campbell several days to disperse. I have ascertained, from very good authority, that they have now about 18,000 men well posted in two or more stockades.

It is not my intention to disturb them at present in any way, as by their concentration at that place the fine force now assembling here will have an opportunity of striking a blow which may put an end to much future opposition. It was on this Burmese Army that the enemy retreated from Prome upon our entering it. The bravery and alacrity of the troops on this occasion was as conspicuous as it ever is.

His Lordship's thanks are deserved by Captain Christie, of H.M. 80th Regiment, for the gallant manner in which he led his company to the attack and capture of the small pagoda in our front, and to Captain Welsh, who, with two companies of his regiment, drove the enemy out of their position on our left.

The general staff—Major Mayhew, Deputy Adjutant-General; Major Allan, Deputy Quartermaster-General; Captain Smith, Interpreter to the Force; as also my personal staff—Captain Burne, Military Secretary, and Lieutenant Chads, Aide-de-Camp, were active in rendering me every assistance.

Brigadier-General Sir John Cheape, commanding the Bengal division, came up to Prome with the portion of his division embarked, and was present throughout the whole of these operations; and I have great satisfaction in being enabled to leave him in command upon my return to Rangoon, where I am required, and for which place I shall leave this to-morrow.

I leave Major Fraser, of the Engineers, and Major Allan, Deputy Quartermaster-General, at Prome, to carry out the necessary arrangements for the reception of the regiments which will hereafter arrive.

To Commodore Lambert your Lordship is deeply indebted for the unremitting exertions, calling forth all possible resources, and anxious solicitude, which have accomplished the conveyance of the force to its destination up this noble, but most difficult to be navigated, river. To Commander Rice, for the exertions of himself and men under his command, I feel greatly indebted.

I have the honour to enclose a return of the casualties which have occurred during our operations before Prome, and to remain, &c.

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of DECEMBER 3, 1852.

Public Funeral of the late Field-Marshal Arthur, Duke of Wellington, K.G.

College of Arms,
4th December 1852.

THE QUEEN having been pleased to declare Her Royal will and pleasure that the Interment of the late Field-Marshal Arthur, Duke of Wellington, K. G., should be solemnized in the Cathedral Church of St. Paul with all the honour due to his eminent public services and transcendant merits, the Earl Marshal received the Royal Command for the purpose of carrying into effect Her Majesty's pleasure accordingly.

The Military Arrangements were under the immediate direction of Viscount Hardinge, G.C.B., the General Commanding in Chief.

On Wednesday evening, the 10th November, at seven o'clock, the Remains of the late illustrious deceased were privately removed from Walmer Castle, in a Hearse drawn by four horses, attended by an escort of the Rifle Brigade, and followed by three Mourning Coaches, each drawn by four horses, in the first of which were the Marquess Douro (now Duke of Wellington), Lord Arthur Hay, and the Captain of Walmer Castle (John J. Watts, Esq.); in the second, Thomas Charles March, Esq., Chief Clerk of the Department of the Lord Chamberlain of Her Majesty's Household; and in the third, Mr. Kendall and Mr. Collins, servants of the deceased: Minute Guns were fired from the ramparts of Walmer Castle whilst the Procession moved from thence to the Station at Deal. From the Station the Body, attended by the Marquess Douro and the other persons who had followed in the Mourning Coaches, was conveyed by Special Train to London, arriving there at twelve o'clock; and thence, being followed as before, the Body was conveyed under an escort of Life Guards to Chelsea Hospital, where, about three o'clock in the morning of Thursday the 11th, it was received by Norman Hilton Macdonald, Esq., Comptroller of the Lord Chamberlain's Department, and by a Guard of Honour of the 2nd battalion of Grenadier Guards, under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel the Honourable James Lindsey, and a similar Guard of Honour, furnished by the brigade of Foot Guards, mounted daily, until the Remains were removed.

The Remains lay in State in the Great Hall of the Royal Hospital, at Chelsea; the arrangements being under the direction of the Lord Chamberlain.

The Octangular Vestibule, leading to the Great Hall, was hung with Black Cloth in the form of a Tent, and illumined by a Chandelier of eighteen lights, suspended from the Ceiling. On the side opposite the Entrance was a Trophy of thirty Flags, from the Hall of the Hospital, and grouped around the Royal Arms, the whole being surmounted by the Royal Standard of England. On the other side of the Vestibule were Escocheons of the deceased.

The Walls of the Hall were hung with Black Cloth, decorated with the Armorial Escocheons of the deceased, and the ceiling draped with the same material to represent a Tent. The width of the Hall was divided into five parts by four rows of colossal Candelabra, and at the upper or western end, was a Dais reaching across the whole width, having on it twelve Candelabra of four lights each, and ten Columns composed of Spears, covered with Black Velvet, powdered with Laurel Wreaths and Escocheons. The Coffin, covered with Crimson Velvet, was raised upon a Bier on which was a Black Velvet Pall garnished with Escocheons, and at its foot were suspended the Insignia of the numerous Orders of Knighthood conferred upon the illustrious deceased. Upon Pedestals projecting from the Rail surrounding the Bier, were arranged upon Black Velvet Cushions, the British and Foreign Field-Marshals' Batons of the late Duke, surmounted by the respective national flags; and upon others, at the head of the Coffin, were placed the Great Banner, and the Banner of Wellesley; the Guidon, the Standard, and the Bannerols of the lineage of the deceased were ranged on either side the Bier, and the Majesty Escocheon (upon a Cloth of Gold), was suspended from the Wall at the head of the Coffin. In front of the Dais was a trophy of the Surcoat, Sword and Targe, Helm and Crest, and the Spurs of the deceased. Over the Bier was a Canopy of Black Velvet (lined with Silver Tissue and enriched with Silvered Cornice and Vallance, Escocheons, Pennons, and Plumes), from which depended four Curtains, also of Black Velvet (similarly lined), edged with Silver Lace.

On the afternoon of the 11th November the following officers of the Grenadier Guards, viz.: Colonel Godfrey Thornton (commanding Grenadier Guards), Lieutenant-Colonel Hon. James Lindsay, Major Studholme Brownrigg, and Captain Cuthbert George Ellison, with 100 rank and file of the First Battalion, attended at the Hall of the Royal Hospital. The Officers of the Guard, and of the Lord Chamberlain's Department, were seated as Mourners about the Coffin, and 50 men lined either side of the Hall, resting on their Arms reversed, both Officers and men remaining till the Hall was cleared.

On Friday, November 12, were admitted to the Hall, by tickets from the Lord Chamberlain, the Foreign Ambassadors and Ministers, Peers and Peeresses, Members of Parliament, Officers of the Army and Navy, and such other persons as the Lord Chamberlain deemed entitled to the privilege.

On Saturday, November 13, and from Monday, November 15, to Wednesday, November 17, the public were admitted, without restriction from nine o'clock in the morning until four o'clock on the afternoon of each day.

On each day of the public admission a detachment from one or other of the Battalions of Foot Guards in London attended to perform a like duty to that of the Grenadier Guards on the 11th, the Officers in command of each detachment, and the Comptroller of the Lord Chamberlain's Department, being seated alternately at the head of the Coffin, whilst other Officers of the Guard, with those of the Lord Chamberlain, sat on either side, being relieved every two hours; Warders of the Tower were stationed on the Dais, during the whole time of the Lying in State.

The Supporters of the Pall were seated on each side of the Body. The Officers bearing the Bannerols were ranged on either side behind the Supporters of the Pall.

The CHIEF MOURNER was seated in a Chair at the head of the Body: his Supporters on either side; the Train-bearer was seated behind, with the Lord Charles Wellesley on the right, and the Hon. and Rev. The Foreign Batons were held and supported during the Ceremony by the distinguished persons before named, who, with the Marquess of Anglesey and the Officers representing the Army of Brunswick, occupied seats at the foot of the Coffin.

The Body being placed on a Bier and the Pall removed, the Hat and Sword were taken from the Coffin, and the Coronet and Cushion placed thereon, as also the Deceased's Baton as Field-Marshal of the British Army.

The Choir then chanted the 39th Psalm, "Dixi Custodiam," and the 90th Psalm, "Domine Refugium," (the music of the two Psalms composed by the Earl of Mornington), immediately after which an Anthem was sung (the music by Mr. John Goss, Organist of Saint Paul's); the Dean, Dr. Millman then read the lesson, after which "Nunc Dimittis" (the music by Beethoven) was chaunted, followed by a Dirge, accompanied by Trumpets (the music also by Mr. Goss).

The Dirge being concluded, the Body was lowered into the vault, amid the solemn strains of the Dead March, after which the Choir sang "Man that is born of a woman," and other sentences (music by Croft and Purcell).

After the committal, the whole Choir sang the sentence "I heard a voice from Heaven," (music by Croft); the remainder of the Service followed; and at the conclusion of the Collect was sung the Anthem "His Body is buried in peace" (from Handel's Funeral Anthem), and the Burial Service being ended, Garter advanced from his place at the foot of the coffin, and proclaimed the Style of the deceased, as follows:—

Thus it hath pleased Almighty God to take out of this transitory life unto His Divine Mercy, the late Most High, Mighty, and Most Noble Prince,

The Comptroller of the Household of the Deceased then advanced, and breaking his Staff, delivered the pieces to Garter, by whom they were deposited in the Grave.

The hymn, "Sleepers awake," (the music by Mendelsshon), was then sung, and upon its conclusion, the Lord Bishop of London pronounced the Blessing; after which, upon a signal given, the Guns at the Tower fired, and the Trumpets sounded a wail at the Western Entrance of the Cathedral, which concluded the Ceremony.

Mr. Goss presided at the Organ, and Mr. Turle, Organist of Westminster Abbey, led the Choir.

Knights of the several Orders wore their Collars.

The Queen's royal will and pleasure for the Public Interment of the Duke of Wellington having, by Her Majesty's command, been communicated to Parliament, it was determined by both Houses that they would attend the solemnity in the Cathedral, the House of Lords being represented in the Procession by the Lord Chancellor, and the House of Commons by their Speaker; the Members of both Houses accordingly repaired to St. Paul's by Eleven o'clock, where galleries had been provided for their reception in the Centre Area, one on the south side for the Peers (where also the eldest sons of Peers were provided with seats in the back row), and one on the north side for the House of Commons.

A gallery immediately in front of the Choir was erected for the Pecresses, who had signified their wish to witness the solemnity, each accompanied by a lady; where also were seated the wives of the Cabinet Ministers present, as also the Lady Mayoress. In front of the Peeresses' gallery sat Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Cambridge, and Her Royal Highness the Princess Mary Adelaide, attended by Baron Knesebeck and the Suite of Her Royal Highness.

A gallery was provided on the North side of the Area for the following Members of the Corps Diplomatique and distinguished Foreigners who were present upon the occasion, viz.:—

His Serene Highness the Prince of Hohenlohe Langenburg, G.C.B.
Prince Hermann of Hohenlohe Langenburg.

The extensive military arrangements in honour of the illustrious Deceased, as Field-Marshal and Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's Forces, having rendered it absolutely necessary to abridge the civil part of the ceremonial, by restricting it to deputations from those public bodies only, which were immediately connected with the deceased, and to a representation only of the classes composing the Procession, seats were provided in the Area for such other persons of those classes, who had signified their desire to be present, though not taking part in the Procession ; viz.:—

Privy Councillors, under the degree of the Peerage, the Vice-Chancellors, the Justices of both Benches, the Barons of the Exchequer, Knights Grand Cross, Knights Commanders and Companions of the Bath, and the Law Officers of the Crown, with such members of the Deputations from Public Bodies as were not in the Procession.

"intituled 'An Act for the better administration "'of justice in His Majesty's Privy Council, and "'to extend its jurisdiction and powers,'" it was amongst other things provided that it should be competent for Her Majesty, by an Order or Orders, to be from time to time for that purpose made, with the advice of Her Privy Council, to provide for the admission of any appeal or appeals to Her Majesty in Council from any judgments, sentences, decrees, or orders of any Court of Justice within any British colony or possession abroad, although such Court shall not be a Court of errors or a Court of appeal within such colony or possession; and it shall also be competent to Her Majesty, by any such Order or Orders as aforesaid, to make all such provisions as to Her Majesty in Council shall seem meet for the instituting and prosecuting any such appeals, and for carrying into effect any such decisions or sentences as Her Majesty in Council shall pronounce thereon: Provided always, that it shall be competent to Her Majesty in Council to revoke, alter, and amend any such order or orders as aforesaid, as to Her Majesty in Council shall seem meet.

And whereas it is expedient that provision should be made in pursuance of the said recited enactment to enable parties to appeal in civil causes from the decisions of the Supreme Court of the province of New Brunswick to Her Majesty in Council, the same not being a court of error or of appeal.

It is hereby ordered by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice of her Privy Council, that any person or persons may appeal to Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, in her or their Privy Council, from any final judgment, decree, order, or sentence of the said Supreme Court of the province of New Brunswick, as a court of civil judicature, or as a court of revenue or of escheat, in such manner, within such time, and under and subject to such rules, regulations, and limitations as are hereinafter mentioned; that is to say: in case any such judgment, decree, order, or sentence shall be given or pronounced for or in respect of any sum or matter at issue above the amount or value of three hundred pounds sterling, or in case such judgment, decree, order, or sentence shall involve directly or indirectly, any claim, demand, or question to or respecting property in any civil right amounting to or of the value of three hundred pounds sterling, or in case the matter in question relates to the taking or demanding any duty payable to Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, or to any fee of office, or other such like matter or things, whereby the rights of Her Majesty, her heirs or successors, may be bound, the person or persons feeling aggrieved by any such judgment, decree, order, or sentence may, within fourteen days next after the same shall have been pronounced, made, or given, apply to the said Court by motion for leave to appeal therefrom to Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, in her or their Privy Council, or if the said Court be not sitting, then by petition to either of the judges of the said Court. And in case such leave to appeal shall be prayed by the party or parties who is or are directed to pay any such sum of money or perform any duty, the said Court or such judge as aforesaid shall, and is hereby empowered either to direct that the judgment, decree, order, or sentence appealed from shall be carried into execution, or that the execution thereof shall be suspended pending the said appeal, as to the said Court or such judge as aforesaid may appear to be most consistent with real and substantial justice. And in case the said Court or such judge as aforesaid shall direct such judgment, decree, order, or sentence to be carried into execution, the person or persons in whose favour the same shall be given, shall, before the execution thereof, enter into good and sufficient security, to be approved by the said Court or such judge as aforesaid, for the due performance of such judgment or order as Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, shall think fit to make upon such appeal. And that in all cases, security shall also be given by the party or parties appellant in a bond or mortgage, or personal recognizance, not exceeding the value of five hundred pounds sterling, for the prosecution of the appeal and for the payment of all such costs as may be awarded by Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, or by the Judicial Committee of Her Majesty's Privy Council to the party or parties respondent: and that such security as aforesaid for the prosecution of the appeal, and for the payment of all such costs as may be awarded, be completed within twenty-eight days from the date of the motion or petition for leave to appeal: and the party or parties appellant shall then, and not otherwise, be at liberty to prefer and prosecute his, her, or their appeal to Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, in her or their Privy Council, in such manner and under such rules as are or may be observed in appeals made to Her Majesty from Her Majesty's colonies and plantations abroad.

And it is further ordered, that it shall be lawful for the said Court, at its discretion, on the motion, or if the said Court be not sitting, then for either of the judges of the said Court, upon the petition of any party who considers himself aggrieved by any preliminary or interlocutory judgment, decree, order, or sentence of the said Court, to grant permission to such party to appeal against the same to Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, in her or their Privy Council, subject to the same rules, regulations, and limitations as are herein expressed respecting appeals from final judgments, decrees, orders, and sentences.

Provided also, that if in any action, suit, or other proceeding, it shall so happen that no final judgment, decree, order, or sentence can be duly given in consequence of a disagreement of opinion between the judges of the said Court, then in such case, the final judgment, decree, order, or sentence may be entered, pro formâ, on the petition of any of the parties to the action, suit, or other proceeding, according to the opinion of the Chief Justice, or in his absence, of the Senior Puisne Judge of the said Court. Provided, that such judgment, decree, order, or sentence shall be deemed a judgment, decree, order, or sentence of the Court for the purpose of an appeal against the same, but not for any other purpose.

Provided always, and it is hereby ordered, that nothing herein contained doth or shall extend or be construed to extend to take away or abridge the undoubted right and authority of Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, upon the humble petition of any person or persons aggrieved by any judgment or determination of either of the said Courts, at any time to admit his, her, or their appeal therefrom, upon such terms and upon such securities, limitations, restrictions, and regulations, as Her Majesty, or her heirs or successors, shall think fit, and to reverse, correct, or vary such judgment or determination as to Her Majesty, her heirs or successors, shall seem meet.

And it is further ordered, that in all cases of appeal made from any judgment, order, sentence, or decree of the said Court to Her Majesty, her heirs or successors, in her or their Privy Council, such Court shall certify and transmit to Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, in her or their Privy Council, a true and correct copy of all evidence, proceedings, judgments, decrees, and orders, had or made, in such cases appealed, so far as the same have relation to the matters of appeal, such copies to be certified under the seal of the said Court. And that the said Court shall also certify and transmit to Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, in her or their Privy Council, a copy of the reasons given by the judges of such Court, or by any of such judges for or against the judgment or determination appealed against. And it is further directed and ordained that the said Court shall, in all cases of appeal to Her Majesty, her heirs or successors, conform to and execute, or cause to be executed, such judgments and orders as Her Majesty, her heirs or successors, in her or their Privy Council shall think fit to make in the premises, in such manner as any original judgment, decree, or decretal orders, or other order or rule of the said Court, should or might have been executed.

Admiralty, 30*th December* 1852.

A DISPATCH, of which the following is a copy, has been received at this office from Commodore Lambert, dated the 14th November 1852.

No. 81.

OPERATIONS IN THE IRRAWADDY RIVER.

Sir, Fox's boat, at Prome, 14 Nov. 1852.

I REQUEST you may be pleased to inform the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty that on the morning of the 2nd instant I left Rangoon for the Irrawaddy River, but after proceeding through the Panlang creek, I found that the steamers I had previously sent on were not able to cross the bar at Yangensiah, therefore I transferred the troops they had on board to the small steamers, which had just then joined me, and directed the larger ones to return to Rangoon, with orders to enter the Irrawaddy, by the way of the China Bukeer, which has been effected.

2. The inclosures numbered from 1 to 5 will place their lordships in possession of the operations which have been conducted by Captain Loch, C.B., of Her Majesty's ship Winchester, and Commander Shadwell, of Her Majesty's steam-sloop Sphynx; the latter officer's proceedings have been confined to the lower part of the Irrawaddy, and latterly entirely to Henzadah.

3. It is my intention that Commander Wainwright, of the Winchester, shall relieve Commander Shadwell, who has now been some time employed in these arduous duties.

4. I shall not comment on the energy and spirit displayed by Captain Loch, for it is apparent that the service he has rendered is brilliant and useful, and my lords will, I am sure, express their satisfaction at his conduct.

5. I have stationed the Enterprise steamer off Aboukton, and the general has placed sixty men on board her, to drive away the enemy, should they again make their appearance.

6. The navigation of the Irrawaddy is now intricate, and requires care, owing to the shallowness of the water in many parts; but, by proper attention, the small steamers will find no difficulty in proceeding up and down the river, and the boats under convoy can at all times keep up a supply of provisions and stores; though I have suggested it would be desirable if a small military force occupied the two or three stations on the banks, for the purpose of protecting the people who supply the steamers with wood, &c., from the bands of troops, or Dacoits, which are continually lurking in the neighbourhood.

7. It is my intention to return to Rangoon tomorrow.

GEORGE R. LAMBERT,
Commodore First Class,
Commander-in-Chief.

To the Secretary of the Admiralty,

Inclosure No. 1 in No. 81.

Her Majesty's steam-sloop Sphinx's pinnace,
Sir, Henzadale, 1st Nov. 1852.

I HAVE the honour to inform you that after the detachment of the 40th Bengal Native Infantry, under command of Captain A. Becher, were left at this place on the 29th ultimo, in pursuance of the arrangements of Captain Loch, Captain Becher and myself having reconnoitred the ground in rear of the town, and having collected information from the headman, determined on removing his men to a Pongi house, nearly in the rear of the centre of the town, and according to present information, facing the advanced posts of the Dacoits.

On Saturday evening I advanced the marines to the Pongi house on the left of our position, which had previously been occupied by the sepoys.

I may observe, en passant, that a paved road running "fore and aft" the town, parallel to the bank of the river in rear of these two positions, afforded the means of retreat, if necessary, to the boats.

Arrangements were made with the headman, Moung-Gon-Glay, to station his armed men in intermediate stations between these two positions (which are about a mile and a half apart), so as to keep up the communication, and also to keep armed parties on our flanks.

This morning, at 8·30 A.M., I received a message from Lieutenant Nightingale, Royal Marines, to the effect that the Dacoits had advanced in force along the banks of the river, and were burning the detached villages on his left; I immediately sent to Captain Becher to acquaint him, and advanced with all the available seamen to the support of the Marines.

On arrival, I found that the enemy were within long musket range of the quarters of the Marines; after a sharp fusillade they retired; we cautiously advanced under cover of the growing paddy fields, and ultimately drove the enemy back into the open country, the Sepoys, under Captain Becher, clearing the ground to our right and in our front.

As an illustration of their boldness I may mention that the Dacoits have burned some houses in a grove half a mile to the left of our position.

The Henzadah people report only one of their men wounded, but several of the enemy, and as an earnest of success, they have taken two prisoners, and report five or six wounded. None of our men were hurt.

It is quite clear that the presence of our small force here is of great value in giving confidence to the men of Henzadah to resist the Dacoits and Burmese soldiery, with whom, the remnants of the Bassein army, are said to be making common cause; but I will not conceal from your Excellency my opinion, that for the effectual protection of the valuable crops of rice in its rear, a larger and more perfect military force than is now assembled here is essentially necessary.

I have,

(Signed) CHAS. F. A. SHADWELL, Commander.

Enclosure No. 2 in No. 81.

Her Majesty's ship Winchester's gig,
Sir, at Prome, 2nd Nov. 1852.

I HAVE the honour to report to your Excellency, that this morning I proceeded down the River Irrawaddy, in the Hon. East India Company's steamer Medusa, for the purpose of making a combined reconnaissance with Brigadier Sir John Cheape, K.C.B., of the right bank of the river from Padangmew to the White Pagoda, a mile and a half below Prome.

At daylight, Sir John embarked with his personal staff and the light company of Her Majesty's 18th Royal Irish, 80 strong, at the same time the boats named in the margin* having joined us, I quitted Prome, and steamed down the river. On passing the White Pagoda, (from whence our boats have been frequently annoyed with a distant fire of jingalls and musketry,) I perceived that a strong breastwork was in the course of construction on its right, not a vestige of which was perceptible when I quitted Prome on the 13th instant; and that some two and a half or three miles inland the jungle was being cleared, and two stockades were being built.

Leaving the boats, with the exception of my gig, anchored out of musket range of the enemy's shore, we stood down the river, and at 8·30 A.M. anchored abreast the Honourable East India Company's steamer Enterprize, off Padangmew. I directed Captain Niblett to proceed to the anchorage under the heights of Akoukton, and remain there until he received further orders.

I then steamed back to the boats anchored within three hundred yards above the White Pagoda, and disembarked the brigadier, his escort, and the naval brigade. Sir John Cheape ordered an advance, and immediately on our crowning the terrace beneath the Pagoda, the enemy's skirmishers Sesostris' boats—pinnace, Lieutenant Lewis, Mr. Capel, midshipman, Dr. Walsh, assistant surgeon, 14 men, 11 marine artillerymen; 1st cutter, Lieutenant Windus, 11 men; 2nd cutter, Mr. Duval, mate, 11 men. who lined the jungle were discovered, evidently expecting that we should have come on by the lane beneath the Pagoda; on their being driven in, a fire was opened by them from the high ground inland, their stockade being unoccupied. They were immediately driven from their different posts with the utmost expedition, until we attained our object, viz., a distinct view of the two stockades, which they are throwing up, and a knowledge of the country in the vicinity.

At this time, the enemy were in possession of two commanding positions between us and their stockade, which they were immediately driven out of. The heat was now so intense, and three men having received strokes from the sun, I halted under cover of the enemy's look-out houses for an hour.

Having accomplished our reconnaissance, I caused the naval brigade to return to the river stockade, Sir John Cheape recalled the Royal Irish at the same time, and we burned the greater part of the lower breastwork, leaving the larger and more valuable timbers on the beach to be brought to Prome to-morrow, for the use of the steamers.

It is with much satisfaction that I have to express my approbation of the zeal, good conduct, and bravery of every officer and man of the force employed.

I have to mention the conspicuous zeal and gallantry displayed by Commander F. Beauchamp Seymour, R.N., serving with me as a volunteer, from whom I received most useful and ready assistance,

I beg to bring before your Excellency's favourable notice the zeal and gallant conduct of Lieutenants Hillyar and Pearse, of the Winchester, also Lieutenants Lewis and Windus, of Sesostris; and I have to notice the officers named in the margin, all of whom merit my thanks and approbation.

Lieutenant Hillyar has while serving in the Irrawaddy always shown himself foremost in the performance of every duty required of him.

I am happy to state that the reconnaissance and destruction of the stockades was effected with only the single casualty of a marine artillery-man* of the Medusa, wounded badly in the arm.

The loss of the enemy I am unable to state, for they retreated through thick jungle.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) GRANVILLE G. LOCH,
Captain and Senior Naval Officer in the Irrawaddy.

To His Excellency Commodore G. R. Lambert, Commander-in Chief.

Enclosure No. 3 in No. 81.

Her Majesty's ship Winchester's gig, at Prome, 5th Nov. 1852.

Sir,

I HAVE the honour to inform your Excellency that I landed with the seamen and marines named in the margin†, stormed the heights of Akoukton, and captured five guns, defended by 350 or 400 men, yesterday afternoon, between the hours of 3 and half-past 5 P.M., and I am happy to say without the loss of a man.

The landing was covered by the fire of the Honourable East India Company's steamer Medusa, Lieutenant Fraser commanding, which was Seymour, volunteer, Mr. Gregory, naval cadet, 4 men, 3 marines; barge, Lieutenant Hillyar, Mr. Round, mate, Mr. Slade, assistant surgeon, 15 men; pinnace, Lieutenant Pearse, Mr. Bond, mate, 13 men; H. C. steam-frigate Sesostris, Lieutenant Lewis, Mr. Duval, mate, 22 seamen, 8 marine artillerymen; H. C. S. so admirable that to it I attribute our good fortune in being able to ascend a narrow pathway, winding up the ridge of the hill to the outer breastwork, every yard of which might have been defended by a handful of men, screened from sight in the dense underwood growing on either side, against almost any number of assailants. We found a Burmese, wounded by a shell from the steamer, lying in the intrenchment; he told me the troops were before us, so on we went, and at last were met by a partial fire, which after an immediate and rapid charge was never renewed, nor could we again see the enemy through jungle everywhere as thick as a bramble-bush.

The guns were loaded and primed, with the exception of one which was fired with a volley of musketry and some jingalls at the Medusa as she approached the cliff, just before anchoring; four of them were iron, 9 feet 18-pounders, one an iron 6 feet 9-pounder: having no powder to burst them, I threw them over the cliff, and moved the force slowly back to the boats, protected by a rear-guard. When it was embarked, I directed Lieutenant Frazer to anchor the Medusa for the night at the entrance of the creek, facing the cliff, and commanding the entire front.

I experience great pleasure in having so soon again to bring before your Excellency's notice the gallant bearing and good conduct of all the officers and men engaged.

When they landed, they saw the difficulty and apparent danger of the pass, and they knew the superiority in numbers of the enemy, they had no reason to contemplate so easy a victory; yet they formed with as much steadiness as old soldiers, and with the cheerful alacrity which always distinguishes British seamen and marines. Lieutenant Hillyar, of the Winchester, commanded under me, and again added to his well-known character of an able, zealous officer.

Lieutenant Lewis, first of the Honourable East India Company's steamer Sesostris, formed and led his marines and seamen in a masterly manner; and I gladly recommend him to your Excellency's notice.

Mr. Brazier, senior mate of the Medusa, landed with his men, and attracted my attention by his zeal.

To Lieutenant Frazer, commanding the Medusa, much is due for the able way he handled his vessel in the strong tides and eddies where he had to anchor; and the most effective aid he rendered by his fire. He is a most zealous officer, and has, and is rendering daily, most valuable service to the naval and military force at Prome.

I cannot refrain mentioning, that one quarter of an hour did not elapse from the time the Medusa anchored, before my people were formed on the beach, and the boats safely moored under charge of men to fight their guns.

Commodore F. Beauchamp Seymour, a voluntcer serving up this river, landed with me, and was always to be found in the front.

The capture of these guns has again opened the river to Prome; and I rejoice that the information I received of their having been planted there, reached me in time to secure the safety of the expected steamers from Rangoon, laden with troops.

I shall leave the Winchester barge under Lieutenant Hillyar (as the Enterprise is not yet available) to guard the heights. But I cannot refrain from expressing my extreme regret they are not occupied by some of Her Majesty's troops.

I have,

(Signed) GRANVILLE G. LOCH,
Captain and Senior Officer in the Irrawaddy.

To His Excellency Commodore G. R. Lambert, Commander-in-Chief.

Enclosure No. 4 in No. 81.

Sir, Prome, 10th Nov. 1852.

I HAVE the honour to inform your Excellency that having received intelligence from the officer commanding the gun-boat, which I left to watch the heights of Akoukton, to the effect that the men had reappeared there in force, armed with jingalls and musketry, with which they had opened a fire on him, and that he was apprehensive during the night they might possibly succeed in mounting guns there; I decided immediately on proceeding there with a detachment of seamen and marines, to which Sir John Cheape kindly added a party of twelve sappers under Lieutenant Denison, and I accordingly quitted Prome yesterday morning in the Medusa steamer, accompanied by Major Allen, Quarter-Master General of the Forces in Burmah. On arriving off the village, situated a little above the slope leading to the upper ridge of the heights, I disembarked, and after ascending them, detached Lieutenant Hillyar with thirty men to endeavour by a circuitous route to get into the enemy's rear; we then continued our march along the ridge, and at 3 P.M. reached the position, when we captured the enemy's guns on the 4th instant, which appeared much in the same state as we had left it, with the exception that the enemy had partially succeeded in raising one of the guns, which had fallen on a ledge below the parapet.

At this moment the Bentinck, bearing your Excellency's pendent, was descried beneath us, and at the same time the party under Lieutenant Hillyar joined us, having met with a few of the enemy and captured some of their muskets.

Having with much difficulty succeeded in getting the only two guns which had not fallen into the river into a position where we might burst them, and it being nearly dark, I re-embarked the men, and next morning sent them on shore under Lieutenant Hillyar, who effected the destruction of the guns by bursting them.

I have, &c.

Captain.

Enclosure No 5 in No. 81.

Her Majesty's ship Winchester's gig, Prome, 12th Nov. 1852.

THE attack and capture of the fort opposite Upper Prome took place so immediately under your Excellency's notice, that but little is left for me to detail.

The force placed by you under my orders consisted of the steamers and boats named in the margin*.

I intended the Sesostris to take up a position to cover the advance of the two small steamers containing troops, but on observing her take the ground, I desired the commander of the Mahanuddy to proceed ahead of her, pass the batteries,

* H. C. steamer Mahanuddy, H. Simpson, Esq., towing Winchester's gig, 6 men; barge, 15 men, Lieutenant Hillyar, Mr. Round, mate, and Mr. Slade, assistant surgeon; launch, 21 men, Lieutenant Nelson, Mr. Hinde, mate, and the Honourable H. D. Lascelles, midshipman. H. C. steam-frigate Sesostris, Commander Campbell. H. C. steamer Medusa, Lieutenant Fraser commauding, towing Winchester's pinnace, 8 men, Lieutenant Pearse, and Mr. Bond, mate; cutter, 9 men, Mr. Allingham, midshipman, Mr. Gregory, N. cadet. Sesostris and Medusa's landing party, Lieutenant Lewis, Mr. Duval, mate, 42 men; Lieutenant Fraser, Mr. Douglas, mate, 25 men. Fervaz, Mr. Hurlock, midshipman, 8 men.

and anchor his ship close to the bank above them. The Medusa was to follow us, but that vessel having unfortunately got into the Chow-chow water, was unable to keep her station, notwithstanding Lieutenant Fraser used every exertion to do so.

On arriving within range of the forts they opened a steady and well directed fire on the Mahanuddy, which was returned with shell, and having most fortunately passed them without a casualty, I disembarked at a landing-place just above them, which the native guide pointed out. We formed on the beach, and I found myself at the head of a reduced force of 42 men, who, with 50 men of Her Majesty's 80th regiment under Captain Montgomery, made a total of 104 officers and men.

We advanced by a narrow pathway leading to the rear of the Upper Stockade. When in sight of this work, I had the gratification also of seeing the Bentinck, bearing your Excellency's pendant, open fire upon it. We advanced at the double, charged into the fort, and found that the enemy had retreated to the second.

Leaving a party in possession, we at once moved rapidly on to the Lower Stockade, which was also deserted by the time we entered it, and I regret to say that the enemy had here succeeded in removing their ordnance. From the position we found the guns in on the larger work, it was evident that they were in the act of withdrawing them also, when we appeared. We captured five guns and a jingall, besides a considerable supply of ammunition.

Although your Excellency visited the works yourself, might I be permitted to call your attention to their admirable construction. They were casemated stockades, formed in the shape of a horse-shoe, with three strong lines of abattes in their front; within, they had circular shell-proof galleries, into which they could retreat, and also use them for magazines.

The officers and men behaved with spirit and coolness, and I have great satisfaction in repeating to your Excellency names mentioned on previous occasions.

Commander F. Beauchamp Seymour again volunteered, and was forward on every occasion.

Lieutenant Hillyar brought up his small detachment rapidly and well. I left him in charge to burst the guns and destroy the works, in conjunction with the Sappers, which service was effectually performed.

The Medusa came up after we had captured the forts and instantly landed the seamen, Marines, and artillery-men (enumerated in the margin) and fifty men of her Majesty's 51st Regiment, who chased the retreating enemy into the jungle.

The Honourable Company's steam-frigate Sesostris, Commander Campbell, after she floated, opened her fire on the forts at a distant range.

The co-operation of the half company of her Majesty's 80th Regiment, under Captain Montgomery, with my broken party, was most satisfactory; and had we not advanced on the instant it is my opinion the enemy would have continued longer at their guns, besides lining the jungle with skirmishers, through which the narrow pathway went. I have, &c.,
